

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION.

THE present volume contains the remaining portion of the Guisbrough Chartulary from the original in the British Museum (Cott. MSS. Cleop. D. ii), commencing at fo. 234. It extends with interpolations down to No. 1089, after which the documents printed are from different sources, chiefly the Dodsworth MSS., now in the Bodleian at Oxford, and the Archbishops' Registers at York.

The earlier portion of the Chartulary relates almost exclusively to property belonging to the Convent in the neighbourhood of Guisbrough. These documents are succeeded by the deeds concerning their other estates in the East and North Ridings, Lincolnshire, Cumberland, Durham, and Scotland. Except the Cumberland series, and a few others, none of these documents have ever appeared in print before.

The general character of the Chartulary is of the usual type, chiefly relating to grants of land, tithes, and advowsons. Considerable light is thrown on the topography and genealogy of the district by the evidence contained in the documents printed here. Local heraldry, too, receives valuable confirmation from the contemporary authority furnished by seals attached to documents still existing or described in transcripts. The reader will find a list of all instances of this kind in the index, under the heading "Arms." The names of many places, which in their modern forms are unintelligible, here become pregnant with meaning. To take a couple of examples out of many. Fowgill in Ingleby Arncliffe only sounds grotesque, but in its original form, Fulekelde, the full or possibly foul spring, the meaning is quite clear. Heselgrive in Marske is the griff or abrupt ravine overgrown with hazel shrubs, now Haselgrove, partly visible to the traveller on the sea-side of the railway shortly before arriving at Saltburn. Here the griff has been corrupted into grove, a word conveying an entirely wrong meaning. Skinninggrove, formerly Scineregrive, is another instance of an almost similar change.

In a couple of instances the subject-matter of the gift calls for a few remarks. At Coatham, and there alone, although the Canons had property elsewhere on the sea-coast, they possessed salt-pans or salinæ. The natural conformation of the district explains their occurrence here. It is flat and marshy, as the names Coatham Marsh and Marsh House bear witness, and is also intersected by sluggish streams, admitting the sea-water some way up their course, so as to render the flooding of the salt-pans at high tide a matter of no difficulty. In only one case (No. 786) is the exact site of a salt-pan mentioned. Here a grant was made of a "salina in mariscis de Cotum cum areis et omnibus pert. suis," at the rent of a sceppa of salt a year. The salt seems to have been made by a process of evaporation, aided and perfected by the application of artificial heat. Memorials of this ancient industry are still existing in Coatham. In the survey of the estates of Sir John Bulmer of Wilton, who suffered attainder for his share in the Pilgrimage of Grace, mention is frequently made of salt-hills, or montes salis, as they are indifferently called. It is almost impossible not to associate this name with the extensive mounds, clearly of an artificial character, still observable from the railway on the right-hand side approaching Redcar from the North. These mounds arose from the excavations necessary in making the salt-pans, which have been of very considerable size.

Another noticeable class of gifts was that of nativi, or servi. Both males and females were given (Nos. 696, 813A), as well as men with their wives and children and descendants and all their belongings (No. 1071). In one case (No. 1162) the Convent had a manor, Castle Eden, and all the nativi in it given to them. There is little evidence to show what became of these serfs, but in the few cases where it is possible to follow their history, it is clear that they, or at all events their descendants, in a short period managed to acquire a higher status than that of a nativus. Torbern (Thorbjörn), John de Hasel's man, was certainly nothing more than a nativus when he was given to the Priory with his wife, sons, daughters and toft. The possession of this toft seems to point to his being attached to the place, and that he could not be sold or granted separate. In technical language, he was a villein regardant, and not one in gross. Not many years later Torbern's sons, John and Nicholas, occupied such a position as to be able to receive a grant of land, to be holden as freehold (Nos. 1078-9). This is not the only instance in these pages of the steady amelioration in the condition of the nativi. Picot de Lascelles gave to the Priory, some time before 1229, a bovate of land at Aylesby in Lincolnshire, with a man called Ralph, son of William, son of Turgis, his descendants, his mother, Gunnild, and all their chattels (No. 229). In No. 1138 Roger, son and heir of Robert de Laceles, quitclaimed to the Canons all right to the bovate of land which Picot had given them with Ralph, son of William, so that they might hold the said Ralph and his belongings as their freeman (ut liberum hominem suum), clearly showing that Ralph had been emancipated after he had come into the possession of the Priory. Whatever may have been the wishes of the Canons, it is clear that they had to obtain leave before they could manumit their servi. In one case (p. 401) the Archiepiscopal sanction was necessary. In his licence for that purpose Archbishop Zouche gives his reason for assenting to the manumission, namely, that it would be for the benefit of the Monastery. The document last referred to shows that the Convent had servi as late as 1347, and tends to prove that emancipation was only a very slow and gradual process. It is very improbable that philanthropic reasons had much to do with the emancipation of servi on monastic estates, although it might be the cause in individual cases. Economic causes, operating very slowly and almost imperceptibly, until accelerated by the convulsions brought about in the labour world by the effects of the Black Death in the middle and latter part of the fourteenth century, were the true reasons, here as elsewhere, of the conversion of the servus with many services into the freeman subject to a money rent.

The circumstances under which the grants to the Priory were made seldom come to light, but in one very striking case the veil is lifted, and a most discreditable piece of sharp practice on the part of the Canons is made manifest. It occurred in relation to the attempted grant of the advowson of Kirkleatham Church by William de Kilton in the earlier portion of the thirteenth century. The Canons already possessed considerable property at Coatham and Redcar in this parish; so it was not unnatural for them to desire to get possession of the advowson of the parish church. It would seem that they had considerable trouble in persuading Kilton to accede to their wishes. At all events it was not until shortly before his death he made the grant. There are two very unusual circumstances connected with this grant. First, that Kilton should have assured the advowson to them by three separate grants (Nos. 745-7), all in very similar terms, and apparently equally valid; and secondly, that they should have put themselves to the very considerable expense of getting a confirmation of this solitary gift from King John in 1210 (No. 750), whereas in every other royal confirmation they had waited till they could group a number of gifts together. For some years no steps were taken to test the validity of the grant. This most probably arose from there having been no vacancy in the living, when the question of the title to the advowson could be tried, or the delay may have arisen in consequence of the minority of William de Kilton's niece and heiress, Maud, wife of Richard de Alta Ripa. Whatever the cause for delay, it was not till 1221 that Maud and her husband brought an action against the Prior, claiming the advowson, and alleging that Kilton's grant ought not to prejudice their right, because when he made it he was on his deathbed and not in full possession of his faculties, "fuit in lecto mortali, et in tali tempore quo non fuit potens sui." The Prior traversed this plea, claiming that the grant was a good one (No. 752A). The matter was not finally settled until the spring of 1229, when the Prior practically admitted the validity of the plea of undue influence, by releasing any right in the presentation to Maud and her second husband, Robert de Thweng, in whose descendants the patronage long remained vested.

The points of contact with the general history of the country are very few and not of very great importance. Master Vaccarius, the earliest teacher of Roman law at Oxford, occurs as a witness to No. 684, apparently executed at York. The Thwengs, who were near neighbours of the Priory at Kilton and Kirkleatham, distinguished themselves in various ways in their country's service during the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, as appears from their pedigree (p. 100n). A contract to serve as an esquire at arms in the Agincourt campaign shows the very business-like way in which war was regarded at that time. The expense of fitting out and supporting a man of this rank must have been heavy. He was entitled to a considerable retinue, two valets, a lad, four horses, and other suitable equipments, autres regards semblables (p. 183n).

The course of public events, as far as appears from these pages, had for a long time little direct influence on the fortunes of the Priory. In one case national misfortune was their gain, as on the loss of Normandy, they got a grant of Waupley, which had belonged to William de Saucey, a Norman, who adhered to the King's enemies in France. The long Scotch wars, on the other hand, brought them nothing but loss. Except their Lincolnshire property, which was protected by its remoteness from the Scotch Border, all their property suffered terribly. In 1276, before these wars commenced, their goods temporal and spiritual, not including their Scotch property, were valued at two thousand marcs (No. 219). Sixteen years later they were heavily burdened with debt, and were very proud at being able to pay off £225 18s. 5d. in a year (p. 367).<sup>1</sup> Not unnaturally the Canons were very outspoken at the heavy losses they had sustained from the heartbreaking plundering of the Scotch and freebooters too (per miserabilem Scotorum et etiam schavaldorum depredationem).

<sup>1</sup> In 1328 their estates had been so ravaged by the frequent invasions of the Scotch, that they were quite unable to contribute a tenth voted by the Northern Convocation, according to the old rating. Commissioners, appointed to inquire into the truth of the matter, certified on the evidence of eye-witnesses (oculata fide), that a sum of £36 was as much as they could fairly be called on to contribute as their share in the tenth, on their temporal property in the diocese of York, which was then taxed afresh in consequence of the losses caused by the Scotch (p. 399).

Another great calamity, which occurred just before the outbreak of these wars, the burning down of the Priory church, put them to very great additional expense. Everything seemed to contribute to their impoverishment. Poor as they were, they had to find quarters for members of their own Order, who had been expelled from their houses by the Scotch. Brinkburn, Jedburgh, and Hexham each sent a Canon. The Queen, to increase their trouble, quartered a servant on them, who, not content with his food and raiment and a pension of 20s. a year, made them keep a servant and his horse. This they bore, but when Edward II. threatened to fill the place of a pensioner, appointed by his father, they petitioned to be excused on the ground of their inability to bear any more charges (p. 356). This custom of pensioning an old servant off at the cost of some religious house was a very common one. In 1304, to give another example, Edward I. sent a certain Hugh de Ebor to Guisbrough. He had served the King well and faithfully for a long time, but as the King had been unable to make any suitable provision for him he sent him to the Convent, who were desired, "eidem in victu et vestitu juxta status sui decentiam, quoad vixerit, necessaria ministrare" (Close Roll., 32 Edw. 1. m. 3').

The fall of the Order of the Templars caused a small stir at Guisbrough. One of the Order, Robert de Langton, who had been sent to Bridlington at the dispersion of the Order, was ordered by the Pope to go to Guisbrough. The Canons, who seem to have shared in the popular belief about the enormities attributed to the Templars, utterly refused to admit him, and were only brought to obedience by a threat of excommunication.

We can learn very little of the history of the Priory from the Chartulary. As nearly all the grants were made under the same conditions it is difficult to infer any except general reasons of charity and a desire to please God, for the donor's generosity. The Priory possessions continued increasing, until the Mortmain Acts passed at the close of the thirteenth century put a stop to a great extent to grants to pious uses.

At a comparatively early period in the history of the Priory, and at least a century before the date of the earliest Statute of Mortmain, evidence is not wanting to show that a very natural reaction had arisen against the lavish generosity which had characterized the monastic building age in the last half of the twelfth and the first half of the following century. At Rievaulx this reaction reached its maximum between 1160 and 1180, and is associated by the editor of that Chartulary with the strong feeling which arose about that time against ecclesiastical bodies in consequence of Becket's high-handed proceedings against the Barons who had taken possession of Church or monastic property during Stephen's unsettled reign. This date agrees very well with the commencement of the quarrel between the Bruces and the Priory. The earliest subject of dispute arose about the right to the presentation to the churches of Kirklevington and Skelton. Here Adam de Brus II. was constrained to yield and admit himself in the wrong, although it is far from clear that the Canons' title was a good one.

Another subject of debate could not be so speedily settled. The cause in this case was the proximity of portions of the monastic property to some of the Bruces' best preserves at Glaisdale, which lay so conveniently near for sporting purposes to the Bruces' castle at Castleton. An arrangement was entered into about this matter in the time of the first Peter de Brus (No. 930), but it was not until the time of his son, the second Peter, that the Bruces managed to get rid of these unwelcome neighbours, when they gave property of greater value in Southburn and Bottelburn near Driffield, far away from the family seat (Nos. 121 and 122), so that all the right the Prior retained in the Glaisdale Moors was the common of pasture appurtenant to his freehold of seven bovates in Danby.

At a rather later period a small piece of ground near the park at Skelton was the Naboth's vineyard. The third and last Peter de Brus solved the difficulty by enclosing it in his park, although he did not give the Canons any adequate satisfaction, minime satisfacit. His brother-in-law and successor, Walter de Fauconberg, saw the injustice of this high-handed act, and gave them an equivalent in Marske, and also freed their tenants from the payment of toll (No. 1056).

It is not necessary to say very much of the great fire which took place on May 16, 1289, when the Conventual church with its contents was utterly destroyed. Walter of Hemingburgh, who was a Canon here, gives a full and graphic account of the catastrophe. It is almost the only piece of local information of an historical nature. The fire originated in the carelessness of a plumber, who left his assistants to extinguish the fire which he had been using to mend the leadwork on the south transept. This they did so carelessly that the scattered embers were rekindled by a violent south wind, and the flames arising therefrom speedily spread over the whole church. As Hemingburgh somewhat caustically observed, all they got from the culprits was the exclamation, "What could I do?" The moral he draws from the misfortune is that their successors would learn from their negligence to be more prudent.<sup>1</sup>

While but little of the external history of the House can be learnt from these pages, there is one series of documents of unrivalled interest, which throws considerable light on its internal arrangements, both secular and religious. These are the extracts from the Archbishops' Registers at York, occupying pages 358-411. After making allowance for omissions, which must in the case of the Registers be very numerous, it is clear that as regards the Houses of Austin Canons in the diocese, if we may take Guisbrough as a typical example, (Bridlington, to mention no other, fully confirms this), they were subject to a very minute and constant supervision on the part of their Diocesan. Frequent and searching visitations by the Archbishop in person, or his Commissioners, were followed up by correctiones, which the inmates were bound to carry out to the very letter under threat of the severest punishment. The correctiones, or matters the Archbishop considered required amendment, cover a very wide range of subjects. A very good example, unfortunately a solitary one, is printed on p. 360. Archbishop Wickwaine, in his visitation of the Canons in 1280, found a great number of matters worthy of censure, in respect of which he laid down rules for their better guidance in the future. First of all he ordered the rule of St. Augustine to be strictly followed. No one was to go outside the cloister after compline (completorium), the last service of the day, causa lascivie vel bibendi, on the pretext of visiting guests. They were not to keep expensive schools for rich or poor, except the Chancellor of York considered it for the good of the House. The infirmary was filled with persons who were only pretending to be ill. These were to be immediately turned out and punished, and the really sick treated with greater compassion. In the Frater the food was to be all of one kind and divided equally. Alms were not to be bestowed on unworthy objects, and a costly and extravagant household was to be at once put down. Silence was to be observed more strictly in the cloister, whilst in the choir all were commanded to join in the praises of God. Any member of the choir keeping silence was forthwith to be turned out by the choir-leaders and the bystanders, unless he could plead illness as an excuse. In the way of amusing themselves they were adjured in Christ to prefer edifying discourses rather than filthy and scurrilous tales. Keeping accounts was to be committed to the charge of sharp promising young men, who would clearly understand what was going on. Quarrels were to be avoided, and instead of proclaiming his neighbour's faults, each one was to answer and speak for himself alone. Gifts were not to be received without the Prior's licence, and then only for the common good. Expeditions outside the Priory were strictly forbidden, unless in accordance with their rule. Agents who rapidly became enriched by managing their manors were to be removed at once. The Conversi, who seemed to have been passed over, were, if skilled in the management of temporal affairs, to be brought forward, so that their knowledge might be of use to the Convent. The Prior was ordered not to be too lenient, or, what was worse, fearful, in correcting the Brethren, but, like a considerate and provident prelate, was to frequently instruct and teach the flock committed to his charge, and turn his attention both to spiritual and temporal matters. The Subprior, in hearing confessions and in other affairs which belonged to his office, was to behave himself with such moderation and care, as that at the last day he might receive a recompense full of peace. Certain Canons, who had made themselves notorious for quarrelling and caballing, were debarred from promotion, and commended to the Prior and Subprior for condign punishment. Finally, the Archbishop exhorted them by the witness of the Cross not to rejoice in or hasten one another's fall, but to show true compassion in every possible way with all fear, dreading lest a similar misfortune should befall themselves.

Such are the contents of this very important document, which the Archbishop ordered to be read at the beginning of every month in full chapter. Ralph de Irton, Prior at the time of this visitation, was elected to the Bishopric of Carlisle in the winter of the same year, but the very brief tenure of office of his successor, Adam de Newland, less than a year, may very likely have been caused by the difficulties which arose in enforcing these stringent injunctions.

The conduct of the Convent in regard to this Prior on his retirement showed a generous and kindly spirit (p. 362). Not only was due provision made for his support and maintenance, but what might tend to his comfort and pleasure was not forgotten. For instance, if he desired to give any portion of the food allotted to him to the poor, the Almoner was enjoined to allow him. He was to be allowed to visit his friends living at a distance, and the Bursar was, on being asked, to pay the expenses of four outings (erectiones) in the year, besides politely (curialiter) offering him ten marcs to provide for his expenses. The Prior was not to be called on to render account of how he had spent this sum, but any surplus was to be used for the good of the Convent, his conscience being the sole authority in the matter.

Another matter over which the Archbishops exercised a strict vigilance was the selling of corrodies<sup>1</sup> and farming the proceeds of the various livings belonging to the Priory. As time went on and the Priory began to suffer more severely from the effects of the long-continued Scotch wars, these methods of raising money became more resorted to. The nature of a corrody is well illustrated in an action<sup>1</sup> against the Prior, in which the plaintiff "se pleynt etre diss' de une corrodie, ceste a dire, apprendre chescun jour un blank pay(n), que home apele Mich', un galon de cervayse conventuel, et un mees de potage, et chescun jour de chairez deux mes dez chairez, et jours de pesson deux mees de pesson, et chescun nuyt de la Seynt Mich', tonques a le chaundelour, deux chaundeles de suive, et chescun an a la feste de Seynt Mich' deux charettez de buche, et deux charettez de tourbez, et une robe per an a la feste de Noel, pretii xvjd.; et pur son garcon ly servant un payn bys, et demy galon de choise, et une mes de quisme, et une chaumbre convenable en la Pryorie."

In one very important matter the Archbishop's powers were far more circumscribed. Owing to divers immunities and privileges granted to the House by different Popes the Canons were able in a great measure to foil the Archbishop's efforts to force them to institute vicarages in the churches appropriated to the Priory. Archbishop Greenfield was compelled to admit in 1309, that they were entitled to serve the churches of Guisbrough, Danby, Skelton, Kirklevington, and Ingleby Arncliffe by stipendiary priests without any taxation or ordination being made therein. The last-named of these churches is still suffering from the effects of this disastrous state of affairs. The present endowment is under £40 a year, and there is no glebe-house.

The most interesting documents in this series are those which deal with the penances inflicted on refractory monks. The commonest form of correction was to transfer a disobedient Religious to another house of his order, as, observes Archbishop Greenfield (p. 370), both scripture and experience teach us that change of place is advantageous and very profitable. As the Monastery sending the delinquent had to pay all costs, it is certain they would do all in their power for his reformation, so as to avoid the expense of his sojourn at another House. The delinquent on his arrival at his new quarters had to undergo a course of penance, the terms of which were specified in a letter from the Archbishop, which he brought with him. The career of Simon Constable, a Canon of Bridlington, as depicted in these pages (pp. 379-385), is a good object lesson on the subject of penances. He was sent to Guisbrough to withdraw him from the influence of his noble relatives at Flamborough. He had already undergone a course of severe penance before leaving his Convent. On his arrival at Guisbrough in 1309 a milder form of penance was imposed, probably with the hope that the change itself would tend to a reformation. This seems not to have been the case, as he had to be sent back in 1314, when he was more sternly treated, and in addition to moral training by means of prayer and humiliation, he was to receive a disciplina every Friday at the hands of the Prior. He returned to Bridlington the following year to take part in the election of a Prior, when his behaviour was so unsatisfactory that the Archbishop had again to intervene and admonish him to observe the terms of his penance, which he had omitted to do after he left Guisbrough. He does not appear to have been sent to any other religious House again in the sequel, although he still continued to be a source of trouble and anxiety to his brethren. In 1321 his conduct was again such as to call for the infliction of another penance of increased severity. This was the fourth. Three years later he had left his Convent and was only readmitted on terms which were to be settled by the Archbishop, who somewhat unfairly reproached the community for their inconsistent conduct with this most difficult personage. When we lose sight of him in 1328, he is as unsatisfactory and impenitent as ever. Fresh rules of conduct had to be laid down for his guidance, which perhaps, in deference to his more advanced age, are conceived in milder terms. The Archbishop seems to have had little hope of his reformation, as he concludes with a threat, that if he did not observe these rules he would be subjected to a suitable penance in a place more confined than any he had been in before, and would be supplied with food more sparingly than usual.

This is no doubt a very extreme case, and in the great majority of such cases we may believe that change of monastery, coupled with a course of penance, did tend to amendment of character.

Penances inflicted on persons holding a high position in the world, of which there are many instances in the Registers, must have been far more edifying to the general public than those suffered by monks, which cannot have been known beyond the Convent walls. The sight of a culprit of high rank walking in procession in York Minster, barefooted and scantily clothed, and confessing his sins before the assembled congregation, must have clearly demonstrated to all the world, that as far as the Church was concerned there was no distinction of person, but that all were equally subject to her discipline. It is true that these penances are far milder than those inflicted on religious persons, but it must be remembered that the lay offenders had not taken any special vow of chastity, and that then, and for long after, sexual morality was at a very low ebb.

I will now give a few examples of penances imposed on persons of rank living in the neighbourhood of the Priory, so as to afford the reader an opportunity of comparing the two classes. The first shall be that of a lady, Lucy de Thweng, wife of Sir William le Latimer, who was diffamed in 1309 of renewed adultery and incest (super recidivo<sup>1</sup> adulterii et incestus) with Sir Nicholas de Meynyl. She was probably guilty, but she managed to get off by compurgation, cum sua sexta manu dominarum et aliarum honestarum mulierum (Reg. Greenfield, i. 32<sup>b</sup>). In 1275 nobilis vir, S. dictus Constabularius, namesake and probably father of the Bridlington Canon, mentioned above, humbly confessing his adultery with Katherine, wife of Sir John Dentorp (Danthorpe in Holderness), and utterly abjuring her and her company, and all suspicious places, bound himself, if ever he fell again, to pay £100 to the succour of the Holy Land, whereupon, in the Archbishop's words, "contritionem suam concorditer ponderantes et rigorem pro viribus mitigantes, eidem signaculum crucis ibidem (Skelling) tradidimus, ita ut in propria persona adeat Terram Sanctam, vel suis sumptibus ibi mittat pro isto commisso ydoneum bellatorem (Reg. Giffard, fo. 131<sup>b</sup>).

One of the worst offenders in this respect was Peter de Mauley, the fifth Baron of Mulgrave of that name. For adultery and incest with his wife's sister, Alina, daughter of Sir Thomas de Furnivall, he agreed to make the usual oath of abjuration under a penalty of paying two hundred marcs to York Minster. A wholesome penance (pœnitentia salutaris) was inflicted, but the terms are not given (Reg. Greenfield, i., dorse of last folio). He was in trouble again in 1323, when the Official of York was ordered to receive his purgation cum sua duodena manu, sex viz., militum et sex domicellorum, being accused (notato) of adultery and incest with Alice Deyville<sup>1</sup> (Reg. Melton., fo. 241). The man seems to have been incorrigible. He was again in trouble in the spring of 1327-8, when a certain Sarra de London was his co-delinquent. In this case we have a copy of the penance. It is a somewhat severe one:—

In two cases we find members of the House proceeding to a University (pp. 388, 408). Contrary to what might have been expected, Oxford is the University preferred in either case. It seems very unlikely that these were solitary instances. Promising youths, ad studendum dispositi, would no doubt be sent to the University to be educated at the Convent's expense, and thus a fairly high standard of attainments would be maintained among the inmates. Unluckily with the exception of the historian, Walter of Hemingburg, Guisbrough has left no literary remains, so it is impossible to know what fruits these studies brought forth.

There remains one other document calling for special notice, the rental of the Priory printed at the close of the volume. It is written in two different hands. The more ancient embraces the first two membranes, both front and dorse, whilst the remainder is later. The entries on both m. 2 and m. 2<sup>d</sup> run on continuously in the next membrane, so that notwithstanding the diversity in the script, it is clear that the writing of the document was one uninterrupted operation. The difference may be accounted for by supposing that the first two membranes were copied from an earlier roll by an old man, who still followed the fashion prevalent in his youth, and that when he gave up, the task was completed by a younger scribe in a later style.

The first question to be considered in relation to this roll is its date. An exact date is furnished on p. 429, where it is stated that Ralph Fraunceys paid fealty to the Prior in 1299 for a toft and croft in Linthorpe. The entry is in the same handwriting as the context, and has no appearance of having been inserted after the completion of the roll. This by itself would be conclusive, but there is external evidence which tends to prove that the roll may have been compiled some twenty years earlier. Before considering this subject it is necessary to call the reader's attention to the fact, that the names of the great majority of persons mentioned in this roll do not, owing to their humble position in life, occur elsewhere. But to take a case, where there is other information, No. 667 is very much to the point. This is a deed which cannot have been executed later than December, 1280, when Prior Ralph de Irton was chosen Bishop of Carlisle. Now it is a very remarkable fact that the whole of the eight Thornaby freeholders who were parties to this deed, some of whom must already have been advanced in years, are all mentioned in the roll. Only two of the eight, William de Staynesby and Simon de la Despense, appear in the Subsidy Roll for a Fifteenth voted in 1302. Simon de Clarewalle (p. 426) was alive as early as 1270, when he had the grant of a lease of a tenement in Dale-by-Hawnby, until the full age of William, son of Philip de Colvill, heir of John Engram (Kirkby's Inquest, p. 98*n*). Robert le Sympel and Walter de Salcoke (pp. 432-3), both living in Harlsey parish at the date of the roll, occur in No. 1104 in company with Robert Engram, the predecessor of the above-named John Engram, so the deed must be prior to 1270 at the latest. John de Laysingby and John de Gouton (pp. 428-9) are witnesses to No. 703, executed in 1282. John de Gouton, Thomas Waxander (sic), Elyas de Midelton and Gervasius de Skireswith, called in the roll Gervasius, were all alive at the time of Kirkby's Inquest, 1284-5 (pp. 132, 166). To put the matter briefly, there are no less than thirteen persons mentioned in this roll, about whom we can get information elsewhere, who were all alive before 1284-5, and some as early as 1270. On the other hand, the only two names I can find mentioned at a later period, are those of John de Fymtres and Alan de Merske, both occurring on p. 424. The former occurs in 1308 (No. 582*c*), and again in 1342 (No. 914*B*), and the latter in 1347 (No. 914*c*). The last two instances almost certainly refer to persons of the same name living at a later date.

The North Riding Subsidy Roll for a Fifteenth, voted in 30 Edward I. (1302), is of very little avail as a means of settling the date of the roll. Although the Langbaurch portion of the Subsidy is very full and perfect, the names common to both are exceedingly few. In Upleatham there are none, in Lackenby two, and the same number at Linthorpe, at Ormesby six, whilst at Marton there was only one. The comparison might be carried still further, but the result would remain unchanged. The probable explanation of this want of conformity between the two rolls is, that the Guisbrough tenants were not rated to the Subsidy. It is difficult to surmise the reason for this exemption. It was not poverty, as no fewer than six persons in Ormesby paid only two pence apiece. Generally religious houses were rated separately, but that was not the case in this Subsidy, where the names of the different monasteries and their granges are duly recorded with the amounts paid in each case. In the absence of decisive evidence to the contrary, which must prove that one or more persons mentioned in the roll died at an earlier period, it is most reasonable to assume that the year 1299 is the true date of the compilation of the roll.

Another question is whether the roll is perfect. The membranes are sewn together, and probably have always been so, and as there are no marks of any stitching at the top of the first membrane it seems likely that nothing has been lost. Still it is very unusual for a roll of this kind to have no special heading, and that the period for which the rents were paid should be undefined.

In considering the contents of the roll, the first question which suggests itself is, why certain places, such as Guisbrough, Commondale, Danby, Yearby, Kirkleatham, Coatham, Redcar, Marske, Loftus, Ugthorpe, and Mickleby, where the Priory had considerable estates, should be omitted. I have not mentioned Glaisdale, as they had parted with their estates there before the date of the roll, and received an equivalent at Bottleburn in the East Riding. The reason for the omission was that the Canons kept their property at these places in their own hands. In the roll itself not infrequent reference is made to this state of things. It is expressly stated, for instance, that they had two bovates in Acklam, part of which they retained and cultivated, and part they let out. In Barnaby they had forty bovates, each bovat containing nine acres, but tenants of only two tofts and a croft are mentioned, whilst at Morton there was nothing let. In Ormesby gifts are enumerated amounting to four carucates and four bovates besides land, the quantity of which is not given, but the holdings in the tenants' hands by no means equal this amount. It is easy to understand that the Canons found it convenient to retain the land near Guisbrough in their own hands, but it is difficult to surmise how farming could be carried on profitably or economically as far away as Sherburn or Kirkburn, both in the East Riding, and situated at some distance from each another, while at the same time they found it expedient to let all their property at Bottleburn, which is close by Kirkburn.

The rents were paid in money, in kind, eggs and fowls, and in services, precaria or boondays. The two last imposts were only exacted from tenants living in the neighbourhood of the Priory. These boondays were due not only from tenants to whom a s' is prefixed in the roll, and who presumably rendered customary services, but also from tenants at will, as Adam Scoticus (p. 412) and Godfrey, son of Hugh (p. 416). It is difficult to ascertain in what respect these two classes of tenants differed. Adam Scoticus and Hugh the Mower, though one was a tenant at will and the other servile, paid precisely the same rents and services for their toft and croft. In comparison with other instances the tenants of Guisbrough were very leniently treated. The number of boondays exacted was not excessive. Assuming the figures in the roll to represent a year's rental, as is most likely the case, the normal number at Upleatham was four, in two cases without food, so we may infer that where nothing is mentioned on this subject that food was given. This is supported by an entry under Ormesby, where it is stated that each precaria was to have a penny, a big dinner (magnum prandium), and nothing in the evening. There were two special precaria mentioned at Upleatham. Thomas de Wiles had to serve four days in the autumn with carts, and one with ploughs, when there was to be a full meal, iiii precarias traharum et i precariam carucarum in autumpno, cum cibo pleno. At Middlesbrough the services were more onerous, the number of boondays being twelve, whilst half that quantity was the amount at Ayresome, Linthorpe, and Ormesby. At Marton the number varied from four to ten. Except in the instance about the carts and ploughs at Upleatham, and this was something unusual, nothing is stated in the roll as to the services included in the term precaria. There is a very instructive catalogue of the services due from the bondi and cottars of Whitby Abbey, and amongst others from those at Middlesbrough, printed at the beginning of the second volume of the Whitby Chartulary. It is undated, but certainly much earlier than this roll, perhaps not many years later than the foundation of the Abbey. Money payments were the exception. Bondi holding bovates made out their rent entirely in work, whilst here tenants of bovates almost invariably paid money. The condition of the cottars of the Whitby document and the tenants of tofts and crofts here was not very dissimilar. In both cases they paid money, and fowls and eggs as well as services. On the whole there seems to be a considerable improvement in the condition of both bonder and cottar in the interval between the compilation of the two rolls. The services had become less onerous and fewer in number.

The ordinary holding of a small tenant, corresponding to the cottar of the Whitby document, was a toft and croft, varying in size from an acre to half that amount. In the Whitby document the bonder invariably held one bovat. Here the amount is more irregular, although it often is the same. That a bovat was the normal holding of the class of larger tenants is curiously confirmed in the case of Bordelbrunne, now Bottleburn, near Market Weighton in the East Riding. The Canons only acquired this property in the time of the second Peter de Brus, 1222-1240 (p. 439), as an equivalent for land in Glaisdale, which they lost in consequence of his breach of warranty. At the time of the compilation of the roll there were here twenty-four bovates of twelve acres apiece, with their appurtenant toft and croft of half an acre. The number of tenants holding bovates was exactly twenty-four, showing very clearly that at the parcelling out of the land among the tenants a bovat of twelve acres was judged the suitable amount. It is probable that the letting out had only taken place a very short time before. The entry, and it is the only one of its kind, that the land had been fallowed (warectata), and that the tenants were bound to manure it and restore it in as good condition as they received it, all points to a very recent demise.

Owing to want of space it has not been possible to print the two surveys of the estates of the Priory made one just before and one just after the Dissolution. The earlier of these has been printed in the Valor Ecclesiasticus.<sup>1</sup> It is undated, but was made about 26 Hen. VIII. (1534-5), when James Cockerell was Prior, by Sir James Strangways, knt., Robert Bowes, esq., and William Rokeby. The list of the alms the Priory were bound to distribute is interesting. It is as follows :—

The notices about the Priory or its inmates in the times preceding the Dissolution are not numerous. The following is the account given in the notorious Comperta. As no evidence is cited in support of the charges, and two of the persons incriminated had pensions given them when the house was dissolved, it is permissible to think that if true in part the charges were very much exaggerated.

The arms of the Priory were the Bruce arms, argent a lion rampant azure, differenced by a red bend<sup>2</sup>. References to descriptions of Priory seals in this volume will be found in the index under Gyseburne seals. In addition to those mentioned there a drawing of one is given by Dodsworth (MSS. lxx. 4<sup>b</sup>), which was attached to a grant of confraternity, made by Prior John on March 12, 1507-8, to Henry, Lord Clifford, and his wife Anne. Obverse, Virgin with child sitting under a canopy of three compartments, with a figure in the attitude of prayer issuing from either side at the top. Around the Virgin and child, AVE MARIA GRACIA PL. On either side of the canopy is a compartment containing a kneeling figure. Around all s' CAPITVLI : SCE : MARIE : DE GISBVRNE. Reverse, Prior sitting under a canopy of the same form as on the obverse, with a crozier in right hand, and the left held up in the attitude of blessing. The site of the Priory and the land belonging to it in the neighbourhood of Guisbrough remained a very short time in the royal hands. On Nov. 21, 32 Hen. VIII. (1540), the King granted a lease of them with other property for twenty-one years, from Michaelmas then last to Thomas Legh, at an annual rent of £224. 12s.<sup>2</sup> Of this sum £49. 5s. 4d. was payable in respect of the site and lands near by. Legh had officiated as one of the visitors of monastic houses in the North of England immediately before their suppression, and this lease no doubt formed part of his reward. On July 20, 1 Edw. VI. Before concluding the Editor desires to return his hearty thanks to the Rev. Canon Atkinson for advice and assistance, which have at all times been most freely rendered during the progress of this work; to the Rev. William Greenwell for access to the documents relating to the Priory in the possession of the Dean and Chapter of Durham; and to H. A. Hudson, Esq., the Registrar of the Diocese, for some very pleasant hours spent in searching the Archbishops' Registers.

On June 1, 1550, Chaloner and his wife had licence from the king for themselves, their household and guests not exceeding ten in number, "quod ipse, ipsa eorumque familia, ac amici prædicti deinceps, durante vita naturali ipsius Thomæ, temporibus Quadragesimalibus et aliis diebus

Special reference made to an Act passed in 2 Edw. vi., which was not in any wise to invalidate this licence (Ibid., Part 5, m. 25).

LIST OF PRIORS.

1. WILLIAM DE BRUS is only mentioned twice in the Chartulary, once (No. 6) in a charter of the time of Archbishop Thurstan, and again (No. 142) in a charter of later date, where he is spoken of as being dead. He was a contemporary of Nicholas, second Abbot of Whitby, who was living about 1132 (Whitby Chart., 215). "Obitus Willelmi Brus, primi Prioris Calend. Augusti," is the entry in a Calendar formerly belonging to the Priory (Atkinson's History of Cleveland, ii. 25, from Coll. Topog. et Gen., iv. 261). Graves (History of Cleveland, 425*n.*) states, that he was a brother of the founder, died in 1145, and was buried in the Chapter House. (See p. xxx.)

2. CUTHBERT went to Rome in 1142 with William, Abbat of Rievaulx, and Waltheof, Prior of Kirkham, to oppose the elevation of William Fitz Herbert, afterwards St. William, to the see of York (Fasti Ebor., i. 222). He was witness to a charter by the same Archbishop (1143-1147), confirming certain churches to Whitby (Whitby Chart., 167); also to a charter of Archbishop Henry Murdac (1147-1153), confirming the church of Carnaby (Kerandbi) to Bridlington Priory (Ibid., 165*n.*). He was certainly was founded 1146-7. There appears to be no other record of this Prior, so it must be a question whether he ever existed, or whether he has not been confused with No. 3.

Prior between 1146 and 1151 (No. 1148), and survived to the times of Archbishop Roger, who ruled the see of York from 1154 to 1181 (No. 682). His obit was kept at Durham on the eighteenth of the Calends of January (Liber Vitæ).

3. RALPH was a near relation of the last Prior. "Eustachius, nepos Priorum Gyseburnæ Cuthberti et Radulphi," makes a grant to the Priory in No. 20. He had a brother Thomas, who calls himself "nepos R. Prioris de Gyseburne" (No. 149). Prior Ralph was a contemporary of Archbishop Roger, with whom he had a long contest about the right to the advowson of Kirk Levington, the Convent's title to which was very unsound (No. 683). The Archbishop went so far as to excommunicate two of the Canons and to depose the Prior, as a punishment for refusing to allow him to visit their house, and for ignominiously turning him away from their doors. On the Prior stating that he had acted thus from fear, and not with the intention of doing anything to the dishonour of the Archbishop, certain Commissioners appointed by the Pope, one of whom was John de Greneford, Bishop of Chichester, 1174-1180, were enabled to make an arrangement between the parties (No. 718).

4. ROALD was a contemporary of Archbishop Geoffrey Plantagenet, 1191-1207 (No. 923), and of Ernald, Prior of Rievaulx, who occurs between 1192 and 1199 (No. 596). He is party to a deed dated 1199 (No. 686c), and to another (No. 1164), which may possibly be a year or two later.

5. LAWRENCE was a contemporary of Peter, who was Abbat of Whitby before 1190, and died in 1211 (Whitby Chart., 298). He was Prior in Feb. 1211-2 (No. 1133), but probably resigned not long after, as his successor occurs in 1218, and he is called quondam in a charter of Hugh, Bishop of Carlisle, 1219-1233 (Whitby Chart., 45). In 1238 Archbishop Walter de Gray confirmed him in his possession of the Chapel of Hartlepool, which had been given him by Cardinal Gualo and Richard de Marisco, Bishop of Durham, 1217-1266 (p. 358). Gualo was at Carlisle arranging the affairs of the see in 1218 (Diocesan History of Carlisle by Ferguson, p. 70), which is probably the date of the grant of Hartlepool Chapel to Prior Lawrence.

6. MICHAEL is party to fines dated Nov., 1218, and Dec. 7, 1234 (Nos. 921 and 687A.)

7. JOHN was party to a fine dated 1239 (No. 223), still Prior in 1251 (No. 878), and on Nov. 3, 1257 (No. 703B). It is difficult to reconcile this last date with a bull of Alexander IV, dated Jan. 11, 1255, in which he orders Archbishop Walter de Gray to receive the resignation of a Prior of Guisbrough, who wished to retire from the office in consequence of ill-health, and to see that proper provision was made for him (p. 358). Possibly difficulties arose in connection with the appointment of his successor, and he retained office till after Nov. 1257.<sup>1</sup>

8. RALPH DE IRTON, the next Prior, was a Cumberland man. He was in office in 1262 (No. 943), and continued Prior until Dec. 26, 1280, when he was elected Bishop of Carlisle (Le Neve's Fasti, iii. 232). He still continued to take an interest in the affairs of the Priory after he became Bishop. In 1287 he found a home for Robert de Furnery, a Canon of Guisbrough, whom the Convent wished to get rid of (p. 367). "Eodem anno, scil. mcccxiij, ultimo die Februarii, obiit bonæ memoriæ Radulphus, Carleolensis Episcopus, quondam Prior noster Giseburniæ, et in eadem Carleolensi ecclesia sepultus" (Walter of Hemingburgh, ii. 40).<sup>1</sup>

9. ADAM DE NEWLAND was in office in the summer of 1280 (No. 668B). His reign lasted but a short time. In July of the next year (p. 362) provision was made for him on his retirement by his successor;<sup>2</sup>

10. WILLIAM DE MIDELESBURG, who retained the office until 1320, when he resigned on account of bodily weakness (p. 395), and was succeeded by

11. ROBERT DE WILTON, a Canon of the house, who

<sup>1</sup> In 1267-8 the Prior of Giseburn was distrained for £40 of the debts of Jocy of Kent, for the use of the Lord Edward, which £40 was due on a charter from John de Overton, Prior of Giseburn, and sealed with his seal and that of the Convent. The Prior says that there was never a Prior of Giseburn named John de Overton, and that the deed is forged. The attorney of Edward craved judgment, inasmuch as the Prior had answered nothing as to the seal. The Prior then said it was in truth his own seal, but the wax had been maliciously affixed to the said writing. Afterwards he made a fine with Edward for 300 marcs (Curia Regis, No. 183. Hil., 52 Hen. iii., m. 34).

<sup>2</sup> In Hutchinson's Excursion to the Lakes (1776), pp. 395-6, it is stated on the authority of a passage occurring at the commencement of the Red Book of the Exchequer (which I have searched unsuccessfully), that Hugh Fitz Henry died at Berwick on the fourth of the Ides of March (March 12), 1304, 32 Edw. I., soon after the siege and conquest of Stirling Castle, and was buried on the eleventh of the Calends of April (March 22) at Romalkirk, by John, Prior of Guisbrough. This, as appears above, must be correct, as is also the case with Prior John, mentioned in 1333 (p. 330n). Dodsworth may very possibly have made some error in his transcript.

had received the orders of subdeacon in 1297 (p. 395*n*). The documents relating to his election are printed on pp. 395–8. On his death

12. JOHN DE DERLINGTON was elected in 1346 (Reg. Zouche, ff. 159<sup>b</sup>, 160). John de Dernyngton, an acolyte and Canon of Guisbrough, had letters dimissory from the Archbishop in 1315 (Reg. Greenfield, ii. 106<sup>b</sup>). On his death the Archbishop issued letters dated May 18, 1364, and the twelfth of our translation, to inspect and confirm the election of

13. JOHN DE HOREWORTH OR HURWORTH, a Canon of the house (Reg. Thoresby, fo. 182<sup>b</sup>). He had acted as Proctor from the Subprior and Convent to the Archbishop on the election of his predecessor in 1346 (Reg. Greenfield, ii. 159<sup>b</sup>). On Sept. 4, 1393, a commission was issued to William de Cawode, Licentiate in Laws, Canon of Beverley, and Chancellor of York, on the cession of Prior John de Hurreworth, "qui senio et infirmitate adeo debilis est effectus, quod regimen dicti Prioratus non potest ulterius comode supportare," to proceed to the election and installation of his successor (Reg. Arundel, fo. 44<sup>b</sup>),

14. WALTER DE THORP, a Canon, elected in 1393, when he made the following profession of obedience to the Archbishop:—*Ego, Frater Walterus de Thorp, Canonicus Prioratus de Gyseburne, Ordinis S. Augustini, Ebor. dioc., in Priorem ejusdem electus et confirmatus, ero fidelis et obediens reverendissimo in Cristo patri et domino meo, domino Thomæ, Dei gratia Ebor. canonice intrantibus, Vicariis Generalibus, Officialibus et aliis ministris in licitis et honestis mandatis, sic Deus me adjuvet, et hæc sancta Dei Evangelia (Reg. Arundel, fo. 45).

15. JOHN DE HELMESLEY occurs in 1408 (Burton's Mon. Ebor.). On his death

16. JOHN THWENG or THWEYNG, "sacræ paginæ professor," a Canon, was elected in 1425 (Reg. Newark, fo. 393). The Priory in consequence of this election had to grant a pension of 100s. a year to Oliver Elton, Rector of Everingham, who was nominated by the Dean and Chapter, the see being vacant by the death of Henry Bowet (Ibid., fo. 389).<sup>1</sup>

17. RICHARD AYRETON, Sacristan and a Canon, was one of the Proctors of the Priory at the election of his predecessor in 1425 (Ibid., fo. 393). He afterwards became Prior of Helagh Park, and in 1437 was translated to Guisbrough: "Item A.D. M° cccc° xxxv° installatus fuit Frater Ricardus Areton, xv<sup>m</sup> Prior hujus loci, et stetit in Prioratu per annum et tres menses, et translatus est ad Gisburn. Item A.D. M° cccc° xxxvii° installatus fuit Thomas Batson xvi<sup>m</sup> Prior (Helagh Park Chart., Cott. MSS. Vesp. A. iv. fo. 3<sup>b</sup>). On his death

18. THOMAS DARLINGTON, a Canon, was elected in 1455 (Reg. Booth, fo. 63). He received a royal pardon in 1459.

19. JOHN MOREBY, elected in 1475 (Reg. Booth and Neville, fo. 173).

20. JOHN WHITBY. On his resignation in 1491 he was re-elected (Reg. Rotherham, i. 67). "De electione . . . . per liberam resignationem Fratris Johannis Whitby, ultimi Prioris ejusdem vacantis, de te de eodem Fratre Johanne Whitby per Suppriorem et Conventum ejusdem Prioratus rite facta et celebrata," are the words of the Archbishop's confirmation of the election. He resigned the office on March 13, 1505, shortly after which he proceeded on a pilgrimage to the Holy Land. He died in Jerusalem Sept. 5 following, and was buried in Mount Zion (The Pylgrymage of Sir Richard Guylforde, Camden Soc., p. x).

21. JOHN MOREBY, a Canon, elected on his predecessor's resignation in 1505 (Reg. Savage, fo. 64<sup>b</sup>). He granted a pension of 100s. a year to Mr. John Chapman, Notary Public, on his creation (Ibid., fo. 67). On Sept. 10, 1511, the Archbishop granted licence to John, Bishop of Negropont, to bless<sup>1</sup> this Prior by virtue of a bull lately obtained from the Apostolic See (Reg. Bainbridge, fo. 23<sup>b</sup>).

22. WILLIAM SPIRES, a Canon, elected in 1511 (Reg. Bainbridge, fo. 24<sup>b</sup>). An annual pension of 100s. was granted to John Underwood, LL.B. on his election. On his death

23. JAMES COCKERELL, S.T.P., Abbat of Lilleshull in Staffordshire, and Canon of Guisbrough, was elected in 1519 (Reg. Wolsey, fo. 44). On Oct. 19, 1523, he was presented to the Rectory of Lythe near Whitby, <sup>1</sup> "Ad impendendum munus benedictionis" are the words of the original. A misreading of this passage seems to be the authority for the insertion of a Prior Benedict between Moreby and Spires.

on the resignation of Mr. Thomas Larke, by the Archbishop, by reason of the minority of Francis Bigott (Ibid., fo. 44). He was still Prior on Sept. 1, 26 Hen. VIII. (1534), when he granted a lease for 21 years of the Priory property in Thirsk, including 57 acres of land, to Robert Pert of Thirsk, yeoman, at an annual rent of 40s. (Conventual Leases, Yorks, No. 212). He must have retired soon after this, no doubt to make a way for a man more in favour of the King's policy, as we find

24. ROBERT PURSGLOVE alias SYLVESTER making a lease on July 1, 29 Hen. VIII. (1537), to Christofer Roger of Commondale, of a tenement in Commondale for 21 years at 42s. a year; and again on April 12, 30 Hen. VIII. (1539), to Adam Pursglove of the Convent's property in the parish of St. Helen's, York, for 41 years, at 30s. a year (Ibid., Nos. 210, 226).

<sup>1</sup> The charter is confirmed by Peter de Brus II. in No. 215 (Vol. i. p. 96). The name Lost means an innkeeper, and is the same as the modern French L'hôte. An instance of the name occurring under the form Host occurs in the Rievaulx Chartulary (p. 232n), and in this Chartulary (No. 625) it once appears as le Oste. The Latin form Hospes also occurs (note to No. 670). From Nos. 595 and 598 it appears, that besides the Richard Lost of this charter, there was another Richard Lost, who had a son, Roger. This latter person also lived in Normanby. He occurs in the Rievaulx Chartulary (p. 71) as a donor of lands in Normanby to that Abbey, and is there distinguished as the nephew of Richard, son of Thurstin, where, with the consent of his sons, Roger and Ernald, he confirms a grant made by his uncle of land in Salcoteflath in Normanby.

<sup>4</sup> The pedigree of the family of Malabestia, more usually Malbisor Malebisse, is in a very unsatisfactory state. I give a few notes which may be of use in framing one more trustworthy than has hitherto been given. The earliest occurrence of the name is in Hampshire in 10 Hen. II. (Pipe Roll, p. 25), when a certain Robert Malebissa, or Milebissa, assisted in conveying the treasure chest (arcam thesauri) from Winchester to London. It is in no way proved that this person had anything to do with the Yorkshire family of a similar name. When the name occurs again, two years later (Ibid. 12 Hen. II., p. 49), there is no doubt on this point. Then we find a William Malebisse holding land in the Ainsty, no doubt at Acaster Malbis, and a Hugh Malebisse in Ryedale. The following year (Ibid. 13 Hen. II., pp. 91, 93) William and Hugh Malebisse are again mentioned, this time it being distinctly stated that Acaster belonged to the former. A year later (Ibid. 14 Hen. II., p. 74) William Malebisse occurs under Lincolnshire as a surety in five marcs for Edric de Ellesham. This is all the information afforded by the Pipe Rolls as far as published. A charter in the Rievaulx Chart. (p. 213) proves that William and Hugh Malebisse were brothers. By this charter Richard Malebisse, who must have been the son of the above-named William Malebisse, granted to Rievaulx certain lands in Scawton, for the health of the soul of Hugh Malebise his uncle (patru), and of Hugh his son. Dodsworth (MSS. lxiii. 64) says that Hugh Malebisse, senior, died in the Holy Land. He had two sons, William and Hugh. The latter died some time shortly before Sept., 1206, when his widow, Constance, and her second husband, Robert de Lutrinton, brought an action against William Malebisse for her dower in Marton, Bagby, Tolesby, and Newham, and against Richard Malebisse for her dower in Hawnbly, Scawton and Dale (Pedes Finium Ebor., 6-16 John. Nos. 25, 48). From the way these brothers are mentioned in the Rievaulx Chart. (p. 42n), Hugh being placed first, it would seem that Hugh was the elder, but this is negated by a Plea Roll of the reign of John (Placita de tempore Johannis. Annis incertis, No. 51, m. 3), which proves that William was the eldest son, and that Hugh died without issue. By the plea in question it appears that an assize was going to be taken to ascertain whether Hugh Malebisse, brother of Amicia, wife of Stephen de Blaby, was seised in demesne of four carucates of land in Hawnbly (Halmby), and whether he died thus seised after the first coronation of Richard I., which holding John Malebisse then possessed. This John came and said that an assize ought not to be taken, as Hugh had an elder brother, William by name, to whom that inheritance descended, as Hugh died without heir of his body. As this was found to be the fact no assize was taken. There was another Hugh Malebisse living at this time, who inherited lands in Wensley, and Ellerton in Cambridgeshire, from Wimar, son of Warner, whose widow, Helewisa, brought an action against him in 1204 for her dower in these places (Feet of Fines, Divers Counties. John. No. 35). He was still alive in 1208, when he was married to one Beatrice, in whose right he possessed half a knight's fee in Boelton and Texton, now Bolton in Wensleydale and Theakston (Pedes Finium Ebor., 6-16 John. No. 150). At the time of Kirkby's Inquest (1284-5) Bagby and Marton were in the possession of a Stephen de Blaby, so that it is clear that William Malebisse died without issue like his brother Hugh, and that the estates of this branch of the Malebisse family passed through Unde volo ut liceat ipsis de prædicta terra, tanquam de propria, ad placitum suum disponere in perp. Hiis testibus (as in last charter).

<sup>2</sup> See No. 619. Roger de Acclum, who was possessed of property in Tolesby, Newbigging, and Roxby, had two daughters and coheirresses, Joan who married Ingram de Boynton, and Agnes who married Henry Fitz Ralph (Placita et Assisæ Ebor., 15 Hen. III., m. 23d). Agnes died without issue, as appears from a pedigree compiled from the Byland Chartulary (Add. MSS. 26,731, fo. 122). Roger de Acclum was son of William de Acclum (No. 657), and he and his brother Robert are witnesses to a charter of the date of Peter de Brus I. (No. 669).

tershire (iv. 51) it appears that Stephen de Blaby's father was named John, and that his son Stephen was Lord of the manor of Blaby in 1 Edw. I. (1272-3). This does not agree with the pedigree given by Dodsworth (iii. 123, and lxiii. 64), who says that Stephen, and Amicia, daughter of Hugh Malebisse (p. 9 n.) had three sons: Philip died without issue, Hugh, who according to Nicholls was a son of the second Stephen, had Blaby, and John, living in 1250, who had Marton, Tolesby, and Bagby. John in his turn had a son, Sir John de Blaby, knt., who married Agnes de Colville, and had six daughters. The statement about the daughters is corroborated by the Calendarium Genealogicum (ii. 601) under 29 Edw. I., where their names and those of their husbands are given. They were, Joan, wife of Adam de Horrewrth, aged thirty-six; Alice, wife of Robert de Pothowe, thirty-four; Christiana, wife of William de Snaynton, thirty-three; Elizabeth, wife of John de Alta Ripa, thirty; Cecilia, wife of Robert Gower, twenty-eight; and Eustachia, unmarried, twenty-two. The main line continued at Blaby until 25 Hen. vi. (1446-7), when Thomas de Blaby died leaving two daughters and co-heiresses, Catherine, wife of Thomas Saville, a member of the Howley family, and Margaret, wife of Richard Plomer.

<sup>1</sup> Tosti is the very common Norse name Tostig. This family was descended from a certain William, son of Tosthin, who gave land at Marton to the Abbey of Whitby before 1180 (Whitby Chartulary, i. 7). William, son of William Tosti, was tenant in a fine in 1208, about a bovat of land in the same place, in which Robert Tosti was plaintiff (Pedes Finium Ebor., 6-16 John. No. 95). The William Tosty of the above charter is a later generation, probably about 1270.

having come from Galicia in Spain, or more probably from some members of it having made a pilgrimage to the shrine of St. James at Compostella in that district.

<sup>1</sup> Tanton, on the river Tame, in the parish of Stokesley, Domesday Tameton. The first Peter de Brus had a Seneschal, William de Tame-ton, coming from this place whose genealogy is somewhat confusing. He had four brothers, Richard, Jordan, Ralph, and Henry, all mentioned in this Chartulary (Nos. 602, 937, and 1115). In the Helagh Park Chartulary (Cott. MSS. Vespasian A. iv. fo. 110) a certain William le Mubray of Tanton makes a gift to that Priory of land in Skutterskelfe, for the health of his own soul and that of William de Tamton, his brother. If we take the word brother to mean brother-in-law, it does away with the anomaly of two brothers having the same Christian name, and also solves the question of the connection between the families of Mowbray and Tameton. William de Tameton's widow, Agnes de Humet, married as her second husband William de Grey. They were alive in 1246-1252, when they were parties to deeds about the manor of Raysdale. In one of these it is stated that Walter, the father of William de Mowbray, was nephew and heir of William de Taimton (Rievaulx Chart., 249, 394, 397). From another deed in the same collection (p. 280) it appears that Walter de Moubray's mother's name was Osanna, who, it is clear from No. 687A of this Chartulary, was paternally a Tameton, and after her husband's death married for her second husband John de Langeberghe. She is there called the sister and heir of Ralph de Tameton. Hence it appears William de Tameton was the eldest brother, that on his death the property came to Ralph, who was succeeded by his sister Osanna, the three other brothers, Richard, Jordan, and Henry, having died without issue. Osanna married first William de Moubray, and secondly John de Langeberghe. By her first husband she became mother of Walter de Moubray, who was living in 1246, and he in turn was succeeded by his son William, who was alive in 1252, and was the proavus of Thomas de Moubray of the next deed. He was a contemporary of Prior Ralph, 1262-1268. The remainder of the descent to Thomas de Moubray, living in 1329, can be constructed without any difficulty from No. 664B. This family was undoubtedly an off-

DCLXIVb. Hoc scriptum cirographatum testatur, quod cum contentio mota esset inter Thomam de Moubray, et Priorem et Conventum de Giseburne, super homagiis et servitiis Walteri filii Ricardi de Marton de una car. terræ et dimidia cum suis pert. in Marton et Tollesby, sopita est in hunc modum. Ita videlicet quod prædictus Thomas concessit et recognovit pro se et hæ. suis homagia et servitia prædicti Walteri et hæredum suorum esse jus ipsius Prioris et Conventus, et succ. suorum, et Ecclesiæ suæ de Giseburne, ratione donationis et concessionis Willelmi de Moubray, proavi ipsius Thomæ, cujus hæres ipse est, factæ Deo, et B. Mariæ, et Radulpho tunc Priori de Giseburne, et succ. suis, et Ecclesiæ suæ de Giseburne, de homagiis et servitiis Aviciæ de Laisingby tunc tenentis prædictarum car. terræ et dim. in Marton et Tollesby. Virtute cujus donationis et concessionis prædicta Avicia se attornavit prædicta Radulpho, tunc Priori de Giseburne. Quæ quidem donationes et confirmationes prædicti Willelmi, proavi ipsius Thomæ, cujus hæres ipse est, et attornamentum prædictæ Aviciæ, prædictus Thomas pro se et hæ. suis ratificavit, confirmavit, et acceptavit inperp. shoot of the great baronial house of the same name, but whether directly or through some younger branch, such as the Colton line, is uncertain. William, son of Walter de Mubray of Tameton, bore a lion rampant, which is found on his seal attached to a deed printed in the Rievaulx Chartulary, p. 231. In the British Museum (Egerton Charters, No. 531) there is still existing a seal of William de Mumbray, who is probably the same person as William, son of Walter de Moubray. It is circular, of yellow wax, very much rubbed, but appears to bear a lion rampant. The deed is as follows:—Willelmus de Mumbray . . . Johanni de Bosco, hæ. suis, vel suis assign. has libertates subscriptas, viz. quod ipsi de cetero libere sine impedimento et absque omni multura possint molere ad Molendinum meum de Tamthon omnimoda et omnia blada sua, ubique crescentia in omnibus et singulis [terris] suis habitis et habendis in Neuby et Tamthon, in continenti post bladum meum, si ibi fuerit ad Molendinum. Dedi etiam, [et] concessi, et tenore præsentium confirmavi dicto Jo-

Has vero libertates et aysiamenta, ac tenorem omnium feoffamentorum Osannæ de Tamthon penes dictum Johannem commorantium, ratificando dicto Johanni, hæ. suis, vel assign. suis, sicut prædictum est, ego Willelmus de Mumbray et hæredes mei, vel mei assign., in omnibus et ubique contra omnes homines et feminas inperp. warantizabimus, aquietabimus, et defendemus. In cujus rei test. præsentis scripto sigillum meum apposui. Hiis testibus. Domino Hugone de Euer. Ita quod nec prædictus Thomas, nec hæredes sui, aliquid juris vel clamii in prædictis homagiis et servitiis prædicti Walteri et hæredum suorum de cetero exigere poterunt in futurum; set prædicti Prior et Conventus, et eorum succ., habeant et teneant prædicta homagia et servitia simul cum prædictis car. terræ et dim. de prædicta Thoma et hæ. suis, in lib. pur. et perp. elem. Et prædictus Thomas et hæredes sui homagia et servitia, ac etiam tenementa prædicta, pro quibus homagia et servitia prædicti Walteri debentur, Deo, et B. Mariæ, et prædictis Priori et Conventui, et eorum succ., et Ecclesiæ suæ de Giseburne, acquietabunt et defendent inperp., in lib. pur. et perp. elem. Et prædicti Prior et Conventus receperunt animas Willelmi de Moubray, et Helenæ, uxoris ejus, Willelmi de Moubray, et Matildis, uxoris ejus, Alani Romund', Thomæ Romund', et omnium antecessorum prædicti Thomæ de Moubray, in Martirologio suo inter mortuos; et etiam receperunt prædictum Thomam de Moubray in fratrem, et Aliciam uxorem ejus in sororem Capituli, et liberos et hæredes suos in singulis missis et orationibus suis participes, et omnium beneficiorum suorum in prædicta domo faciendorum inperp. Et concesserunt, quod dicti Thomas et Alicia uxor ejus, cum in fata decesserint, in Martirologio suo ponantur, et eorum fiat obitus ut aliorum confratrum et concanonicorum suorum inperp. In cujus rei test. parti hujus scripti penes prædictos Priorem et Conventum residenti, prædictus Thomas sigillum suum apposuit; alteri vero parti penes prædictum Thomam remanenti, prædicti Prior et Conventus sigillum commune Capituli sui apposuerunt. <sup>2</sup> Thornton, an Abbey of Austin Canons in North Lincolnshire, near Barton-on-Humber, was founded about 1139 by William le Gros, Earl of Albemarle, and Lord of Holderness. John Benton is said to have been elected Abbat of Thornton in 1184, and died Nov. 8, 1203 (Dugdale's Monasticon Anglicanum, vi. 324).

<sup>2</sup> Thomas and Alexander are said to have been Abbats of Meaux, or Melsa, in the time of King John, but this charter shows that Abbat Thomas belongs to an earlier period. Hugh occurs as Prior of Bridlington in 1189 and 1192. Of Ivo, Prior of Wartre, Burton remarks in his Monasticon Eboracense, that he occurs in 1192, being contemporary with Ernald, Abbat of Rievaulx, and William, Prior of Kirkham, in the first year of the Pontificate of Pope Celestine III. The date of this charter must be rather early in the time of Pope Celestine III. It is certainly earlier than No. 613, which may be assigned to about the year 1200, where the Abbat of Bridlington and Prior of Kirkham are different persons to those named here.

<sup>5</sup> The original of this charter is in the Bodleian, Yorkshire Charters, No. 29. Endorsed "Concordia inter nos et Monachos S. Mariæ Ebor. super decimis de Wivelesich et quibusdam aliis terris inter Piketon et Apelton. Duo paria habemus, set istud melius." Only one seal remains. It bears an Abbat with a crozier in his right hand, and a book in left. The circumscription is too much broken away to tell to whom it belongs, but the catalogue assigns it to Kirkstall. In a chartulary of St. Mary's, York, now in the British Museum (Harl. MSS. No. 236), on fo. 24, are charters touching the manor of Appelton - super - Wyske, Smithton, Horneby, and Croft. In a confirmation by Henry II., printed in Dugdale's Monasticon Anglicanum (iii. 549), mention is made of the following gift:—"Robertus de Brus [dedit] Apelton, et quod ad idem manerium pertinet, et Horneby, et totam terram illam quæ est inter prædictum manerium et regiam viam, per quam itur de Eboraco ad Dunel-Dilectis filiis Priore et Canonicis de Gyseburne conquerentibus, ad audientiam apostolatus nostri pervenit, quod cum decimæ de Wivelesich et quibusdam aliis terris inter Peketon<sup>4</sup> et Apelton ad eorum Ecclesiam de Levington<sup>5</sup> de jure pertineant, T. et W., Clerici prædictæ Dioceseos, nomine Monachorum de Eboraco, prædictam Ecclesiam dictis decimis, prætermisso juris ordine, spoliarunt et detunc contendunt. Quod si omnes hiis exequendis nequiveritis interesse, duo vestrum ea nichilominus exequantur. Datum Laterani, iij Kalendas August., Pontificatus nostri anno quinto (1196). Nos itaque hujus auctoritate<sup>7</sup> mandati partes in nostram præsentiam fecimus convocari, et amicabilem in eas transactionem de communi assensu in hac forma iniri. miam; quæ terræ fuit de manerio, quod Middelton vocatur. Et in Sunderlandewic duas car. terræ, et unum molendinum."

<sup>2</sup> An Abbey for Præmonstratensian Canons was founded at Swainby in the parish of Pickhill, near Bedale, towards the end of the twelfth century by Helewisa, daughter of Ranulph de Glanville, the great Justiciar of Henry II., and widow of Robert Fitz Ranulph, the builder of the Norman portion of Middleham Castle. Her son, Ranulph Fitz Robert, early in the following century removed them to Coverham near Leyburn, where they remained settled until the Reformation. There was a Philip who was Abbat of Coverham in 1202 (Pedes Finium Ebor. 1-5 John. No. 165), who is probably the Abbat mentioned above. If that be so he must have superintended the removal of the Canons to their new home on the Cover.

<sup>3</sup> Robert was Prior of Malton in 1164, which is too early (Rievaulx Chartulary, 183). There is no list of the Priors of Malton in Dugdale.

Mariæ (Aug. 15), annuatim reddendæ, habendas et possidendas. Prior vero et Canonici de Gyseburne totum jus quod in petitis decimis se habere proposuerunt, prædictis Abbati et Monachis transfuderunt, et easdem decimas eis inperp. quietas concesserunt. Ita tamen quod si contigerit in posterum aliquem parochianum Ecclesiæ de Levington,<sup>2</sup> terram illam de Apelton, unde prædictæ decimæ proveniunt, jure hæreditario optinere, Canonici de Gyseburne eas habebunt et possidebunt, et decimæ de dominico de Hesel<sup>3</sup> prænominatæ ad prædictos Monachos revertentur. Et ut ista compositio perpetuam habeat firmitatem, eam sigillorum nostrorum testimonio duximus roborandam, sigillis Monachorum et Canoniceorum ad majorem securitatem huic scripto alternatim appensis.

DCLXXXIII. Rogerus, Dei gratia Ebor. Archiepiscopus, Apostolicæ Sedis Legatus, Decano<sup>2</sup> et Capitulo Eboracensi, et Abbatibus et Prioribus de Diocesi, salutem. Notum sit vobis, quod Radulphus Prior Gyseburnæ, et alii tres a nobis sententia notati, in præsentia nostra assidentibus nobis venerabili fratre nostro, Alexi Apostolicæ Sedis Legato, et aliis autenticis viris, ad demonstrationem innocentie eorum et destructionem rebellionis quæ eis imponebatur, juramentum præstiterunt, quod contra Archidiaconum nostrum Jeremiam<sup>3</sup> volentem personam instituere in Ecclesia de Levington, contra conscientiam eorum, et secundum quod eis videbatur juste appellaverunt. Et ideo sententia quam prædictus Archidiaconus in eos tulit, post talem appellationem non detulerunt. Juramento vero præfato, flexis genibus, coram nobis petierunt, ut si in eo facto vel in alio aliquo deliquerunt, et paternitatem nostram offenderunt, nos illud eis exin [tegre] dimitteremus, et eos inde absolveremus. Nos vero ad hæc respondimus ex parte Dei Omnipotentis, si quid in hoc facto vel in alio contra nos commisistis, ex integro vobis et dimittimus, et vos inde absolvimus, et sicut in plenitudinem gratiæ et amoris nostræ<sup>4</sup> pacis eos et Ecclesiam eorum et omnes suos recepimus. Et si qua molestia vel infamia ex illo facto ex aliquo modo possit irrogari, ex toto dimisimus, et in perp. abolevimus. Et hanc pacem sigilli nostri munimine confirmavimus. Quare vobis mandamus, ut in plena communione et gratia, sicut et nos fecimus, amodo recipiatis. Valet.

<sup>1</sup> From the way in which these witnesses are arranged it is impossible to be sure who are Canons of Guisborough, St. Andrews, or Southwell.

<sup>2</sup> The date of this charter is uncertain. It was probably executed during the later years of Archbishop Roger (1154-1181). William Tilemir is one of the witnesses to a charter by Robert de Botivelein, called Robert II., Dean of York, who died in 1186 (Rievaulx Chart., p. 53).

<sup>3</sup> This is, I apprehend, the same Dean as the one mentioned in the last charter, to which the present charter is a little posterior in date. The Archdeacon amongst the witnesses must be Ralph Baron, Archdeacon of York, who died possessed of that dignity in 1194 (Rievaulx Chart., p. 167).

<sup>1</sup> It would appear from Moore's Hist. of Ireland, ii. 296, that the Pope's Legate, Vivian, was at Downpatrick in 1177, on the occasion of John de Courcy's raid upon that town. In 1180 St. Laurence Toole, Archbishop of Dublin, died, and Henry II., immediately on hearing of his death, seized on the See. On the king's recommendation, at an assembly of the Clergy of Dublin, called together at Evesham, John Cuming was elected. . . . and in the following year a bull was procured from Pope Lucius III., exempting the diocese of Dublin from great part of the jurisdiction hitherto exercised over it by the See of Armagh (Moore, ii. 310). Possibly on this occasion a Legate was sent, the Alixis of this charter, and if so, then the date of the charter would be 1181, the year of the death of Archbishop Roger, and of the election of Pope Lucius III. No. 683, in which Cardinal Alexis is named, appears to be of earlier date.

<sup>2</sup> These same persons were deputed by the Pope by a bull of nearly the same date, to act as arbiters between universitas vestra nos mandatum Domini Papæ recepisse in hæc verba. Durham and Guisbrough about the Priory of Finchale, which had originally been dependent on the latter (Finchale Priory, 16). William, Abbat of Newminster, was a contemporary of Ernald, Abbat of Rievaulx, who held that office between 1189 and 1199 (Feodarium Prioratus Dunelm., lxxxvi, and Rievaulx Chartulary, xciii).

<sup>2</sup> The reason which probably gave rise to the dispute between Guisbrough and Durham about the Chapel of Worsall is the fact that there are two adjoining places of the same name. High Worsall, a chapelry in the parish of Northallerton, and apparently at the date of this deed dependent on Brompton, another chapelry in the same parish, but now a distinct parish; and Low Worsall in the parish of Kirklevington. Both places are on the river Tees.

<sup>2</sup> There would appear to be some error here. According to Sir Harris Nicolas (Chronology of History, 201) Celestine III. was elected Pope March 30th, 1191, consecrated Easter Day, April 14th, in the same year, and died Jan. 7th or 8th, 1198, so that he occupied the Pontifical Chair for less than seven years. Celestine II. was Pope for less than a year, and Celestine IV. for only a month. The same error, if error it be, appears in another bull of the same Pope printed in the Finchale Book (p. 16), where the date is the sixth of the Nones of May in the seventh year of his Pontificate.

given in Graves' History of Cleveland, p. 93:—"It is situated on the western bank of the Leven, to which the descent is steep; and commands a pleasing prospect of the windings and wooded banks of the river, and the country adjacent. The hill, on the west, south, and south-west, is nearly upon a level with the fields adjoining, from which it is guarded by a deep trench. The sides on the east, south-east, and north, are almost perpendicular; and rise from the bottom to the summit, to the height of about two hundred yards above the river. The crown of the hill is a plain of forty paces in diameter, defended by a breast-work of earth of considerable height, forming a circle of two hundred paces in

<sup>2</sup> The family of de Feugeres, Felgeriis, or Filgeriis, derived its name from the town of Fougères on the borders of Normandy and Brittany. Members of this family seem from an early period to have been in possession of the manor of Castle Levington, which they held in chief. The earliest person of the name, of whom we have any mention, is Andrew de Faugeroll, who in 35 Henry I. (1130-1131) held of the king one knight's fee in Yorkshire (Yorkshire Archæol. and Topog. Journal. III. 402). The next is a certain William de Fugeris, who was witness to a charter by Robert de Brus I. (Whitby Chart. I. 95). He was still alive in 1164-65, when, under the name of William de Felgieres, he paid the king one marc (Pipe Roll, 11 Hen. II. p. 50). In the first year of the next century, Andrew de Filgeriis paid a fine of ten marcs not to be obliged to cross the seas in the king's service (Ibid. 3 John, p. 304). In 1215 King John granted the custody of the land and heir of Andrew de Feugerolis to Philip de Ulecote, reserving his marriage (Rotuli Litterarum Clausarum, 188). Five years later the heir, William de Feugeres, paid homage to the king for his father's lands in Levintun and Breretun (Ibid. 445<sup>b</sup>). In 1281, by an Inq. post mortem, Andrew, aged fifty, was found to be the son and heir of William de Feugers (Yorkshire Inquisitions. I. 221). From this point we hear no more of the family, and the manor becomes part of the Meynell property, whether by grant from the Crown on the extinction of the Feugeres family, or by marriage with its heiress, is uncertain.

<sup>3</sup> Son of Richard Malebisse, and grandson of William Malebisse, of Acaster Malbis (No. 611). His father, Richard, who is mentioned in Nos. 691 and 695, attained a lamentable degree of notoriety from the active part he took in the massacre of the Jews of York, at the time of the coronation of Richard I. in 1190. Walter of Hemingburgh (i. 146) speaks of him in the most severe terms: "quidam Ricardus, vero cognomine Malabestia, homo audacissimus." He says that, like a cruel beast (Mala-bestia), he and others, of whom he was the chief, treacherously slew the few Jews who survived in the city of York, after the great majority of their fellow-countrymen had slain their wives and children and committed suicide, rather than trust themselves to the mercies of the Christians. What in Hemingburgh's eyes rendered the crime more atrocious was the fact that the Jews were put to death whilst expressing a desire to be baptized. Afterwards the rioters burnt all the bonds of the Jews which were stored in the Minster. The king was deeply incensed at this outrage. Not only had the Jews, to whom he had granted his peace, been slaughtered, but what was probably more serious, their bonds, in which he claimed the lion's share, had been destroyed. The leaders wisely fled to Scotland, to wait there till the king's wrath should have cooled down. The only persons who really suffered were the comparatively innocent citizens of York, who were mulcted in considerable sums. Hemingburgh says that no one was executed for the murder of the York Jews. The late Mr. Robert Davies gives a very good account of this episode in the Yorkshire Archæol. Journal (iii. 147). In 1198 this Richard Malebisse founded the Premonstratensian Priory of Newbo, in Lincolnshire. In 1200 he had a charter of freewarren in Acaster, Copmanthorp, Scawton, and Hawnby (Excerpta à Rotulis Finium, 68). The time of his death is not ascertained, but he was living between 1211 and 1218, when he gave his house and land at Clementhorpe, in York, to his nephew, Richard de Hoton (Yorkshire Archæol. Journal, iii. 169). He was succeeded by his son, John, who is the donor in the charter above, and who joined with his father, about the year 1200, in making a grant to Rievaulx of land in Scawton, called Oswaldesenges patris mei et matris meæ et omnium antecessorum meorum et successorum . . . in lib. et pur. et perp. elem. Deo etc., totam partem meam pasturæ et moræ quæ pertinent ad Etonam in mora de Blachou, sine aliquo retenemento; per has divisas,<sup>1</sup> scil. sicut cilium moræ vadit a Parvo Otheneberg

(Rievaulx Chart., 211). He confirmed to St. Mary's, York, half a carucate of land in Utter Acastre, which his grandmother, Emma de Percy, held (Dodsworth MSS. iii. 123, quoting Cartularium S. Mariæ Ebor., fo. 375). In the pedigree which accompanies some Malbis notes Dodsworth (Ibid.) makes the grandfather of John, son of Richard Malebisse, and the husband of Emma de Percy, a Hugh Malebisse. I think he is in error on this point, although a charter given by him in another place (vii. 107), if accurate, confirms his statement. By the deed in question, which is dated 1345, William Malebys, knight, son of Sir John Malebys, recited and confirmed a charter by his ancestor, Richard Malebys, whereby he (Richard) gave and confirmed to Byland the gift of Hugh, his father, of Morton and Snyghelesworth, now Snilesworth. "Testibus. Ranulpho de Glanville, Huberto Decano Ebor., Ricardo Regis Thesaurario, Hugone de Morewic, Rogero filio Raynfridi, Michaelae Belet, Willelmo Mauduit Camerario, Roberto de Wychefeld, Raynero Vicecomite Ebor., Rogero de Bavent, etc." There is no Sheriff or Deputy Sheriff of Yorkshire named Rayner. Ranulph de Glanville was Sheriff 10-15 Hen. II., and again 22 Hen. II. to 1 Ric. I. Roger de Batuent acted as Deputy for Archbishop Geoffrey, the Sheriff of Yorkshire from the second half of 6 Ric. I. to the close of that king's reign. Probably Rayner was a Deputy Sheriff for Ranulph de Glanville. Matilda, John Malebisse's widow, was alive in 1231 (No. 692), and his sister Emma married Robert de Stuteville (No. 695). The family became extinct about 1360 by the death of Sir Thomas Malbis, his daughter and heiress, Elizabeth, carrying the estates into the Beckwith family by her marriage with Adam de Beckwith (York Corporation Papers, ii. 996, quoted in Kirkby's Inquest, 343n). The Beckwiths assumed the punning arms of the Malbises, Argent a chevron between three hinds' heads (testes de bys) erased gules (Nicolas's Roll of Arms temp. Edw. III. p. 13, and Foster's Visitations of Yorkshire, 280). Dodsworth (xcv. 81) gives the following pedigree of this branch of the Malbis family, which seems fairly accurate:—"Ricardus Malebyse genuit Johannem, qui Johannes genuit Willelmum. Willelmus genuit alium Willelmum, qui genuit Ricardum pacificum, qui Ricardus genuit secundum Johannem, et Johannes genuit Willelmum tertium, et Willelmus Johannem [obit ante patrem], Thomam [obit ante patrem], et Walterum [vixit post patrem]. Qui Walterus fecit Ricardum Fairfax hæredem de Scaltou [mutato nomine in Ricardum Malebisse], si ipse Walterus mortuus fuerit in Terra Sancta, et per indenturam factam inter ipsum Walterum et Willelmum Fairfax, patrem Ricardi, per accomodationem pecuniæ ad eandem Terram Sanctam, et obit ibidem."

Up to the point of bifurcation the Sleddale Beck forms the western boundary of Kildale, dividing it from Guisborough. Later on the western branch performs this duty for about a mile. The

<sup>1</sup> There is a copy of this deed in the Durham Transcript (No. 330), headed "Carta Roberti de Stuteville de una car. terræ, quam Nicholaus filius Osberti de se tenuit, cum servitio et homagio ipsius Nicholai et hæredum suorum." All the witnesses are given. The following are the variations:—Atona for Aton, Braythwath for Braywath, Gisburne for Gyseburne, Jurdano for Jordano.

<sup>2</sup> The family of Stuteville, whose chief seats in Yorkshire were at Cottingham and Kirkby Moorside, were the owners of Ayton from an early period. The church there was given in the latter part of the twelfth century by William de Stuteville (Estutevilla) to Whitby Abbey (Whitby Chart. i. 68). According to Dodsworth (MSS. iv. 37b) Nicholas de Stuteville and Gunnora, his wife, widow of Robert de Gaunt, and daughter of . . . Gorman, who were living in 1197 (Yorkshire Archæol. Journal. xi. 181), had two sons, Nicholas the elder, whose daughter Joan married Hugh Wake and carried the Stuteville estates into that family; and a younger, Robert, who was living in 14 John (1212-13). This Robert Dodsworth makes to have had a son of the same name, who was alive in 27 and 37 Hen. III., and married Emma, daughter of Richard Malebisse. Another entry in Dodsworth (MSS. iii. 123) shows that he has made an error here. There he quotes a passage from the Pipe Roll for 9 John (1207-8), by which it appears that Richard Malebisse agreed to pay a fine of three hundred marks for licence to marry his daughter, the widow of Robert del Mesnil, and that she should have her dower out of her husband's lands, which had been promised her at the church door on her marriage. Farther on in the same Roll it is recorded, that Robert de Stuteville and Richard Malebisse owed three palfreys for leave to pay the money by instalments. There can be little doubt this daughter of Richard Malebisse, and widow of Robert del Mesnil, is the Emma, daughter of Richard Malebissa, who is named in No. 695, and that she married the first Robert de Stuteville. The second Robert de Stuteville, son of the first Robert, is mentioned in Nos. 697, 698. In 1265 the Stutevilles of Ayton were represented by a William de Stuteville, who in that year entered into an agreement with the Abbey of Whitby about land in Ayton (Whitby Chart. ii. 374). In 8 Edw. III. (1334-5) Robert de Stoteville granted to Hugh Wake, in frank marriage with his daughter Isabel, all his lands and tenements in Cottingham and Rowley, these being witnesses: Sir Hugh Audele, Earl of Gloucester, and Thomas Wake, Lord of Lydell (Dodsworth MSS. lxxviii. 9b). I have not any evidence of the existence of the Stutevilles in Yorkshire after this date.

<sup>2</sup> The family of Mundeford, of which very little is known, appears to have been of some importance in the twelfth century. Henry de Muntfort heads the names of the neighbours of Walter Espec, who were present at his foundation of Rievaulx (Rievaulx Chartulary, p. 21). In 11 John (1209-1210) Nicholas de Stuteville paid the King three hundred marcs and five palfreys to induce him to observe the charter granted by his father regarding certain lands which Turstan de Mundeford was claiming against Stuteville (Abbreviatio Placitorum, p. 64). These mills at Ayton seem to have been their only property in North Yorkshire, but the Abbreviatio shows they must have had large estates elsewhere. In the Pipe Roll for 13 Henry II. (pp. 10, 124, 125) Turstin de Mundford appears as a landowner in Berkshire and Rutland.

<sup>3</sup> Richard, Prior of Newburgh, was a contemporary of Hugh Pudsey, who was Bishop of Durham 1153-1195

filio et hærede ipsius Turstini, et Malgero, et Odardo, et Radulfo, et Willelmo de Tameton, et pluribus aliis.

Nicholaus de Menyl, Dominus de Qworlton<sup>3</sup> in Clyvelanda . . . in lib. pur. et perp. elem. Deo et Ecclesiæ B. Mariæ de Gyseburne, Priori et Can. ibidem Deo servientibus et servituris, omnes terras et ten. quæ habuerunt, et quæ de eis tenebantur infra feoda mea Clevelandæ, die confectionis hujus scripti, scil. unam car. terræ in Aton, quaterviginti et duas acras terræ et unum mansum in Broghton, tres bov.

(Rievaulx Chartulary, p. 28). He was a contemporary of John de Greneford, Bishop of Chichester, 1174-1180 (No. 718); but from the charter following (No. 719) it is clear that he survived Archbishop Roger, who died in 1181.

<sup>2</sup> There is a copy of this deed in the Durham Transcript (No. 330). All the witnesses are given. The following are the variations: Meignell for Menyl in the heading, elsewhere Menill, Whorleton for Qworlton, Clivelandæ for Clevelandæ, Midelton for Medelton, Jacaby for Jacobi, Bovigton for Bovington, Skotherskelf for Skutherskelf, Hilton for Hylton, Laisingeby for Laysynby, and Toucotes for Tocotes.

<sup>3</sup> Nowadays Whorlton. In Domesday Wirueltune, and in Kirkby's Inquest Quereleton. Nicholas de Menyl, usually Meynell, was the son and heir of Stephen de Meynell (Rievaulx Chartulary, 278). In 1269 he had a grant of freewarren in his demesne lands in Wheruelton, Grenhou, Semer, and Eston, that is, in Whorlton, Ingleby Greenhow, Seamer-in-Cleveland, and Eston; a market in his manor of Wheruelton every Tuesday, and a fair once a year on the eve, day, and morrow of the Exaltation of the Cross (Sept. 14); and in 1285 a further grant of freewarren in his demesne lands in Castel Levyington (Yorkshire Assize Rolls.

N. 1. 21-2. m. 1). In 1281 he had licence from the King to hunt, during his life, with his own hounds the fox and hare in his woods of Aldewerk (Aldwark in the parish of Alne), which were within the bounds of the royal forest of Galtres (Patent Roll. 9 Edw. 1. m. 26 (15) cedula, abstracted in 50 Dep. Keeper of Public Records Reports, 155). His Inq. p.m. was taken on July 6, 27 Edw. 1. (1299), when the jury found that Nicholas, his son and heir, was twenty-four on the feast of St. Nicholas last past (Dec. 6). His widow Christiana was still surviving. Her parentage is unknown, but from the Inquisition we learn that she and her husband had been jointly enfeoffed by John de Lithgraynis in the manor of Castel Levington, and that this grant had been confirmed by the King. This manor, which at an earlier period had formed part of the Bruce fee, was then held in chief, by the tenure of finding one horseman in the King's army for a period of forty days, at the cost of the tenant. Meynell held the manors of Werlton, Semer, Eston, and Aldewerk, of the Archbishop of Canterbury, by the service of doing the duty which belongs to the pantry, in the Archbishop's palace, on the day of his enthronement, "per servitium faciendi officium quod ad panetariam pertinet, in hospitio Archiepiscopi Cantuar., die intronisationis ejusdem Archiepiscopi" (Cal. Gen. ii 580, and Inq. p.m. 27 Edw. 1. No. 156).

DCCIX. CONFIRMATIO DOMINI ROGERI DE MOWBRAY DE TERRIS IN THRESKE.

Rogerus de Mowbray<sup>1</sup> Deo et B. Mariæ de Gyseburne et Can. ibidem Deo servientibus et servituris, terram cum ædificiis in villa de Threske quæ jacet ad exitum villæ ejusdem versus aquilonem, quam habent ex dono Magistri Willelmi filii Serlonis de Threske. Concessi etiam et confirmavi Deo et præfatis Can. terram quandam in eadem villa quæ jacet propinquier terræ predictæ versus austrum, quam habent ex dono Radulphi de Lysurs. Habendam et tenendam Deo et præfatis Can. ita libere et honorifice, sicut idem Radulphus eam tenuit in liberum burgagium, scil. faciendo tres sectas per annum ad Curiam Burgi mei de Threske per se vel attornatum suum, pro omnibus servitiis et sæcularibus demandis michi et hæ. meis pertinentibus. Salvo panagio michi et hæ. meis de propriis porcis suis in eadem terra nutritis secundum consuetudinem Burgensium ejusdem villæ approbatam et consuetam. . . H. T. <sup>1</sup> This is probably Roger, son of Roger de Mowbray and Maude, daughter of Roger de Beauchamp. He married Roesia, daughter of Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester, by whom he had a son John. He died at Gaunt, now Ghent, in Flanders, and was brought over to Fountains Abbey and there buried in 1299 (Cott. MSS. Cleop. D. iii. 192, fo. 192). His Inq. p.m. was taken in Lincolnshire in 26 Edw. I., when it was found that his next heir was his son John, who was eleven years old on the feast of St. Cuthbert last past before the feast of St. Thomas the Apostle, 26 Edw. I., that is, Sept. 4, 1297 (Cal. Gen. ii. 555). The Yorkshire Inquisition makes him eleven on the Decollation of St. John Baptist, 25 Edw. I. (Aug. 29, 1297), and with this the Leicestershire Inquisition agrees, although it errs in making him thirteen. The finding by the Lincolnshire Jury is no doubt the right one, as it is confirmed by a calendar printed in Col. Top. et Gen. iv. 262, which asserts that John, son of Sir Roger de Mubray, was born on the second of the Nones of September (Sept. 4), 1286. This John was the father of the John de Mowbray of the next deed, who in the same calendar is asserted to have been born at Hovingham on the fifth of the Kalends of December (Nov. 27), 1310. This differs from the statement given in the note to the next deed.

<sup>1</sup> From his Proof of Age (Inq. p.m. 3 Edw. III. First Nos. No. 75), which was taken at Hovynggham, before John de Bolyngbroke, the King's Escheator beyond Trent, on the vigil of St. Peter ad vincula, 3 Edw. III. (July 31, 1329), it appears that John de Mowbray, who was then in the custody of John de Warenne, Earl of Surrey, and his wife Joan, under a grant from Edward III., was born on the vigil of St. Andrew the Apostle, 4 Edward II. (Nov. 29, 1310), and was baptized in the Church of All Saints, Hovingham. He was eighteen on the vigil of St. Andrew then last, that is, on Nov. 29, 1323. The Proof of Age is in very bad condition. The names of the witnesses, who were twelve originally, are, as far as can be read, William de Sproxton, aged 50, Thomas de Wy * * * * *, 60, John de Butterwike, 62, and Ralph de Kirkam or Kirketon, 53. His father, who married Alienora, daughter of Sir William de Breus of Wales, was put to death at York "cum aliis magnatibus terræ sub persecutione Hugonis le Spencer, morte inconveniente et horrenda, et sepultus apud Fratres Prædicatores Ebor. Deinde omnes terræ ejus seysitæ fuerunt in manus Regis Edwardi secundi post conquestum, et uxor ejus, et Johannes filius ejus, capti sunt et incarcerati apud London, usque ad coronationem Regis Edwardi tertii post conquestum. ad hæreditatem patrum suorum." This last-named John, being the grantor in the above deed, married first a daughter of Robert de Holand, from whom he was divorced, and secondly Joan, sister of Henry, first Duke of Lancaster, by whom he had a son, John, the third of the name, who was born on the morrow of St. John the Baptist's Day (June 25), 1340. John de Mowbray the second was buried in the Friars Minors at Bedford, and his wife Joan at Byland. (Cott. MSS. loc. cit.) His Inq. post mortem was taken at Shefford in Bedfordshire on Thursday before the feast of All Saints, 35 Edward III. (Oct. 28, 1361), when the Jury found, that John de Mowbray senior of Axi-holm died on Monday next after Michaelmas last (Oct. 4), and that John, his son and heir, was of full age about the feast of the Nativity of St. John the Baptist last past (June 24, 1361), that is twenty-one years (Inq. p.m. 35 Edw. III. Part ii. First Nos. No. 10). In the calendar referred to in the first note to No. 709, it is stated that this last-named John, there called John, son and heir of Sir John de Mowbray the second, was born on the morrow of St. John Baptist's Day, 1341, and that his mother was the Lady Joan, daughter of Sir Henry, the most noble Earl of Lancaster. This would make him a year younger than the age given in the Inquisition, which however agrees with the Cottonian MS.

ESTONA.

<sup>1</sup> Robert de Mainil or Meynell is the earliest ancestor, of whom we have any record, of a family which was seated at Whorlton, in Cleveland, until the middle of the fourteenth century. Many of the properties owned by the Meynells, as Whorlton, Hutton Rudby, Eston, Great Ayton, and Aldwark, were at the time Domesday was compiled in the possession of the Earl of Mortain. We may infer they were granted to Meynell either after the forfeiture of the Earl in the first year of William Rufus, or at the forfeiture of his son William, who was taken prisoner by Henry I. in 1106, whilst fighting on the side of Duke Robert Courthose at the battle of Tinchebray. As Robert de Mainill is recorded to have given the church of Great Ayton, with the chapels of Newton-under-Roseberry, Nunthorpe, and Little Ayton, to Whitby Abbey during the abbacy of the first Abbat, William (de Percy), who was in possession of that dignity in 1109 (Whitby Chart. i. 6, 329, ii. 374), it is probable that Meynell had a grant of his estates some time after the first forfeiture, possibly early in the reign of Henry I. His name shows that he was of foreign extraction, and a fine of the reign of John gives a clue as to what part of the continent he probably came from. The fine in question was levied in 1202 between Robert del Mesnil, plaintiff, and Walter de Hamby, tenant, about twelve bovates of land in Hoton, that is Hutton Rudby. Afterwards certain terms were entered into between the parties by a brief of mort d'ancestor, which it is not material to enter into here. As the fine was only levied in 1202, that is, not more than one hundred years after the time the Meynells are presumed first to have come into Yorkshire, it is not unreasonable to suppose that the connection between the families of Meynell and Hamby had originated, they left the continent. Hambye, from which Walter de Hamby derived his name, is in the Département of Manche, Arrondissement of Coutances, and Canton of Gavray. With this to guide us we may expect to find that the Meynells came from somewhere in the same neighbourhood. On looking at the map we are embarrassed by the multitude of places in the immediate vicinity of Hambye which bear this name, either simply or as a compound. In the same Canton are Grimesnil, le Mesnil Bonand, le Mesnil Amand, le Mesnil Hue, le Mesnil Villeman, and le Mesnil Garnier, whilst in the adjoining Canton of Brehal there are le Mesnil Aubert, Mesnil Rogues, and Hudemessnil. The number of mills shews that the district was well watered. Without further evidence it is impossible to say from which place the Meynells sprang. Robert de Meynell's wife, named Gertrude, is said to have been a daughter of Robert Fossard. She was the mother of his son and heir, Stephen (Whitby Chart. ii. 374). Her second husband was Jordan Paynel, who gave for the good of her soul to Bridlington Priory a carucate in Bridlington with the assent of his stepson, Stephen de Mainil (Dugdale's Mon. Angl. vi. 286). Robert de Mainil gave Miton to St. Mary's, York, during the abbacy of Abbat Stephen, who died in 1112. He mentions his wife Gertrude and son Stephen (Ibid. iii. 558). According to Mr. Stapleton (Account of Trinity Priory, York, published in the York Volume of the Archæological Institute, p. 98), "this lady was a daughter of Robert Fossard, whose father, Nigel Fossard, had held this manor (Great Ayton) with the church, of Robert, Count of Mortain." If General Plantagenet Harrison (History of Yorkshire, p. 222) can be trusted, Ralph de Bulmer married Agnes, daughter and coheir of Stephen Fossard, Lord of Wilton meæ et amicorum meorum, dedi et concessi Ecclesiæ S. Mariæ de Gyseburne sexaginta acras terræ in Eston cum tofta in Cleveland, and brother of Robert, son of Nigel Fossard, Lord of Mulgrave. She may be the Anfrida, mother of Alan de Ferlington, mentioned in No. 160. This shows that there was a connection between the Meynell and Bulmer families, although it does not agree with the information given above, that Stephen de Bulmer was the uncle of Robert de Meynell. This same Stephen de Bolemer confirmed to Whitby the grant of the church of Great Ayton which had been made by Robert de Mainillo of blessed memory, and his wife Gertrude (Whitby Chart. i. 184). To this charter Cuthbert, Prior of Guisbrough, was a witness, who held that office about the middle of the twelfth century. Robert de Meynell was succeeded by his son Stephen, who has been already mentioned, and who is the grantor in No. 715. He was a witness to the grant by Ernald de Percy of the church of Ormesby to Guisbrough, a gift confirmed by Robert de Brus at the foundation of the Priory in 1119 (Vol. i. 3, 228). He is enumerated amongst the neighbours of Walter Espec, who were present when he founded Rievaulx in 1182 (Rievaulx Chart. 21). His wife's name was Sibilla, said by Dodsworth to have been a sister of Walter de Ros, who appears to have been the mother of his two sons Robert and Henry (Ibid. 42). This last-mentioned Robert is mentioned as Robert de Meinil in 1165-6 under Dickerling Wapentake, as owing the King 100s. for a whale (pro quodam ceto). William de Arundel was indebted in a similar way (Pipe Roll, 12 Hen. II. 48). They had both discharged their debts two years later (Ibid. 14 Hen. II. 83). In 1168-9 Robert de Maisnil paid 20s. in Tickhill Liberty for his relief on the marriage of the King's daughter (Ibid. 15 Hen. II. 44). The marriage in question was that solemnized between Henry II.'s daughter, Maud, and Henry V., Duke of Saxony. Here there is an hiatus in the pedigree as usually given, as we get no certain information of a member of this family until 1201, when Robert de Meynell occurs, who died shortly afterwards, leaving his son and heir under age. This can hardly be the Robert de Meynell mentioned above, who was alive in 1165-6, so I propose to fill up the gap by the insertion here of a certain Stephen de Mainil who, for the health of his own soul and that of Joan his wife, gave to Rievaulx all the wood on the west part of Haggessgate, in Grenehou, that is, Ingleby Greenhow (Rievaulx Chart. 118). It is not dated, but from the names of the witnesses it is possible to give an approximate date. Adam, the chaplain of Whorlton, and Adam Brito, under the names of Adam, chaplain of Stephen de Meynell, and Adam Breto, are witnesses to a deed of Richard, son of Robert de Normanebi, which must have been executed towards the close of the twelfth century (Ibid. 122). This same Adam Brito is witness to a deed by Henry de Mainill, another witness, which must be about the same date (Ibid. 78). The gift in question was confirmed by Richard I. in 1189 (Ibid. 126), so that it is anterior in date to that year. Finally, Stephen de Menil, son and heir of Robert de Menil, confirmed the gift made by his grandfather, Stephen de Menil, in Grenehou (Ibid. 282). By inserting this Stephen de Meynell a serious gap in the pedigree is bridged over, and the series of alternate Roberts and Stephens, six in all, is preserved. Assuming that the line runs in this manner, the next person to be noticed is Robert de Meynell, who was living in Yorkshire in 1201-2, when he owed the King 100s. (Rotulus Cancellarii, p. 290). At the same time he was pardoned a debt of twenty marcs (Ibid. p. 303, and Rotuli de Liberate, p. 23). In 1207 the custody of the land which Robert de Meynell held of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and of Robert's heir, was granted to Robert de Turnham (Rot. Chartarum, i. 173). In 1217

the Sheriff of Yorkshire was ordered to give to the Archbishop of Canterbury such seisin of the wardship of the barony, which was Robert de Mesnil's, in his bailiwick, as the Archbishop had before he was disseised by reason of the war (Rot. Litt. Claus. i. 999). On the sixth of the Calends of May, in the year 1219, Hugh de Baylolf restored to the Archbishop, in the presence of the Barons of the Exchequer, the land which had been Robert del Meinil's, in consequence of Robert's son and heir being in the Archbishop's custody (Memoranda Roll, 3 Hen. III.). In 10 Hen. III. (1225-6) Stephen de Meynill, presumably the son of Robert, was tenant in a fine about lands in Aldewerke, in which William Malesoures was the plaintiff. In 27 Hen. III. (1242-3) the Sheriff of Yorkshire was ordered not to make an inquisition concerning the knights' fees he held of the Archbishop of Canterbury (Close Roll, 27 Hen. III. part ii. m. 7). He was still alive when Hamo was Prior of Helagh Park, March 15, 1260-1 to May 19, 1264 (Guisbrough Chart. i. 204n, 205). He was dead before 1269, when his son Nicholas was in possession of the barony. See note on p. 67. Besides Nicholas, he had a daughter, Joan, on whom he settled land in Knottingley to the annual value of £20, when she married John de Everingham (Dodsworth MSS. lxviii. fo. 12).

Et quod Dominus Ebor. a domo eorum, quam jure legationis visitare venisse se dixerat, turpiter et injuriose repulsum se conquestus est, ne quis iræ, odii, aut indignationis fomes penes ipsum Archiepiscopum resideret, Prior ipse in continenti, inspectis sacrosanctis scripturis, asseruit se nec in injuriam, nec in contemptum, nec in dignitatis suæ diminutionem, set metu tantum, Archiepiscopum et familiam suam exclusisse, moxque ei Canonicam obedientiam Prior promisit; Robertumque Vic-Archidiaconum, quem, ob factum, cui auctoritatem præstitit Dominus Archiepiscopus, de speciali mandato (264) Summi Pontificis in causam traxerant, Prior et Canonici in pacis osculo receperunt. Et ut Dominus Ebor. ydoneam quam vellet personam, excepto Willelmo de Rydale, in Capella eorum de Eston, salva eis pensione annua, ad præsens poneret, bonum pacis desiderantes permiserunt. Ut autem pax ista inter eos firma et inconcussa perpetuo maneat, eam et scripto nostro et sigillorum nostrorum appositione confirmavimus. H. T. omnibus visuris has litteras salutem. Litem quæ vertebatur inter Canonicos de Gyseburne et Willelmum de Ridale super Ecclesiam de Eston, ordine Canonico decidere cupientes, ex auctoritate Apostolica [qua]ungebamur ex delegationis munere, partes in præsentiam nostram vocare curavimus. Set Willelmus de Ridale, spernens in humilitate nostra Summi Pontificis excellentiam, trino edicto vocatus, apparere contempsit. Ne igitur in immensum protraheretur ad singulos dies occurrentium fatigatio Canoniorum, in ipso die tertio, quorum duo erant peremptorii, testes Canoniorum audiendos putavimus, nec tamen publicandas attestaciones, ut servaretur memorato Willelmo dicendi in testes et attestaciones facultas saltem die quarto. Verum ille quarto edicto vocatus Sedis Apostolicæ auctoritati deferendum non putavit, unde nos viri contumacis et contemptoris absentiam habentes pro præsentia, ejus vecordiæ parcendum ulterius non credidimus, set cum staret nobis, publicatis in audientia magnorum et eruditorum hominum attestacionibus, quod memoratus Willelmus in manu bonæ memoriæ R[ogeri], Eboracensis Archiepiscopi, et fide interposita, refutasse quicquid juris habere videbatur in prænominata Ecclesia de Eston, juxta formam mandati Apostolici incedentes, perpetuum ei in hac causa silentium imposuimus, et tam Canonicos quam Magistrum Guidonem, qui memoratam Ecclesiam nomine Canoniorum possidebat, ab ejus impetitione absolvimus.

in this charter as being dead, "bonæ memoriæ," it must be later than the year of his death, 1181. William, Abbot of Newminster, who had been a Canon of Guisbrough, became Abbot of Fountains in 1179, and retained that office until the year of his death in 1190. Gregory was Prior of Bridlington before 1167 (No. 682).

<sup>1</sup> Bernard, Prior of Newburgh, was a contemporary of Ernald, Abbot of Rievaulx, who presided over that Abbey 1189-1199 (Rievaulx Chart., xciii, 235). The first letter of the Prior's name may be R. If so he is probably identical with Prior Richard of the last charter.

<sup>3</sup> Geoffrey Plantagenet, an illegitimate son of Henry II., was elected Archbishop of York on Sept. 15, 1189, and consecrated at Tours on Aug. 18, 1191. On his return to England on Sept. 14 in that year he was arrested, and five days afterwards, by command of William, Bishop of Ely, the King's Chancellor, was thrown into prison for refusing to do homage to the King: he however obtained his liberation in a few days. He was deprived of his see by King John some time between Dec. 26, 1206, and Aug. 18, 1207. He died at Grosmount in Normandy Dec. 18, 1212.

Nos itaque, auditis instrumentis Canonorum et testibus omni exceptione majoribus, cum nobis plenius constaret prænominatam Capellam de Eston ad Ecclesiam de Ormesby tanquam ad matricem Ecclesiam pertinere, ipsam Capellam præfatis Canonis auctoritate et præcepto jamdicti Archiepiscopi, qua tunc temporis fungebamur, sicut illam quam ad Ecclesiam eorum de Ormesby pertinere didicimus, communicato virorum prudentium et juris peritorum consilio, restituimus, et eosdem Canonicos per Reinerum, tunc temporis Clivelandæ Decanum, in corporalem possessionem prælibatæ Capellæ induci fecimus. Noverit universitas vestra, quod causa quæ vertebatur coram nobis, auctoritate Domini Papæ, inter Priorem et Canonicos de Gyseburne et Willelmum de Ridale super Ecclesiam de Eston in hunc modum amicabiliter sopita est; viz. quod idem Willelmus de Ridale in præsentia (264<sup>b</sup>) nostra renunciavit omni juri quod habebat vel habere videbatur in Ecclesia de Eston, sive de proprietate, sive de possessione, ita quod Willelmus, inspectis sacrosanctis evangelis, juravit quod nunquam movebit per se vel alium quæstionem in prædicta Ecclesia, sive de possessorio, sive de petitorio. Prior vero Gyseburnæ, nomine Conventus, in verbo Domini promisit dicto Willelmo pro bono pacis annum redditum dim. marcæ de camera sua, percipiendæ ad duos terminos, scil. medietatem ad festum S. Martini, et medietatem ad Pentecosten, donec Prior et Conventus eidem Willelmo assignaverint annum redditum centum solidorum in certo beneficio ecclesiastico, salvis omnibus redditibus quos habent, vel habere poterunt in propriis usus; et salvis promissionibus Clericis suis factis, quibus obligati fuerunt, sive cartis, sive promissionibus, tempore hujus compositionis factæ. <sup>2</sup> The original is at Oxford, Bodleian Charters, Yorkshire, No. 56.

<sup>3</sup> There is nothing in the Chartulary to show that this grant was in any wise invalid. There are no fewer than three charters confirming it by the original donor, William de Kilton, a confirmation by King John, and an agreement by Robert, son of Alexander, Parson of Lyum, about the tithes, with the Prior of Guisbrough, as though the patronage belonged to that Priory. In addition there are charters (Nos. 748, 749, 752) connected with the appointment of Peter Ward to the living of Kilton, which prove that William de Kilton was at that time the patron. Although it is quite true that William de Kilton was the patron, still his gift was invalid. Some dozen or more years afterwards, probably when the first vacancy in the living occurred after William de Kilton's death, a dispute arose concerning the advowson of Kilton, which Richard de Alta Ripa claimed in right of his wife Maud, the niece and heiress of William de Kilton, against the Prior of Guisbrough. When the latter produced the above charter, the plaintiff alleged that it was made when de Kilton was on his death-bed, and not in full possession of his faculties. This seems to have been correct, as ultimately the Prior gave up all right in the advowson (No. 752a).

<sup>4</sup> This form of the name Tocotes or Tocketts occurs more than once in this series of charters.

<sup>5</sup> In 3 Hen. III. William de Kilton's widow, Alice, and her second husband, Robert de Lacell, brought an action against Richard de Alta Ripa and his wife Maud, about her dower in a third part of five bovates and twelve acres of land in Lithum (Coram Rege Hen. III. No. 51, m. 9).

Et ideo Robertus et Matill' habeant breve ad Archiepiscopum Ebor., quod non obstante reclamatione etc. (Ibid. No. 35, m. 4).<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> It seems a fair deduction from the facts given above, that Maud, the niece and heiress of William de Kilton, son of Ilger de Kilton (No. 771) married first Richard de Alta Ripa, by whom she had no issue, or at least no issue male, and secondly Robert de Thweng, by whom she must have had issue, as both Kilton and Kirkleatham were in possession of the Thweng family at the time of Kirkby's Inquest (p. 125), where the editor has wrongly identified Lithum with Upleatham. Four of William de Kilton's brothers, Adam, Osbert, Ralph, and Richard, are mentioned in this chartulary (Nos. 745-747, 865, and 866) but there is no evidence to show which, if any, was Maud de Thweng's father. She was only just of age when the first action about the advowson was brought in May, 1221, as in the preceding Michaelmas an action against her and her first husband, Richard de Alta Ripa, was adjourned until she should be of age (Coram Rege. Hen. III. No. 2, m. 10<sup>b</sup>). The parentage and descent of Robert de Thweng is far from certain. He undoubtedly derived his name from Thwing in the East Riding, where his descendant Marmaduke, son of Marmaduke de Thweng, held lands in 1284-5 (Kirkby's Inquest, 56). It seems most probable that originally the Thwengs came from the county of Durham. Their arms, three popinjays or parrots, bear a strong resemblance to those of the Fitz-Marmadukes, Barons of Horden in Durham, and they themselves held the manor of Lund, near Beverley, of the Bishop of Durham, which seems to have come to them through the Darel's (No. 1089n). The earliest mention of the family I have come across is contained in a Coram Rege Roll for Trinity Term, 7 John (1205), about the advowson of the church of Legsby (Leggebi) in Lincolnshire, which it was alleged had been given to the Priory of Sixhills by Robert, son of Robert de Tueng, a gift which had been confirmed by Robert (de Chesney), Bishop of Lincoln, 1147-1166 (Abbreviatio Placitorum, 48). There is no other evidence connecting the Thwengs with Legsby, so it is not certain that this Robert de Tueng was ancestor of the Yorkshire family of the same name. With Marmaduke de Thweng, who follows next, we stand on surer ground. In 1199 he was one of the sureties of Richard Malebisse, who had got into serious trouble with the King for the murder of the Jews at York, in a sum of fifteen marcs; and in 1208 was bound in ten marcs for Richard de Scal', a William de Thweng, his brother (No. 438), being bound at the same time in five marcs (Rotuli de Oblatis et Finibus, 41, 462). In 1205 he paid three marcs to have such seisin of three bovates of land in Lund, of which he had been dis-seised by Henry de Puteaco, as he had on the day on which he was put in the King's prison, unless he had done anything afterwards he ought not (Ibid. 307). The crime which brought him into trouble was homicide. In 1204 he paid 100s. to be allowed to be in the custody of twelve lawful men until the arrival of the Justices; and again, in the same year, Robert, son of Roger, R[oger], Constable of Chester, and Peter de Brus, paid a fine of forty marcs for having Marmaduke de Thweng in their custody, and undertook that he should cause no tumult in the country (Ibid. 221, 232). He seems to have sided with the Barons in the disorders in John's reign, as in 1217 he made his peace with the King (Rot. Litt. Claus. i. 374). Nine years later he and William de Tameton were Justices Itinerant in Yorkshire (Ibid. ii. 138). In 1227 an agreement was entered into between Sir Marmaduke de Thweng and William Constable, son of Robert Constable of Holderness (Willelmum Constabularium, filium Roberti Constabularii de Holderness), about a bovate of land in demesne (in dominio) in Killham (Killum), and the service of six carucates there, which Marmaduke had given to William in frank marriage with his daughter Cecilia (Dods-worth MSS. c. 80b). In 1230 Marmaduke de Thweng, one of the Coroners of Yorkshire, was ill (Close Roll. 14 Hen. iii. Part i. m. 3). In the same year he appointed his son Robert, and Robert de Esington, as his attorneys against Geoffrey de Neville and Mabel his wife, in a plea of the death of ancestor (in placito mortis antecessoris); at the same time offering the King 100s. to cause his parceners, John de Amundeville and John de Atton, to be summoned to take part in the suit (Yorkshire Assize Rolls. 15 Hen. iii. m. 22). As we hear nothing more of Marmaduke it is permissible to suppose that he died about this date, 1230. His son Robert was a man of some celebrity in his day. Matthew Paris, under the year 1232 (Chronica Majora (Rolls Edition) iii. 217), speaks of him as "juvenis elegans et miles strenuus ex partibus Angliæ aquilonaribus originem præclaram ducens," and says that he, under the nickname of Will Wither, was one of the most prominent leaders in destroying the barns of the Romans who were farming the benefices which had been granted them by the Pope. The cause of Thweng's fierce hostility against the adherents of the Roman Curia in this country was the intrusion of a Papal nominee into his advowson of Kirkleatham, called by Matthew Paris Luthunum and Lulumum. So strongly did he feel on this subject, that he declared he preferred to be unjustly excommunicated, rather than be deprived of his benefice against right. This case raised such an outcry in England, that in a letter to the Pope from the magnates of the country complaining of the Papal infringements of the rights of lay patrons, it was brought forward as an illustration of the way in which foreigners were against the patrons' wishes intruded into English benefices (Ibid. p. 609). In 1242 he acknowledged that he had given his son Marmaduke the manors of Lithum and Kilton with their appurtenances, except the advowsons of the church of Lithum and the chapel of Kilton, to dower Lucia de Brus, Marmaduke's wife (Coram Rege. Hen. iii. No. 7, m. 7). This throws the marriage of Marmaduke and Lucia much earlier than supposed. Robert was still alive in 1246, when he was plaintiff in a fine about the advowson of the church of Hinderwell [Hyldreswell], in which Adam de Seton was deforciant, whereby it was agreed that after the death of the then Parson, John de Newark, the presentation should be alternate, Robert presenting the first (Pedes Finium Ebor. 25-30 Hen. iii. No. 246). He must have died shortly after this, as in 1257 his son Marmaduke had a grant of freewarren in the demesne lands of his manors of Tuenge, Lyum, Kylton, Morsum, and Thorpe (now Kilton Thorpe), and elsewhere; a market on Thursdays at his manor of Lunt, and a fair on the eve, day, and morrow of All Saints (Nov. 1); a market on Wednesdays at his manor of Tuenge, and a fair on the eve, day, and morrow of the Translation of St. Thomas the Martyr

(July 7) ; a market at his manor of Cotum on Wednesdays, and a fair on the eve, day, and morrow of St. Lawrence (Aug. 10) (Charter Roll. 41 Hen. III. m. 3). As early as 1251 he had a demise of lands in Kilton and Kirkleatham, from the Priory of Guisbrough, which were released to him in 1270 (Nos. 868 and 779). In 1271 he acquired in right of his wife, Lucia de Brus, the manor of Danby and other valuable estates, as her share of the inheritance of Peter de Brus III., his wife's brother. He and his wife in 1275 made an arrangement with Walter de Faucumberg and Agnes his wife, the eldest sister of Peter de Brus, about the right to the advowson of the Priory of Guisbrough (Vol. i. p. 98). He was dead before 1284-5, when "hæres Marmaduci de Thwenge" was in the King's custody (Kirkby's Inquest, 127). This heir was his granddaughter, Lucia, his son and heir Robert having predeceased him, of whom a full account is given in Vol. i. p. 123*n*. Besides Robert, Marmaduke had a younger son, Marmaduke, who carried on the male line (No. 864). This Marmaduke distinguished himself very much in the Scotch wars. "Strenuissimus ille miles" he is called by Walter of Hemingburgh (Vol. ii. p. 138) in his account of the battle of Stirling, when the English were utterly defeated by William Wallace. The minute particularity with which this battle is described renders it probable that the account was derived from an eye-witness, possibly Thweng himself, whose seat, Kilton Castle, was not far from the Priory. At the battle of Stirling Thweng seems to have been the only person in authority on the English side who kept his head. When all was lost he cut a way through the Scotch army for himself and his followers, as he was a man of great strength and very tall, "fortis robore et staturæ proceræ," and seized the bridge over the Forth, which he caused to be burnt, and thus prevented the Scotch from pursuing the disordered English army. A little episode in this battle is worth repeating. Whilst Marmaduke was cutting his way to the bridge, his nephew was wounded and stunned, and his horse killed under him, but he managed to stagger on his feet and call out, "Master, save me." To which Thweng replied, "Get up behind me." "I cannot," was the answer, "because my strength is failing." Then a companion, Thweng's esquire, dismounted, and helped him up, and said to Thweng, "I will follow you, master, wherever you go," and followed him to the bridge, and they were thus both saved. It is pleasant to think that such a brave feat met with a proper reward. After the battle Thweng was left by the English general, the Earl of Warrene, in command of the Castle of Stirling, with a promise that he should be relieved within ten weeks. This promise was not observed, and the next year (1298) he was obliged to surrender to Wallace, who treacherously imprisoned him in Dumbarton (Chronicon de Melsa (Rolls Series), ii. 269, 270). He was still alive and in possession of Kirkleatham in 1315-16 (Kirkby's Inquest, 328). It was, I believe, his son, William de Thweng, who avenged the death of Edward II. The Meaux Chronicler (Ibid. ii. 355) states that Sir Thomas Gurnard [Gurney], who murdered Edward II., fled beyond the sea, "sed per dominum Willelmum de Thwenge, militem, longe lateque quæsitus captus est, et, pro nimio dolore causa vindictæ in ipsum exercendæ, victui parcens mortuus est in mari, sed tamen mortuus in Angliam est reductus."

<sup>1</sup> The writing here changes, and from this point to the end of No. 811 it resembles the heavy black writing prevalent in the early Lyum charters. Dodsworth (vii. 63) gives the following note regarding the seal then attached to No. 786:—"On horse-back, sword and shield, red wax + SIGILLVM MARMADVCI

<sup>2</sup> The ancestor of the family of Thocotes, or, as it was called at a later period, Tocketts, was William, son of Roger de Caratil, mentioned in No. 142. He appears to have had four sons, Roger, son of William de Thocotes (No. 143), also called Roger,

His son William appears in No. 144 as William Magnus, son of William de Thocotes, but in No. 758 his uncle

Roger, son of William de Thoftcotes, calls his nephew, William de Thoftcotes, son of William Magnus, and in No. 788, a charter in which he speaks of his uncle Roger, he denominates himself William, son of William Magnus de Thocotes. DCCCXIV. (285) Universis hoc scriptum visuris et audituris Adam de Brus salutem. Sciatis quod cum Can. mei de Gyseburne multis tribulationibus laborarent, ego pravo innitens consilio super possessionibus suis, tam ecclesiasticis quam sæcularibus, eis ab avo meo, Roberto de Brus, in lib. elem. concessis, in tantum eos inquietavi, quod per vim et metum concessionem enormem ab eis extorsi, quam ipsi carta sua confirmaverunt; scil. quod Adæ Capellano singulis annis decem marcas argenti donarent, donec Ecclesia de Sceltona vacaret, et eadem Ecclesia vacante eundem Adam institui facerent in eam, et<sup>2</sup> quocienscunque in vita mea vacaret jamdicta Ecclesia, pro arbitrio meo, clerico quem elegero<sup>3</sup>, eam sub pensione annua concederent. Quia igitur ista concessio enormis et inordinata fuit et, contra juris formam et canonum instituta, inanavit, scil. ut aliqua Ecclesia vivente persona alii personæ concederetur; et quia de periculo animæ meæ in hac parte agitur, ego concessionem istam revoco, et non obstante eo quod cartam suam inde dederunt, quietos eos exinde et absolutos pronuncio, desicut jamdicta Ecclesia ab avo meo eis fuerit libere concessa, et a me postmodum confirmata. Deo servientibus, pro vita mea, et pro animabus patris mei et avi mei et cæterorum amicorum meorum; et hanc donationem præscriptis Fratribus præsentī carta mea confirmo, ut libere et quiete eam possideant imperp., sicut aliquam aliam Ecclesiam ex donatione avi mei et patris mei melius et liberius tenent. Arundel, salutem in vero Salutari. Noverit excellentia vestra Dominum W[illelmum] de Stutevill ostendisse nobis litteras vestras, quibus ei mandastis ut convocaret nos et alios viros discretos et in utroque jure peritos, ut inspiceremus cartas et confirmationes Prioris et Can. de Gyseburne, quas habent de Ecclesia de Skeltona, et videremus quid juris haberent in prædicta Ecclesia. Nos autem ad mandatum vestrum et petitionem Domini W[illelmi] de Stutevill, adhibitis pluribus aliis viris discretis, inspeximus cartam Domini Roberti de Brus, fundatoris Domus de Gyseburne, et confirmationem Adæ hæredis sui, confirmationes Regis Henrici primi et Regis Henrici secundi, et confirmationes Turstini et Rogeri, Archiepiscoporum Ebor., qui ipsam Ecclesiam eisdem Can. in proprios usus confirmant. Confirmationes etiam Romanorum Pontificum, Lucii et Innocencii,<sup>1</sup> quorum unus (286) prædictam Ecclesiam de Skeltona prædictis Can. concedit, et confirmat in hæc verba, ad sustentationem Fratrum, alter vero in hæc verba, in proprios usus. Nos vero, adhibitis nobis viris discretis et juris peritis, ex prædictarum cartarum et confirmationum tenore, facta diligenti inspectione et deliberatione habita, perpendimus et cognovimus memoratos Can. de Gyseburne plenum jus habere in Ecclesia de Skelton ad eam habendam et possidendam in proprios usus, ad Fratrum sustentationem, salvo jure Ebor. Constitutus in præsentia nostra R[adulphus] de Alneto, Archidiaconus, nepos vester,<sup>2</sup> consilio nostro adquevit in causa inter eum et Canonicos de Gyseburne diu agitata. Nos autem honestatem vestram per omnia servare et ipsius utilitati providere volentes, inter ipsum et Canonicos transactionem fecimus iniri in ea forma, quæ

Archdeacon of York in 1194. The Abbats of Evesham and Ford are parties to No. 718, which was executed between 1174 and 1180, which was probably the time to which this deed may be attributed. It is, I believe, hitherto unknown, that Archdeacon Ralph de Alneto was a nephew of Archbishop Roger.

apud Leicestriam a vobis est concessa, et ab altera parte recepta, et a nobis approbata, et quam indubitanter credimus, de fide et veritate vestra securi, vos servaturos. Forma autem, sicut bene recolimus et memoriter tenemus, hæc est; quod R[adulphus] Archidiaconus tenere debet Ecclesiam de Sceltona, solvendo Canonicis annuatim decem marcas argenti quoad vixerit, et cartam Capituli de Gyseburne hæc continentem et confirmantem habebit. Vos autem, sicut apud Leicestriam convenit, prædictam Ecclesiam, vivente Archidiacono, sic tenendam, et post ejus intercessum Canonicis libere et quiete possidendam carta vestra confirmabit. Præterea operam adhibebitis et curam apud Comitum Albemari, vel per vos vel regia auctoritate, quatinus huic transactioni assensum præbeat; sin autem consentire noluerit, vos episcopali freti<sup>1</sup> auctoritate ratam et inconvulsam servari facietis. Hanc quidem transactionem R[adulphus] Archidiaconus, quod ad eum attinet, consilio nostro fide interposita confirmavit. Clerici autem vestri dicentes se super hoc mandatum non accepisse, nichil promittere voluerunt. Nos autem de constantia vestra et veritate confisi, et hoc onus intuitu honestatis vestræ in nos suscipientes, transactionem præfatam a vobis etiam observandam Canonicis promisimus, qui litteras ratæ<sup>2</sup> habitationis, tam Judicibus quam Archidiacono porrigentes, conventionem juxta formam præscriptam a se et Concanonicis suis fidei interpositione<sup>3</sup> de Gyseburne firmiter observandam promiserunt; et litteras ab auctoritate Apostolica sibi indultas penes nos retinuimus cum plenitudine jurisdictionis nobis commissæ, donec cartis hinc inde præstitis omnia compleantur. Terminum huic rei perficiendæ festum B. Lucæ præfigimus. Sæpeditam pensionem x marcarum ad duos terminos, quinque scil. ad festum S. Martini, alias quinque ad Pentecosten persolvat Archidiaconus. Clerici vestri requisiti (286<sup>b</sup>) per quem staret quominus transactio apud Leycestriam inchoata sortiretur effectum, dixerunt per Canonicos stetisse qui formam coram nobis præscriptam excedere noluerunt et mutare. Norwicensi Episcopis, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Conquestionem dilectorum filiorum Prioris et Can. de Gyseburne recepimus continentem, quod venerabilis frater noster, Ebor. Archiepiscopus, super Ecclesiam de Sceltona, quam bonæ memoriæ R[ogerus], prædecessor ipsius, ad usus proprios eis dicitur contulisse, illis injuriosus est nimium et molestus, eos compellens Personam ad ipsam Ecclesiam in ipsorum præjudicium præsentare. Quocirca fraternitati vestræ per Apostolica scripta mandamus, quatinus ipsum ab indebita eorum molestatione super Ecclesia præmissa desistere, monitione præmissa, appellatione remota, districtione quam convenit compellatis, ipsamque faciatis ab eis, appellatione præposita, sicut justum fuerit, auctoritate Apostolica pacifice possideri, nullis litteris veritati et justitiæ præjudicantibus a Sede Apostolica impetratis. Quod si non ambo hiis exequendis poteritis interesse, alter vestrum ea nichilominus exequatur. Dat. Laterani viij Idus Martii, Pontificatus nostri anno quinto. Hujus igitur auctoritate ma[n]dati partibus in nostra præsentia constitutis, et Domino Norwicensi ad totam causam litteratorie excusato, ex parte Prioris et Can. est propositum, quod Archiepiscopus injuste eos compellit ad Clericum ad Ecclesiam de Sceltona præsentandum; ex parte Domini Archiepiscopi per procuratorem ipsius fuit responsum, quod Archiepiscopus nec compellit nec vult compellere. Canonicis autem replicantibus de compulsione ab Archiepiscopo, etiam post litem motam facta, testes Canonicorum admisimus. Et demum attestationibus publicatis, juris ordine in omnibus servato, cum nobis perconstaret per instrumentum Diocesani et per privilegia Romanorum Pontificum, quod Ecclesia de Sceltona in usus proprios sit concessa, sententialiter de virorum prudentium consilio pronuntiavimus, Archiepiscopum Ebor. non posse compellere Canonicos Clericum ad supradictam Ecclesiam de Sceltona præsentare.

DCCCXXXVII. W[alterus], Dei gratia Ebor. Archiepiscopus, Angliæ Primas, Justiciariis de Banco, salutem in Domino. Litteras Domini Regis recepimus in hæc verba. Henricus, Dei gratia Rex Angliæ, Dominus Hiberniæ, Dux

Normanniæ, Aquitaniæ, et Comes Andegaviæ, venerabili patri in Cristo eadem gratia Ebor. Archiepiscopo, et Angliæ Primati, salutem. Sciatis quod cum Petrus de Brus in Curia nostra coram Justiciariis apud Westmonasterium arrannasset assisam ultimæ præsentationis versus Priorem de Gyseburne de Ecclesia de Schelton; idem Prior venit in eadem Curia nostra, et respondit ei, quod assisa non debuit inde fieri, eo quod Ecclesia illa non vacat, quia ipse et prædecessores sui, Priores de Gyseburne, jam quadraginta annis elapsis et amplius, in proprios usus suos illam optinuerunt. Et ideo vobis mandamus, quod per litteras vestras patentes scire faciatis præfatis Justiciariis nostris apud Westmonasterium a die Apostolorum Petri et Pauli in xv<sup>ta</sup> dies, utrum prædicta Ecclesia vacans sit, vel non. Et si prædictus Prior eam habeat in proprios usus, et a quo tempore ipse et prædecessores sui Priores illam in proprios usus habuerunt. Teste, R[oberto] de Lexinton, apud Westmonasterium, xiiij die Junii, anno regni nostri xxij<sup>o</sup> (1238). Nos autem mandato Domini Regis parere volentes juxta formam ejusdem, per dilectum filium Archidiaconum Clyvelandæ inquisitionem fieri fecimus in Capitulo Clyvelandæ, quod quidem dicit expresse memoratam Ecclesiam de Schelton non vacare, eo quod Prior et Conventus de Gyseburne fuerunt in possessione dictæ Ecclesiæ per xlvj annos et amplius, et eam in proprios usus habuerunt et habent. Et pro certo scimus, quod temporibus nostris eam per viginti duos annos pacifice tenuerunt, et eos pro personis habuimus et adhuc habemus. In cujus rei test. has litteras nostras vobis transmittimus. Datum apud Purl', iij<sup>o</sup> Idus Julii, Pontificatus nostri anno xxiiij (1238).

Quocirca discretioni vestræ mandamus, diligentem faciatis inquisitionem utrum prædicta Ecclesia vacans sit an non; et si idem Prior illam habeat in proprios usus, et a quo tempore ille et prædecessores sui ipsam Ecclesiam in usus proprios habuerunt. Et quid inveneritis nobis per litteras vestras patentes intimetis. Valete. Cum itaque iidem Clerici et alii super singulis articulis in mandato Domini Ebor. comprehensis diligenter fuissent requisiti, unanimiter responderunt quod dicta Ecclesia tunc temporis non vacavit, quia Prior et Conventus de Gyseburne ex concessione bonæ memoriæ Rogeri, Archiepiscopi, eisdem facta ad petitionem nobilis viri Adæ de Brus habuerunt, necnon ex confirmatione Capituli Ebor. et Romanorum Pontificum Lucii et Innocentii tertii. Requisiti a quo tempore, responderunt quod Priores de Gyseburne qui pro tempore fuerant et eorum Conventus Ecclesiam memoratam in usus proprios optinuerunt, et possederunt continue per quadraginta sex annos et amplius ante inquisitionem præsentem proximo preteritis, nec intercessit aliqua persona media inter eos et Radulphum de Alneto, qui ultimo et proximo ante eorundem ingressum obiit persona ejusdem. In hujus rei test. huic scripto sigilla nostra una cum sigillis aliorum Clericorum Decanatus Clyvelandæ apposuimus. Datum apud Stokesley v<sup>to</sup> Non. <sup>4</sup> This gift was confirmed by Henry II. in 1182 (Vol. i. p. 16).

<sup>5</sup> The family of Rosel, Roseles, or Russel, was settled from a very early period in North Yorkshire, where they held lauds as subinfeudatories of the Brus family. In answer to a quo warranto in the reign of Edward I. the then representative of the family, William de Roseles, affirmed that he and his ancestors had enjoyed a park and free warren in Aislaby, near Whitby, from the time of the Conquest, an assertion which was accepted by the Jury (Whitby Chart., ii. 717, and Yorkshire Assise Rolls, N. 1. 9-1, m. 77<sup>b</sup>).

animæ meæ et amicorum meorum, et pro animabus patris et matris meæ et antecessorum meorum, dedisse, et hac carta mea confirmasse Ecclesiæ S. M. de Gyseburne, et Fratribus

There is no doubt a certain amount of exaggeration in this statement, as the name of Rosel does not occur in the Domesday for Yorkshire, and it is not likely they became settled in that county before Robert de Brus, who got his fee at the earliest at the very end of the Conqueror's reign. Still, after making all allowance, there is unimpeachable evidence to show that they were landowners in North Yorkshire in the reign of Henry I. Roger de Rosel, the earliest ancestor mentioned, gave a bovate in Easington to Guisbrough in 1119, when the Priory was founded (Vol. i. p. 9). Unluckily the deed by which this grant was made is now missing. In the Whitby Chartulary (i. 35) he and two other milites of Robert de Brus were witnesses to a charter of Alan, son of William de Percy, who was dead before 1135. The next member of the family is Stephen de Rosel, probably son of Roger, who in 1162-3 paid the King 40s. (Pipe Roll. 9 Hen. II. p. 60). He occurs as a witness to a charter by Adam de Brus II. (Vol. i. p. 9), and also to charters about Hutton Lowcross, which were probably executed about 1170 (Ibid. pp. 165, 166). In the last of these his son Roger is mentioned, who is the donor in No. 915, and, as it appears from the charter next following, was a contemporary of Archbishop Roger, 1154-1181. His brother and heir, Adam, who is mentioned in both these charters (see also No. 481), must have died without issue, as in No. 916A, which is dated 1186, another brother, Richard, takes Adam's place. From this point the pedigree is obscure. There is a Reginald de Rosels, who quitclaimed all right in the chapel of Aselby to Whitby during the Abbacy of Abbot Peter, who held that office from about 1190 to about 1211 (Whitby Chart., ii. 401). Reginald de Rosel, possibly the same person, confirmed to Rievaulx his part of a toft in Newton under Auhmberge, now Roseberry, which the Monks of Fountains had held of his father Stephen

(Rievaulx Chart., 281). In 1231 Stephen de Rosel, probably a son of Reginald, was alive (Vol. i. p. 221). He and his wife, Isabel, concurred in granting a bovate in Liverton to Whitby (Whitby Chart., ii. 378). With Stephen we get on sure ground. He ultimately became a knight (No. 425). His son William, who also became a knight, has been already named in this volume as a benefactor to the Priory in relation to lands at Newton-in-Cleveland (Nos. 711, 713). He occurs at different periods between the years 1264 and 1307 (Whitby Chart., ii. 403, 417). At the time of Kirkby's Inquest (1284-5) he held three parts of a knight's fee in Newton-in-Cleveland, Aislaby, and Thornton, the last place probably being Thornton in the parish of Stainton (Kirkby's Inquest, 128), and also in 1302-3 (Ibid. 236). In 2 Edw. II. (1308-9) Geoffrey de Roseles, Stephen de Roseles, Lawrence de Roseles, Thomas de Middlesburgh, Chaplain, and Ralph de Neuton - subtus - Othenberg, Clerk, executors of the will of William de Roseles, paid half a marc for a writ (Rot. Finium. 2 Edw. II. m. 4). Sir William had two sons, Geoffrey and Michael. They were both alive in 1317-18, when they renounced rights in Newton in favour of Guisbrough (Nos. 712A, 712B). By a fine dated 1300, in which Geoffrey de Roseles was plaintiff, and William de Roseles, senior, deforciant, the manor of Neuton-subtus-Othenbergh was settled on Geoffrey in tail, with remainders to his brothers Stephen and John, and finally to William de Roseles, senior, and his heirs (Pedes Finium Ebor., 27-29 Edw. I. No. 180). This last-mentioned John de Roseles was living in 7 Edw. III. (p. 77 n.). In 1315-6, according to the Nomina Villarum, the nomenclature of which is very corrupt, Newton was in the possession of Geoffrey Casel, no doubt an error for Geoffrey de Roseles. At the same time Aislaby is said to have belonged to William de Rosas, whilst the owner of Thornton was Robert (blank) (Ibid. 329, 330). Here we lose sight of the family. According to the pedigree of the Boyntons of Burton Agnes, given in Foster's Visitations (p. 8), Sir Thomas Boynton married Catherine, daughter and co-heir of Sir Geoffrey Rossells, which is confirmed by Dodsworth (MSS. cxviii. 140<sup>b</sup>). The Boyntons, on the strength of this alliance, quartered the arms of Russell, (Argent), a chevron azure between three roses gules (Foster, 447).

<sup>2</sup> The date of this charter is early in the thirteenth, probably in or shortly before the year 1218, when No. 921 was executed. The gift of the church of Liverton to Guisbrough by Henry, son of Conan, was confirmed by Peter de Brus II. in No. 215 (Vol. i. p. 95). Very little is mentioned about the donor in this or the Whitby Chartulary. His family is a somewhat difficult one to trace, as the members of it appear under different names. Sometimes their name was of local origin, as Manfield, from a property of that name near Darlington, or Kelfield, from another in the parish of Stillingleet; sometimes it was patronymic, as FitzConan, or Fitz-Henry. The occurrence in this family of the name Conan, a favourite one amongst the Bretons, and their being possessed of the manors of Manfield and Kelfield, both held of the Honour of Richmond, which belonged to the Dukes of Brittany, might lead one to infer that the family had originally come from that part of France. Their true descent, however, is shown in some charters relating to land in Heslington, which belonged to the Hospital of St. Peter of York (Dodsworth MSS. cxxix. 33). By these deeds Robert, son of Copesi, and Thorfin, Robert's son and heir (Copesi or Copsige being an English name, and Thorfin, a Norse one), gave to Robert, the Warden (custos) of the Hospital of St. Peter of York, a carucate of land and two bovates in Haslingtuna, then held by Aldred the Priest, with the crofts belonging to them, and with a moiety of the copse (virgulti) of the same vill, at a yearly rent of 10s. This gift was confirmed by Conan, son of Thorfin, son of Robert, in a charter witnessed by Peter, son of Thorfin, presumably Conan's brother, and by Iveta,

Conan's wife (Ibid. 84). Thorfin, son of Robert, was alive in 12 & 13 John (1210-1212), when he paid two marks for his land in Richmondshire, no doubt his fee at Manfield (Ibid. xlvi. 31). On April 12, 1404, Henry, son of Thomas, son of Henry of Kelfield, a descendant no doubt of Robert, son of Copesi, the original donor, granted to Master Nicholas de Bubwith and others the rent of 10s. arising from lands in Heslington, which the Master and Brethren of the Hospital of St. Peter of York held of him, and which descended to him by hereditary right on the death of his father (Ibid. cxxix. 85). The intermediate steps of the pedigree are not quite clear. Conan, son of Henry (if the name is given rightly), who is a witness to No. 930, a charter by Peter de Brus I., which must have been executed very early in the thirteenth century, was probably a grandson of Conan, son of Thorfin, and father of Henry, son of Conan, who quitclaimed to Guisbrough all right in Liverton Chapel in No. 920. If, as is quite possible, the true reading is Henry, son of Conan, then the donor of Liverton Chapel was son of Conan, son of Thorfin. I think this is the more likely, as on the other supposition there seems hardly time enough to get all the generations in. Henry, son of Conan, occurs as a witness to No. 745, which was confirmed by King John in 1210 (No. 750). How he became possessed of the manor of Liverton, I have no information. The probatio ætatis of his grandson and heir, Henry, son of Conan, taken in Hilary Term, 28 Edw. I. (1299-1300) gives a good deal of information about the family (Calendarium Genealogicum, ii. 597). The grandson at that time had attained the age of twenty-two years, having been born at Sockburn. General Plantagenet Harrison (History of Yorkshire, i. 108) says that cessorum et successorum meorum. . . . Deo etc. . . . totum jus et clamium quod habui, vel habere potui, in advocacione Capellæ de Lyverton ad Ecclesiam suam de Esington perti-

Petronilla, mother of Conan, son of Henry, was daughter and heiress of Henry, son of Conan Topping of Kelkefeld, and widow of Sir Humphrey Conyers of Bishopton, in the County of Durham. This may possibly be true, but as the General systematically omits references, it is impossible to verify his statements. A Yorkshire Assize Roll for 1291-2 (N. 1. 13-3, fo. 46<sup>b</sup>) records an unsuccessful action by Stephen de Esington, and Agnes, his wife, against Petronilla de Coyners, guardian of the land and heir of Conan, son and heir of Henry of Kelkefeld, for dower arising from lands in Kelkefeld belonging to Agnes' first husband, Roger, son of Henry. This action disproves the General's statement, as if Petronilla had been the heiress of Kelkefeld, she would on her husband's death have held it in her own right, and not as her son's guardian. It is further disproved by Henry, son of Conan, Petronilla's father-in-law, having a charter of freewarren there in 55 Hen. III. (1270-1), as well as in Fleetham and Liverton (Cal. Rot. Chart., 106). In the probatio it is stated that at the time of his grandson's baptism, Henry, son of Conan, then residing at Liverton, was so weak that he could not travel to Sockburn to attend the ceremony, but he desired that the child, whether male or female, should be named after him. The grandfather died sixteen years before the date of the probatio, that is in 1283-4. His son Conan, who seems to have predeceased him, was witness to a charter dated 1283, where he is styled Sir Henry, son of Conan, knight (Kirkby's Inquest, 63a., quoting Dodsworth MSS. ix. 81). He must have died whilst still young, as at the time of his son's birth the countryside were astonished that he could beget children, as he was "tam teneræ ætatis tempore quo mater prædicti heredis fuit de eo prægnans" (Probatio). Henry, son of Conan, was alive and in possession of Liverton in 1302-3 (Kirkby's Inquest, p. 236), which by 1316-7 had passed into the hands of William le Latimer (Ibid., p. 329). At the same date Henry, son of Henry, son of Conan, was lord of Kelkefeld (Ibid., p. 319). Dodsworth (MSS. vi. 20<sup>b</sup>) gives a pedigree of the family from the first Conan down to a Thomas FitzHenry, knight, who made his will in 1400, and left a widow, Anastasia. The pedigree requires a good deal of verification and correction. Thomas's father was a William fitz Henry de Kelkefeld, knight, who died in 21 Edw. III. (1347-8). At York there is the will of John FitzHenry of Kelkefeld, Esq., made and proved in 1440, an abstract of which is given in Test. Ebor., ii. 217. In 1473 administration to the estate of William FitzHenry of Kelkefeld, in the parish of Stillington, was granted to his widow, Elizabeth (Reg. Test., iv. 194). I am unable to give any further steps in the descent of this family, which must soon after have become extinct. The Rokebys of Manfield married an heiress of FitzHenry of Richmondshire, and quartered their arms, Argent, on a cross engrailed sable an annulet or, as did the Stillingtons of Kelkefeld, but in their case the arms were, Ermine, a cross engrailed gules (Foster's Yorkshire Visitations, 199, 683). Dodsworth (MSS. vii. 43), who has copied No. 920, gives a drawing of the seal attached to the deed. It appears to bear a shield lozengy, with something like a crescent in chief. SIGILL' HENRICI FIL' CONANI. This does not agree with the quarterings just given, and is also contradicted by a Roll of Arms of the reign of Edw. III. (Ed. Nicolas, p. 4), where Monsire Conan de Kelkefeld bore, Argent, a cross engrailed gules. On March 15, 2 Hen. v. (1414-5) Henry fitz Henry Kellefelde, then at Withesand, more usually Wissantum, now Wissant, a little north of Boulogne, bore on his seal a cross engrailed. The deed to which the seal is appended is a very interesting one. It is an agreement between Henry fitz Henry de Kellefelde, and Peter, Sire de Maulay, by which in consideration of 100s. a year payable out of de Mauley's manor of Birdsall, de Kellefelde agreed to serve him during his life against all persons except the King. He was also to have a dress of cloth (vesture de drape) like the other esquires. Azincourt was fought on Oct. 15 in the same year, and it is almost certain that de Kellefelde was engaged in that fight. To give an idea of the equipment of an esquire, I extract the covenant de Kellefelde entered into when he agreed to serve Lord de Mauley:—

"Et le dit Henry serra ben mountez et armez et arraes, come assert a home des armes de son estat, pur chivacher owes le dit Piers, a quel temps qil serra resonablement garnez et requiez de par le dit Piers. Et quant le dit Henry travelera horse del roialme en presence le dit seigneur, il avera et prendra gagez pur luy mesmes, deux vailletes, un garçon, et quatre chivaux, et autres regards semblables, come autres esquiers prendrout del retenu du dit seigneur. Et si avien que le dit Henry prendra aschun capitaigne, cheyffeyne, ou home de estate des armes en temps de guerre, le dit seigneur avera le ditz capitaigne, cheftayne, ou home de estate dez armes a son propre oeps, rendant et paiant a dit Henry resonable regardez pur son travaille." (Dodsworth MSS. vii. 287). The business-like arrangements about the ransoms are very characteristic.

DCCCCXLII. (320) Ita convenit<sup>3</sup> inter Dominum Petrum de Brus tertium ex una parte, et Johannem Priorem et Conventum de Gyseburne ex altera, anno gratiæ m<sup>o</sup>cc<sup>o</sup>xl<sup>o</sup> quinto, secundo die Aprilis, coram Domino Henrico de Batonia, Justiciario Domini Regis, Domino Roberto filio Meldredi, Domino Step[h]ano de Meynil, Domino Johanne Hansard, et aliis; viz. quod Dominus Petrus de Brus concessit pro se et hæc. suis quod perpetuis temporibus tenebunt Priori et Conventui de Gyseburne sine omni impedimento et contradictione omnes articulos contentos in omnibus cirographis confectis in Curia Domini Regis, tam inter ipsum Petrum et prædictum Priorem et Conventum, quam inter Dominum Petrum de Brus, patrem ipsius Petri, et prædictos Priorem et Conventum, in omnibus rebus usitatis et non usitatis, et ipso die posuit prædictos Priorem et Conventum in saisinam, ut licite possint uti tam de actenus non usitatis quam usitatis. Concessit etiam idem Petrus pro se et hæc. suis, quod nec ipsi nec aliqui ex parte sua exigent in villa de Cotum, nec aliquam capient mercedem de mensuris.<sup>4</sup> Item concessit idem Petrus pro se et hæc. suis, quod naves portantes res ipsorum Prioris et Conventus ad portum de Cotum, sive fuerint propriæ naves ipsis Domus de Gyseburne, sive conductivæ et per Priorem et Conventum conductæ, quietæ sint ab omni præstatione

<sup>2</sup> These same persons are witnesses to No. 215, another general confirmation of Peter de Brus II. of the gifts, which the men of his fee and those holding of him had made to the Priory. The date is most probably 1239, when William de Ebor, Provost of Beverley, and Robert de Lex-

tolneti et exactione pro situ navis. Quod si forte res alienas deportaverint, non sint per hanc concessionem a præstatione tolneti<sup>1</sup> debiti ac consueti pro illis rebus [quietæ], nisi fuerint alicujus de familia ipsorum Prioris et Conventus, qui res ipsas ad utendum et non ad vendendum deportaverint. Item concessit idem Petrus pro se et hæ. suis præfatis Priori et Conventui, quod de cætero perpetuis temporibus quieti sint de terra, quam tenent in Lofthus, ab omni secta Curie, ita tamen quod facient forinsecum servitium, prout continetur in carta ipsorum quam inde habent. Concessit etiam idem Petrus pro se et hæ. suis, quod nec ipsi nec homines sui de cætero impediunt homines nec canes ipsorum Prioris et Conventus alicubi infra limites territorii sui de Gyseburnæ, salvis eidem Petro et hæ. suis feris in loco qui dicitur Westwith; ita tamen quod si canes prædictorum Prioris et Conventus divisas suas transierint bestiam sequendo, usque in forestam ipsius Petri prædicti, dummodo non fuerint secuti per homines dictorum Prioris et Conventus, sive bestias ceperint sive non, sine captione et impedimento dimittantur. Si vero homines ipsorum Prioris et Conventus prosecuti fuerint canes ipsorum in foresta prædicti Petri, secundum consuetudinem forestæ suæ ei emendabitur. Dicti autem Petrus et hæredes sui de cætero solvent prædictis Priori et Conventui decimam totius venationis suæ in parochiis suis. Et idem Petrus de arreragiis rationabiliter sine dilatione satisfaciet prædictis Priori et Conventui. Decimas autem molendinorum suorum in parochiis suis solvent de cætero præfatis Priori et Conventui idem Petrus et hæredes sui, si in denariis ad firmam fuerint dimissa, vel in blado; si pro blado fuerint affirmata, vel in manu ipsorum retenta, præstito tamen prædictis Priori et Conventui a custodibus molendinorum corporali sacramento de fidei solutione. Et idem Petrus (320<sup>b</sup>) de subtractis decimis molendinorum prædictorum Priori et Conventui plene sine dilatione satisfaciet. Item dictus Petrus solvet prædicto Priori et co-executoribus suis testamenti Domini Petri de Brus, patris sui, defuncti, pecuniam, quam eis debet pro bonis prædicti patris sui, quam ei dimiserunt, ita quod, debitis plenarie solutis, de ipsius Petri scientia assignabitur residuum, in quantum se bona possint extendere, ad complendam ultimam voluntatem ipsius defuncti. Si quid autem solutum est per prædictum Petrum de debitis patris sui, rationabiliter et plene ei allocabitur.

Dampna vero quæ dicti Prior et Conventus dicunt se sustinuisse per prædictum Petrum et homines suos, per discretos viros æstimabuntur, et usque diffusum tempus æstimatio dampnorum differetur, quamdiu idem Petrus bene et amicaliter erga prædictos Priorem et Conventum se habuerit. Quod si non fecerit statim, competet eis reparatio.<sup>1</sup> Omnes vero articuli præscripti, qui rationabiliter poterunt cirographari, cirographabuntur coram Justiciariis Domini Regis de Banco in quindena Paschæ prox. ministrantibus,<sup>2</sup> per partes superscriptas, vel per partium a[t] tornatos. <sup>1</sup> By a fine dated St. Clement's day, 19 Hen. III. (Nov. 17, 1234), about five roods of land in Hildrewell, Osbert Wyrfauc quitclaimed to Marmaduke de Tweng the land which the latter had of the gift of William Wyrfauc, Osbert's father, and also all right in the advowson of the church of Hildrewell (Pedes Finium Ebor., 16-19 Hen. III. No. 100).

<sup>2</sup> This gift of the church of Sherburn in the East Riding, called in No. 963a Schireburne in Hertfordlyth, was confirmed by Henry II. in 1182, as were also the donor's gifts of the tithe of the mills there, and a carucate in Uggethorpe (Vol. i., p. 17). At a later period Michael, Prior of Guisbrough, acknowledged that his Priory was bound to pay to the Priory of Malton 14s. a year for half a carucate in Scireburna (Malton Chart., Cott. MSS. Claud. On Aug. 12, 1252, the King took the homage of Adam de Everingham, son and heir of Isabella de Everingham, for all the lands and tenements his mother had held in chief (Ibid., ii. 136). Adam settled the capital messuage with the manor of Staynburgh, now Stainbrough in the parish of Silkston, in frank marriage on his daughter Margery and Robert de Percy; which manor was resettled in 3 Edward II. (1309-10) by Robert de Percy of Kernetby, now Carnaby, on his son Edmund for life (Dodsworth MSS. cxxxiii. 18b, 19). as of Essex (Eyton's Itinerary of Henry II., 230). It was probably by this marriage that he acquired an interest in Ugthorpe. At the time of Domesday Ughetorp was part of the Terra Regis. The witnesses to this deed are all from Holderness, of which the Earls of Albemarle were the chief lords.

DCCCCLXXXVIII. (328<sup>b</sup>) Anno gratiæ m<sup>o</sup>cc<sup>o</sup>lx<sup>o</sup> nono, ad festum S. Martini in hyeme, facta est hæc conventio inter Dominum Radulphum, Priorem, et Conventum Gyseburnæ et parte una, et Dominam Aviciam, Priorissam, et Conventum Sanctimonialium de Grendale ex altera, viz. quod eadem Priorissa et Conventus dimiserunt ad firmam perpetuam prædictis Priori et Can. et eorum succ. totam terram quam habuerunt, quæ vocatur Percybiging juxta Uggethorp, cum messuagiis et clausis, boscis, planis, pratis, pascuis, moris, mariscis, turbariis, viis, semitis, aquis, stagnis, vivariis et omnibus aliis pert., libertatibus et aysiamendis ad prædictam terram ubique pertinentibus. Insuper et totum jus et clamium quod habuerunt, vel aliquatenus habere potuerunt, in aliquibus easdem Sanctimoniales ratione prædictæ terræ cum pert. aliquo modo contingentibus, pro quadam summa pecuniæ quam præfati Prior et Conventus prædictis Sanctimonialibus præ manibus dederunt. Insuper reddendo inde perpetuis temporibus annuatim prædictis Priorissæ et Conventui viginti sex quarteria frumenti rationabiliter purgati, et communi modio patriæ mensurati, ad duos terminos, viz. medietatem inter festum S. Michaelis et festum S. Martini in hyeme prox. sequens, apud Brotton, et aliam medietatem inter festum Pentecostes et festum Nativitatis S. Johannis Baptiste prox. sequens, apud Merske, pro omni servitio, consuetudine et exactione sæculari. Ita quod liceat præfatis Priori et Can. et eorum succ. de prædicta terra cum omnimodis pert. memoratis ac aliis quibuscunque ad ipsam quoquo modo spectantibus, pro voluntate sua ubicunque et quandocumque et qualitercumque commodum suum facere. Remiserunt etiam præfatæ Sanctimoniales prædictis Priori et Conventui totam communam quam habuerunt in boscis et pascuis de Uggethorpe, prætextu compositionis inter ipsas et ipsos prius confectæ.<sup>2</sup> Prædicti vero Prior et Conventus concesserunt præfatis Sanctimonialibus singulis annis tres tractus virgarum de bosco suo de Uggethorp, per manus forestariorum eorundem Prioris et Conventus percipiendos. Prædictæ vero Priorissa et Sanctimoniales et earum succestrices præfatis Priori et Can. et eorum succ. totam prædictam terram cum omnibus ad eandam pertinentibus contra omnes homines warantzabunt, adquietabunt et defendent inperp. pro firma prædicta bladi solummodo pro omnibus. Si autem prædicti Prior et Can. a solutione præfatæ firmæ bladi ad aliquem terminum defecerint, licebit prædictis Priorissæ et Sanctimonialibus memoratam terram cum pert. libere et absque alicujus contradictione seu impedimento per inventa in eadem distringere, donec de firma supradicta eis fuerit plene satisfactum. Si vero præfati Prior et Can. aut eorum succ., pro defectu warrantiæ vel adquietationis aut defensionis prædictæ terræ cum pert., aliquas expensas fecerint vel dampnum sustinuerint eadem Priorissa et Sanctimoniales hujusmodi expensas et dampna memoratis Priori et Can. plenarie refundent; licebitque dictis Can. tantum de supradicta firma blady retinere quantum rationabiliter ostendere poterunt se in hujusmodi dampnis et expensis perdidisse, nec alias eisdem fuerit satisfactum. Ut autem hæc conventio rata et illibata sit in perp., prædicti Prior et Can. ex parte una, et præfatæ Priorissa et Sanctimoniales ex altera, huic scripto cyrographato sigilla Capitulum suorum apposuerunt. DCCCCLXXXIX. (329) Notum sit omnibus hoc scriptum visuris vel audituris, quod cum inter Priorem et Conventum Gyseburnæ ex una parte, et Dominum Petrum de Malo lacu<sup>1</sup> et Ysabellam uxorem suam ex altera, super quadam parte terræ ex orientali parte de Uggethorp quæ vocatur Calange, et super quadam mora ex australi parte de Uggethorp versus Sletholme, contentio diu extitisset, tandem inter partes amicabiliter convenit in hunc modum; scil. quod prædicta area quæ vocatur Kalange dicto Domino Petro, et Ysabellæ uxori grave for his wife. This is not at all probable, as de Mauley, as is mentioned below, had to pay a very heavy fine for the marriage, and William of Newburgh, a contemporary writer living in the neighbourhood, and an author worthy of credit, says nothing of any such suspicion. In 1202 Peter de Mauley had lands given him by the King in Normandy (Rotuli Normanniæ, 66). This is the earliest contemporary notice we have of him. He was a man of some im-suæ, et hæ. suis, quæta inperp. de præfatis Priore et Can. remanebit, et mora prænominata dictis Priori et Can. et hominibus suis, et præfato Domino Petro, et Ysabellæ uxori suæ, et hæ. suis [et] nativis, communis inperp. remanebit per has divisas; scil. sicut semita quæ vocatur Nunnesty ducit ad Percybiging usque ad Ormescrosse ex una parte, et ex altera, sicut via de Cliveland ducit de Ormescrosse usque ad Petram Stantem, et de alia Petra usque ad divisam inter Percybiging et Birkscouch. Ita quod nec præfati Prior et Can., nec præfati Dominus Petrus nec Ysabella uxor ejus, nec hæredes sui, nec homines ipsorum, infra prædictas divisas aliquid fodient vel decorticabunt. Et sciendum quod tam dictus Petrus et Ysabella uxor sua, quam dictus Prior, fide mediante, concesserunt quod conventionem istam in primo adventu Justiciariorum Itinerantium in partes Ebor., de assensu partium facient cyrographari. Et in hujus rei test. præsentis scripto utraque pars sigillum suum apposuit. H. T. Domino Ada de Hylton, Rogero de Stapelton tunc Vicecomite,<sup>1</sup> Willemo Ruffes, Magistro Johanne de Tyd, Johanne de Langeberg, Willemo de Salkoc, Henrico de Uplyum, Johanne de Tocotes, et m. a.

<sup>1</sup> Peter de Mauley was a Poitevin by birth, but left his native country at an early age, entrusting the care of his hereditary property to his younger brother (Chronicon de Melsa, i. 105). Walter of Hemingburgh (i. 232), who was living a century after the event, says that when King John was in Aquitaine in 1199, he killed his nephew Arthur by the hand of his esquire, Peter de Mauley, whom he afterwards rewarded with a grant of the heiress of the barony of Mul-

portance in the reigns of John and Henry III. Matthew Paris (Chronica Majora, ii. 532) reckons him, and Robert de Vipont, and Yvo his brother, Hugh de Bailliol and Bernard his brother, Philip, Bishop of Durham, and Philip de Ulecotes, amongst King John's evil counsellors. In the earlier part of Henry III.'s reign he filled many important posts. In 1226 he had the castles of Corfe and Sherborne in his custody (Excerpta à Rotulis Finium i. 143), and in 1233-4 was entrusted with that of Devizes (Close Roll. 18 Hen. III., m. 81). He was Sheriff of Dorset and Somerset in 2-5 Hen. III., and of Northants in the last quarter of 20 Hen. III. His wife, Isabel, who is mentioned above, was the daughter and heiress of Robert de Turnham. For this marriage he agreed with King John to pay the large sum of seven thousand marks (Excerpta à Rot. Finium, i. 54), which he paid in 1221 (Rot. Litt. Claus., i. 466b). In 1222 Brian de Insula was commanded to let Peter de Mauley have the forest of Egton (Eketon), as Robert de Turnham, his wife's father, had had it (Ibid., i. 491b). Peter and his wife were still alive in 1235, when they were tenants in a fine about four bovates of land in Sandal (Saundale), in which Ralph de Verneiles and Joan his wife were the plaintiffs (Pedes Finium Ebor., 16-19 Hen. III. No. 132). In 1238 the executors of Isabella de Turnham, late wife of Peter de Mauley, had a pardon of the thirtieth, arising from corn, etc., in the manors of Baynton and Cliff in Yorkshire (Close Roll. 22 Hen. III., m. 20). The Meaux chronicler (i. 165) says she predeceased her husband, and was buried in the Chapter House of that Abbey. Her husband founded a chapel in the copse (capellam in bosco), and gave to Meaux two bovates in Wharrom, three librates in Ake, and two mills in Birdsall and Lockington, to found a chantry in the chapel for her soul (Ibid.). Her husband went to the Holy Land in 1241 (Yorkshire Inquisitions, i. 12), when he was succeeded by his son of the same name.

DCCCCXC.<sup>1</sup> Notum sit omnibus Cristi fidelibus, quod ita convenit inter Aviciam, Priorissam, et Conventum Sanctimonialium Ecclesiæ S. Mariæ de Gryndale ex parte una, et Radulphum, Priorem, et Conventum Gyseburnæ ex altera, viz. quod prædictæ Priorissa et Sanctimoniales dimiserunt ad firmam perpetuam præfatis Priori et Can. unam bov. terræ et duo tofta cum suis pert. in Campis et villa de Marton, viz. illam bov. terræ quam prædictæ Sanctimoniales habuerunt ex dono Engrami de Boynton, et quæ jacet propinquior quatuor bov. terræ Willelmi Tosti, et quam dictus Engramus emit de Roberto Galicien; et unum scil. toftum quod dictæ Sanctimoniales habuerunt similiter ex dono dicti Engrami, et in quo Robertus Galicien quandocunque mansit, et quod dictus Engramus de eodem Roberto emit; et aliud quoque toftum cum crofto quod præfata Sanctimoniales habuerunt ex dono Thomæ de Scalyng, et quod eisdem prædictus Engramus confirmavit. Reddendo inde annuatim prædictis Sanctimonialibus quatuor quart. frumenti rationabiliter purgati, et communi modio patriæ mensurati, in grangia dictorum Can. apud Marton ad duos terminos, viz. duo quart. ad festum S. Martini in hyeme, et duo quart. ad festum Pentecostes, solummodo pro omnibus. Prædicti vero Can. tenebunt et habebunt præfatam bov. terræ et prædicta tofta, libere, quiete, pacifice et integre, cum omnibus libertatibus, liberis consuetudinibus et aisiamentis cum pert. omnibus et singulis ad prædictam bov. terræ et præfata tofta qualitercunque spectantibus. Et prædictæ Sanctimoniales et succestrices earum memoratis Can. et eorum succ. prædictam bov. terræ et præfata tofta cum suis pert. universis, tantummodo pro firma bladi prædicta, contra omnes homines warantizabunt, acquietabunt et defendent in lib. pur. et perp. elem. Et si contingat dictos Can. pro defectu warantiæ, acquietationis et defensionis hujusmodi jacturam vel dampnum incurrere, licebit eis tantum de firma bladi præfata subtrahere quantum per defectum hujusmodi rationabiliter poterunt ostendere se totaliter amisisse. Et ut hæc conventio stabilis et illibata permaneat, prædictæ Sanctimoniales sigillum Capituli sui ex parte una, et præfati Can. sigillum Capituli sui ex altera huic scripto cyrographato apponi fecerunt. <sup>2</sup> Mr. Skaife proposes to identify Sletholme, a place named in Kirkby's Inquest (p. 125) as in the fee of Peter de Malolacu, with Lealholm. But that is quite out of the question, as Lealholm, more anciently Lelom, Lelum, Lelholm, Laclum, etc., was beyond all question in the Brus Fee, and was disposed of accordingly in the partition between the Brus heirs, when Lelholm fell to the share of Marmaduke de Twenge and Lucy his wife (Yorkshire Inquisitions, i. 148). At the date of the appearance of the aforesaid volume, I was disposed to identify Sletholm with what is now called Barnby Sleights, and I think No. 972 nearly or quite settles the question. The "moor above the wood called Micklescov," which lies to the east of Uggethorp (as it is between that vill and the Mauley boundaries), "towards Sletholme and Birkescov," is thus locally described in such a manner that the existing names, Sleights and Briscoe, must inevitably suggest themselves as the modern representatives of those old designations; while Percy Bigging, named again and again below, is doubtless preserved in the present Biggin Houses. It may further be remarked that in the 6-inch Ordnance Survey (Sheet 81) the "track of an old fence" is found laid down, which, it is more than probable, is identical with the lines of the ancient enclosure mentioned in more than one of the present series of documents. There is yet another local name in the same vicinity which probably admits of identification:—I refer to Cuckett Nook, the first part of which I think embalms the older form Cuckewalde, named at p. 134 of Kirkby's Inquest, both in the text and notes.—J. C. A.

<sup>1</sup> The pedigree of the very important family of Stuteville requires careful investigation. The two extracts from Plea Rolls which follow, give a trustworthy foundation on which to build the pedigree. The first is from the Placito de quo warranto for 7, 8, 9 Edw. 1. (p. 198), where Baldwin de Wake, in answer to a challenge by the King about certain liberties in Cottingham and elsewhere, pleads:—"Quod ipse clamat habere furcas in maneriis suis de Cottingham, et Buttercrambe, et Scraingham, quod est membrum de Buttercrambe, et liberam warennam in manerio de Cottingham, tali warranto, quod quidam Robertus Frontdebos de Stuteville, antecessor suus, venit cum Willelmo Bastardo, Conquestore Angliæ, et dicta maneria perquisivit, et dictis libertatibus toto tempore suo usus fuit, tanquam dictis maneriis annexis, et inde obiit seisisus. Cui successit Robertus, filius ejus, quem Henricus Rex, filius prædicti Conquestoris, de prædictis maneriis ejecit simul cum quibusdam aliis maneriis et tenementis. Et dicit quod postea Henricus Rex, filius Imperatricis, reddidit cuidam Roberto, filio Roberti secundi, prædicta maneria de Cottingham et Buttercram, ut jus et hæreditatem suam, et ea sibi concessit et confirmavit cum omnibus libertatibus et pert. suis, adeo libere et quiete, sicut primus Robertus Frontdebos, tempore prædicti Conquestoris, et similiter sicut prædictus Robertus, filius ejusdem Roberti, tempore Henrici filii prædicti Conquestoris, ea unquam tenuerunt, per cartam suam, quam profert, et quæ hoc idem testatur. Et dicit quod Ricardus Rex postea confirmavit cuidam Willelmo, filio prædicti Roberti ultimi, prædicta maneria cum omnibus libertatibus prædictis, adeo integre sicut prædictus Robertus pater suus inde obiit seisisus. Et postea Johannes Rex similiter prædicta maneria confirmavit prædicto Roberto, filio prædicti Willelmi, cum omnibus prædictis libertatibus; et profert cartas, tam prædicti Ricardi Regis, quam prædicti Johannis Regis, quæ hoc idem testa[n]tur." In regard to this pedigree it is clear that, as no person of the name of Stuteville occurs in the Yorkshire Domesday, the original grant was made by William Rufus, and not by the Conqueror. At the time of the Survey (Domesday, Facsimile Edition, 60<sup>b</sup>, 61) Escraingham, Butercram, and Cotingham were the property of Hugh, son of Baldric. Frontdebos, or Frontdebos, reminds one of Reginald Frontdebouf, a prominent character in Ivanhoe. Some additions to the pedigree are to be found in the Rievaulx Chartulary. The second extract, which is from a Yorkshire Assize Roll of the same date (fo. 7), commences where the last one left off, and carries on the pedigree of the family to its extinction in the main line. The plea was a suit between Baldwin Wake and the Prior of Watton about a moiety of a carucate in Traneby, claimed by Baldwin, regarding which he said:—"Et unde quidam Willelmus, antecessor suus, fuit seisisus in dominico suo, ut de feodo et jure, tempore pacis tempore Ricardi Regis, avunculi domini Regis nunc, capiendo inde explecia ad valentiam, etc. Et de ipso Willelmo descendit jus etc. cuidam Roberto, ut filio et hæredi. MLXXXIXd. In Octabis S. Trinitatis 2 & 3 Edw. II. (1309). Ebor. Marmaducus de Twenge et Hugo Pegge in misericordia pro pluribus defaultis etc. Idem Marmaducus et Hugo summoniti fuerunt ad respondendum Roberto de la More de placito, quare ipsi simul cum Thoma le Charecter, Willelmo Cut, et Willelmo le Estorur ceperunt quendam leporarium ipsius Roberti, et eum injuste detinuerunt contra vadium et plegium etc. Et unde idem Robertus per attornatum suum queritur, quod prædicti Marmaducus et Hugo simul etc., die Lunæ prox. ante festum Purificationis B. M. anno regni Regis Edwardi, patris Regis nunc, tricesimo quinto [Jan. 30, 1306-7] in villa de Lundde in quodam loco, qui vocatur Hyngs, in bosco ejusdem villæ, ceperunt prædictum leporarium et eum injuste detinuerunt contra vadium etc., et adhuc detinent, unde dicit quod deterioratus est et dampnum habet ad valentiam quadraginta solidorum. Et inde producit sectam etc. Et petit quod prædicti Marmaducus et Hugo vadient ei deliberationem prædicti leporarii etc.

Et Marmaducus et Hugo veniunt, et vadiant ei deliberationem. Et idem Marmaducus respondet pro se et pro prædicto Hugone, et defendit vim et injuriam, quando etc. Et bene advocat captionem leporarii prædicti in loco prædicto et juste etc. Dicit enim quod ipse tenet manerium de Lundde, unde prædictus locus in quo etc. est parcella; infra quod manerium ipse habet liberam warrennam suam. Et dicit quod ipse prædictis die et anno invenit prædictum leporarium in prædicto loco infra warennam suam prædictam, qui cucurrerat in eadem et quandam cuniculum ceperat, et leporarium illum cepit, sicut ei bene licuit etc.

Et Robertus dicit, quod prædictus Marmaducus captionem super ipsum justam advocare non potest in hac parte. Quia dicit quod prædictum manerium de Lunde dudum fuit cujusdam Duncani Darel,<sup>1</sup> qui inde obiit seisis in dominico suo ut de feodo. Et de ipso Duncano quia obiit sine hærede de se, descendit manerium illud cum pert. quibusdam Emmæ, Helewisæ<sup>2</sup> et Muriellæ, ut sororibus et hæredibus, inter quas prædictum manerium cum pert. partitum fuit. Et de ipsa Emma descendit jus propartis suæ manerii prædicti cuidam Marmaduco, ut filio et hæredi. Et de ipso Marmaduco cuidam Roberto, ut filio et hæredi. Et de ipso Roberto cuidam Marmaduco, ut filio et hæredi, qui propartem suam manerii prædicti, et similiter propartem prædictæ Helewisæ, quam prædictus Marmaducus filius Emmæ post mortem ejusdem Helewisæ occupavit, et dedit isti Marmaduco nunc. Et de prædicta Muriella<sup>3</sup> descendit jus propartis suæ prædicti manerii etc. cuidam Johanni, ut filio et hæredi. Et de ipso Johanne, quia obiit sine hærede de se, descendit jus etc. cuidam Helewisæ, ut sorori et hæredi. Et de ipsa Helewisia cuidam Johanni, ut filio et hæredi. Et de ipso Johanni cuidam Jacobo, ut filio et hæredi. Et de ipso Jacobo descendit jus etc. isti Roberto, qui nunc queritur, ut filio et hæredi. Et

<sup>1</sup> In 3 John (1201-2) Dunekan Darel rendered an account to the Exchequer of 10s. (Rot. Cancellarii, p. 294). The pedigree in these pleadings is irreconcilable with that given in the note to No. 752A, which is supported by contemporary evidence. The only way out of the difficulty is to presume that there were two persons called Robert de Thweng, father and son, the former marrying Emma Darel, and the latter Matilda de Kilton, and that in these pleadings they have been taken for the same person. The first Robert may be the donor of the church of Legsby to Sixhills Priory.

<sup>2</sup> In 1204 Henry de Husseburne paid the King five marcs to have a writ against Helewis Darel for a debt of fifteen marcs (Rot. de Oblatis et Finibus, 218).

<sup>3</sup> In 1209 Walter, Prior of Thornholme in Lincolnshire, successfully resisted the claim of Richard, Prior of Warter, to the advowson of the church of Lund, calling Muriel Darel as his warranty (Pedes Finium Ebor., 6-16 John, No. 197).

dicit quod ipsi et antecessores sui, et similiter prædictus Marmaducus et feoffator suus, et ejus antecessores, a tempore prædicti Duncani Darel, communis antecessoris sui, semper huc usque tenuerunt prædictum boscum, in quo est etc., in communi et pro indiviso, tanquam participes etc. Et bene cognoscit quod prædictus Duncanus habuit liberam warennam in manerio prædicto, quæ quidem warennam adeo est annexa proparti ipsius Roberti quam ipse tenet, quam proparti ipsius Marmaduci, quam idem Marmaducus, ut prædictum est, perquisivit. Et ex quo ipsi tenent prædictum boscum in quo etc. in communi, petit iudicium si prædictus Marmaducus, habens statum participis, ut prædicitur, captionem prædictam super ipsum Robertum, participem suum, ratione warennæ prædictæ, justam advocare possit in hac parte etc.

Et Marmaducus dicit quod cum prædictus Robertus asserit ipsum Marmaducum esse participem suum etc., idem Marmaducus est omnino extraneus ipsi Roberto. Dicit enim quod ipse habet prædictum manerium cum pert. de dono prædicti Marmaduci, patris sui, qui illud perquisivit de prædicto Roberto, patre suo. Dicit etiam quod iidem Marmaducus et Marmaducus et Robertus, et ejusdem Roberti antecessores, manerium prædictum tenentes, fuerunt seisiti de libera warennam habenda in bosco prædicto, a tempore quo non extat memoria, in suo separali, faciendo attachiamenta et capiendos emendas tam de prædicto Roberto et antecessoribus suis, quam de aliis quibuscumque ibidem currentibus et transgressionem in eadem warennam facientibus, absque hoc quod prædictus Robertus seu antecessores sui, warennam suam ibidem habuerunt, sive in eadem cucurrerunt, vel attachiamenta seu emendas vel alia quæ ad liberam warennam pertinent unquam perceperunt. Et de hoc ponit se super patriam etc.

Et Robertus dicit quod prædictus Marmaducus prædicta warennam in suo separali in bosco suo habenda per temporis præscriptionem, ut allegat, gaudere non potest in hac parte; quia dicit, quod prædictus Johannes filius Muriellæ prædictæ, antecessor ipsius Roberti, cujus hæres ipse est, qui prædictum boscum tenuit insimul et pro indiviso cum præfato Marmaduco filio Emmæ, participis suo, et etiam cum prædicto Roberto filio ejusdem Marmaduci infra tempus memoriæ, viz. tempore Regis Johannis, proavi domini Regis nunc, et etiam tempore Regis Henrici, avi ejusdem Regis nunc, habuit liberam warennam in prædicto bosco, ratione propartis suæ prædictæ in communi simul cum præfatis Marmaduco et Roberto filio ejusdem Marmaduci, et emendas de transgressoribus in eadem et alia omnia ad warennam spectantia simul cum eisdem Marmaduco et Roberto pro voluntate sua habuit in eadem et percepit, ut eorum particeps etc. Et quod ita sit, petit quod inquiratur per patriam. Et Marmaducus similiter etc. Ideo præceptum est Vicecomiti, quod venire faciat hic in crastino Animarum xij, per quos etc. Et qui nec etc. ad recognoscendum etc. Quia tam etc. Ad quem diem idem Vicecomes non misit breve etc., ideo sicut prius præceptum est Vicecomiti quod venire faciat hic a die Paschæ in xv dies xij etc., per quos etc. Et Vicecomes sit etc. (De Banco. Trinity 2 & 3 Édw. II. No. 9, m. 59.)

witnesses it would seem that the date of this charter is some time during the third quarter of twelfth century. Adam, first Abbot of Meaux, held the office between 1150 and 1160, when he resigned. The Abbot of Whitby is Richard I. (de Burgh), who died in 1175, his predecessor having resigned in 1148 (Whitby Chart., i., p. lxxxvii.).

<sup>1</sup> From the Rievaulx Chart. (p. 55) it appears that the wife of Walter Engelram, as he is there called, was named Holdeard, and that she had property of her own in Welbury. He had three sons, William, Robert, and Walter (Ibid., pp. 75, 76). His father's name is unknown. His mother, Matildis, gave land in Welbury to Rievaulx (Ibid., pp. 75, 189). His uncle, William Engelram, gave a carucate in Ayresome to Guisbrough, when the Priory was founded (Vol. i. p. 3).

EAST HARLSEY.

MCII. Universis S. Matris Ecclesiæ filiis ad quos præsens scriptum pervenerit, S[imon], Decanus, H[amo], Præcentor Ebor., et B[ernardus], Prior de Novo Burgo, salutem in Domino. Noverit universitas vestra nos mandatum Domini Papæ suscepisse in hæc verba:—Celestinus Episcopus, servus servorum Dei, dilectis filiis Decano et Præcentori Ebor., et Priori de Novo Burgo, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Conquesti sunt nobis dilecti filii Prior et Can. de Giseb', quia Willelmus Clericus, et R. filius ejus, qui in Capella de Herlessei tanquam rector ipsius proximo ministravit, eandem Capellam

<sup>1</sup> The Ingleby intended is almost certainly Ingleby Arncliffe. Simon de Blencaneshop had a house in the adjoining parish of East Harlsey at a rather later date (Rievaulx Chart., 208). Simon de Blancansop is witness to three deeds now at Arncliffe Hall. These all appear to be of rather an earlier date than 1222. Richard was a brother of Simon de Blenkinsope (No. 1104).

<sup>2</sup> Lizea seems to be closely connected with lichiera, lichera, or licheria, to which Ducange gives the meaning of a wood-bedstead or couch. "In camera paramenti unum lectum . . . cum lichiera nova et scamno," is one of the passages quoted in support of this meaning. Lectus through the L. L. lectaria is the root whence these words come, besides our own litter, both in the sense of a portable bed and of bedding for animals.

ad Ecclesiam eorum de Erneclive in præjudicium juris Canonice ipsorum subtrahere non verentur supradictis Canonicis. Quam igitur clamantibus ad nos in sua justitia nos oportet adesse, diligentie vestre per apostolica scripta mandamus, quatinus vocatis ad presentiam vestram, quos videritis esse vocandos, Capellam ipsam eisdem Canonicis faciatis, appellatione cessante, restitui, vel sub vestro examine justitie plenitudinem exhiberi, nullis litteris veritati et justitie præjudicantibus a Sede Apostolica inpetratis. Quod si omnes his exequendis nequiveritis interesse, duo vestrum ea nichilominus exequantur. Dat. Laterani viij Kalendas Augusti, Pontificatus nostri anno quinto [1196]. Nos itaque harum auctoritate partes ad nostram vocavimus presentiam, et transactionem iniri fecimus inter eas in hanc formam. Prædicti Clerici, W. et R., palam confessi sunt coram nobis, prædictam Capellam de Herlessei ad Ecclesiam jam dictorum Canonice de Erneclive, tanquam ad matricem pleno jure pertinere, et tactis sacrosanctis evangeliis juraverunt, quod nichil machinabuntur, quin post decessum eorum, vel recessum, eadem Capella penes matricem Ecclesiam de Erneclive plenarie residet; et quod interim Willelmus unum aureum vel duos solidos, et Radulfus duos aureos vel quatuor solidos, eisdem Can., nomine pensionis, annuatim persolvat, scilicet, medietatem ad Pentecosten, et medietatem ad festum S. Martini, salva in omnibus annua pensione antiqua, scilicet una marca argenti. Et Canonici eis in verbo veritatis promiserunt, quod nec artem quærent nec ingenium, per quod a beneficio quod hactenus in sæpedita Capella habuerunt, in tota vita eorum elongentur, nisi forte divinitus accensi ad religionem transulerint. <sup>1</sup> Lozengy on a chief three roundels. SIGILL': ROB : DE . LACEL. The same arms were borne by Robert de Lasceles, Lord of Bordelby (Dodsworth MSS. vii. 51), on a seal attached to a deed printed in the Cartularium Rievallense, 205.

<sup>2</sup> This deed regards East Harlsey as a chapelry of Ingleby Arncliffe. Now it is entirely separate, and situate in the Wapentake of Birdforth, whilst Arncliffe is in that of Langbaugh. Bordelby, or as it is called in the deed Brodelby, is now known as Mount Grace, a township in East Harlsey. It appears that the site of the Priory of Mount Grace belonged to Guisbrough. In what manner Bordelby came into the possession of the Duke of Surrey, the founder of Mount Grace, has never been made clear.

<sup>3</sup> These boundaries are those of the parish of East Harlsey. They commence at Staddle Bridge, the bridge across the Wiske, then called Foul-cursum aquæ usque pasturam vocatam lez Pyttes in Campo de Estharlesay, et sic per eundem cursum de Foulbroke usque pontem inter Ingelby et Estharlesay, vocatum Foulbrokebryg'; et sic descendendo per eundem cursum usque Warmdale, quæ est divisa de Ingelby, Rungton et Estharlesay; et sic procedendo versus occidentem per quoddam vetus fossatum, quod est divisa inter Rungton et Sythell', usque campum de Standfra, qui pertinet ad parochiam de West Rungton; et sic procedendo per finem Campi de Standfra broke, a very suitable name, as it is a muddy stream with a very slight fall during the whole of its course to its junction with the Swale. The boundary descends along the Wiske or Foulbroke to Foulbrokebrig, where there is a bridge on the road between East Harlsey and Ingleby. Still following this stream the next point reached is Warmdale, which formed the boundary between Ingleby, (East) Rounton, and East Harlsey. The place answering to these requirements is Pierpoint Nook, the corner where the Trenholme Stell runs into the Wiske, north of Breckon Hill Farm. The place derives its name from the Pierpoints, Dukes of Kingston, who at one time had a mortgage over the Arncliffe estate. From Warmdale the boundary turned to the west, as it does now, though the old dyke (fossatum) which then marked it has gone. This dyke divided (West) Rounton from Sythell', now Siddle, as far as Standfra, Stamford Farm in the parish of West Rounton. Skirting along the border of the Common-field (Campi) of Stamford, the boundary came to the street, now the road between Harlsey and Rounton, which divided Ireby in West Rounton from East Harlsey; and on along the bounds between Ireby Moor and East Harlsey Moor, all of which is now enclosed, up to Irebykerr. Then along a sike, or small run of water, which was the boundary between Welbury and East Harlsey, to the dyke (fossatum) of Sawcock, then along the mound between the Sawcocks, going westward, to West Harlsey Moor, now called Low Moor. At this point the boundary runs east between Sawcock and West Harlsey, which is in the parish of Osmotherley, along the heads of Thynghowe, per capita de Thynghowe. This most interesting name, which appears in the Rievaulx Chartulary (p. 208) as Thynghou, is lost. There is a hill in West Harlsey, on the south side of the Harlsey Beck, 256 feet high, which may mark the site. Passing between Thyngowengs and Holmeng', both lost, the boundary passes along the rivulet between the two Harlseys southwards to Seggyng-croke, no doubt some croke or nook in the Harlsey Beck, then along the same rivulet to the street, leading to Emcros, which forms the division between West Harlsey and the Grange of the Abbat of Rievaulx. Emcros is lost, but the Grange of the Abbat of Rievaulx was no doubt Morton Grange, just south of Harlsey Church. The street seems to be the road between Harlsey and Ellerbeck. Following this road, which runs due south, the next point reached is the dyke (fossatum) of Ellerbeck, where the boundary turns eastward and follows Bruncliffe Dyke, a large dyke made in part by the monks of Mount Grace. This dyke is followed to Bruntcliffe Gate, where Bruntcliffe Lane comes out on the Yarm and Thirsk Road, close by the old Turnpike Gate. Still going eastward along the dyke which formed the division between the Common-field (Campi) of Mount Grace and le Clak, commemorated in Clack Lane, the boundary ascended the hill to Roubery, a still existing name, turned northwards, followed the Stone Wall on the Moor brow, which divided the wood formerly called Bordelby Wood from Osmotherley, as far as the park of Arncliffe. Here the boundary turned westward and, following the park dyke and a rivulet, returned to Staddle Bridge.

<sup>1</sup> "This is really a most suggestive name, and would be such even if it stood more by itself than it in reality does. It should be remarked that in many books dealing with ancient economic matters, which have been published within the last few years, the phrase 'Danish Counties' is one of somewhat frequent occurrence. But there are good grounds for desiring to emphasize that which is directly implied in such an expression. It is not, by any means, simply that in the counties so specialized, place-names of Danish origin or formation abound, but that distinct traces of both Danish polity and Danish influence still veritably exist. Thus, to mention but one instance, it would not be too much to say that wherever the name and the system of the 'byrlaw' or 'bylaw' exist (or have existed until recent times), there the Danish civil economy has prevailed, and very possibly may not be quite defunct even yet—the number of places within the North Riding affected, being such as to be much more than merely remarkable. And it is in the same connection that the name noted is more than ordinarily suggestive. Probably, however, the special suggestiveness centres round the name Thingwala, Tingwal, lost now, but recognizable till at all events the fifteenth century, as that of a place close to Whitby. For it can only be collated with the Manx Tynwald, Dumfriesshire Tinwald, Shetland Tingwal, Cheshire Thingwall, and Icelandic Thingvölr. Under the word Thing in Vigfusson's Icelandic Dictionary, we read 'An assembly, meeting; a general term for any public meeting, especially for purposes of legislation, including courts of law; in this sense Thing is a standard word throughout all Scandinavian countries'; and under Thingvölr, 'the parliament field, or place where the thing sat. It answers in sense to the modern parliament-house; but parliaments and courts of old time were held in the open air on a plain, and hence the name.' With the Thingwall, that is, the locality where the chief 'thing' or parliament sat, at Whitby, it is impossible for one possessing even only rudimentary acquaintance with the old Danish polity, not to think also of the minor 'things,' or the more local courts or meetings held for discussion, consideration, settlement of matters of local, or comparatively less general interest, which must necessarily have been held throughout the district. The old Danish names for the places in which such 'things' were held were thing-brekkka (thing-brow, or edge of the hill), thing-haugr (thing-hill, the hill of laws). But this last word, quoted directly from Vigfusson, is precisely identical with the name under notice, while, in Vol. i. pp. 171, 172, a place in Hutton Lowcross, called Tinghou-dale, is specifically mentioned. The joint occurrence then of Thingwall, close by Whitby, and Tinghous in the limited district called Cleveland, without allowing for those like which have been lost, it is hardly necessary to suggest, is singularly significant." — J. C. A.

SAWCOCK.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> Both East or Great Sawcock, called in 1323 Nether Salkok, in the parish of East Harlesey, and West Sawcock in that of Welbury, are mentioned in these deeds. The latter is called a villa, but the former is spoken of as the manor of East or Great Sawcock. A moated farmhouse to the east of the line from Brompton to Welbury serves to mark the site of the ancient seat of the Sawcocks.

<sup>3</sup> Warner de Salecoc, who, with his son William, occurs as a witness to a grant of land in Ingleby Arncliffe to Rievaulx Abbey by Walter Engelram (Cart. Rievallense, p. 56), who was living during the latter half of the thirteenth century, was the undoubted ancestor of the Sawcocks of Sawcock. Their arms were three cocks, which occur on a large double slab, probably not later than 1300, now erected against the north wall of the aisle of East Harlesey Church. Thomasina, widow of Thomas de Salkok, and daughter of Ralph de Brantingham, in 1387 used a seal bearing a bird, no doubt a cock, but unfortunately the impression is a very poor one (MSS. apud Arncliffe Hall). Towards the close of the thirteenth century, Sir Nicholas de Meinill, Lord of Whorleton, granted to Thomas, son and heir of Thomas de Salkock, the guardianship and marriage of the land and heir of John de Meinill of Hilton, that is, of Cuthbert de Meinill, and also of his brothers Nicholas and William (Dods-worth MSS. xlv. 73<sup>b</sup>). "Mr. Meynill," Dodsworth (Ibid. p. 76<sup>b</sup>) informs us, "sayeth, that Cecily, the daughter of Thomas Salcoke, was his heire and wife of Nicholas Meynill, and brought with her the manor of South Salkok, which manor they lately sold." South Salkok is not mentioned elsewhere, and no contemporary authority is quoted for this marriage, which also appears in a very unsatisfactory pedigree of the Meynells printed in Graves's Cleveland (p. 71). The manor of Sawcock consuetudinibus immunem, donationem patris mei, scilicet tres bov. terræ in Salecoht de dominio meo, cum manso et tophtha Herberti de Heboraco, sicut fossata est; scilicet totam illam tophtham, quæ est inter tophtham Radulphi Torti<sup>1</sup> et tophtham Gileberti, cum crofto eidem tophthæ adjacente secundum latitudinem; et tophtham Willelmi Albi, quæ est juxta tophtham quæ fuit Willelmi filii Ricardi; et unam culturam terræ ex occidentali parte viæ quæ ducit [ad] Alverthun.<sup>2</sup> Ad hæc dedi eidem Ecclesiæ ex mea parte tophtham illam cum crofta et sicha juxta crophtam, quæ crophta jacet juxta prædictam culturam, quæ etiam cum tophtha fuit Willelmi Fuchel. Hanc terram et has tophthas cum crophtis tenebit Ecclesia de me et hæc. meis cum aliis pert. suis, id est in pascuis et mariscis, viis et semitis, in exitu et introitu villæ, et in omnibus quæ pertinent ad communionem villæ, libere et quiete, plene et integre, ut puram elemosinam. Præter hæc was still in the possession of the Sawcocks in 1430, as on Nov. 11 in that year (9 Hen. vi.), John Salkoke demised to Thomas Lambton the manor of Salkoke, "fra ye daye of makyng of this endentours, one to ye terme of ye life of ye forsayde John Salkoke, zeldyng zereby be zere viij marke of lele mone of Inglood, on to ye forsayde John at ye ffestes of Wytsondaye and of Martynmes by onele porcions." From other documents at Arncliffe Hall, it appears the connection between the Sawcocks and Lambtons had begun as early as 1399, when John de Salkok and Alice his wife granted all their property in Durham to Thomassa Salkok his mother, called Thomasina above, John de Kirkby of Kirkbythorne, Mr. John de Haythorpe, and William Lambeton junior. In 1424 William and Robert Lambton, Esquires, settled the manor of Great Salkoke on Thomas Salkoke of Great Salkoke, by whom it had been granted to them, in tail, rem. to John Salkoke, Thomas's Uncle, for life, rem. to William Lambton senior and Alice his wife in special tail, rem. to Thomas's right heirs. Two seals remain, one round and the other octagonal, both bearing the same device, a lamb's head affrontée, with a cinquefoil above. According to the pedigree of Lambton given by Surtees (History of Durham, ii. 174), William de Lambton, who died on St. Margaret's day, July 20, 1430, married Alice, daughter and heiress of Salkock of Salkock (which he erroneously places in Lancashire), whose Inq. p.m. was taken in 1434. There was formerly a monument to this couple in Chester-le-Street Church bearing the arms of Lambton impaling three cocks for Sawcock (Durham Visitation Pedigrees, Foster's edition, p. 207). Of this monument only the female effigy now remains (Boyle's Durham, p. 423). The latest of the deeds of this series at Arncliffe Hall is one dated June 1, 12 Hen. vii. (1497), by which Thomas Lambton of Lambton, Esq., conveyed to certain trustees his manor of Est Salkok in Cleveland, and his lands etc. there and in Maunby within the Liberty of Richmond, and in Pencher, Bischophoughton, and Ufferton, and 40s. 8d. rent from lands in Triblay, in the Bishoprick of Durham, to the use of himself for life, then to his wife Agnes in lieu of dower, rem. to his right heirs. He used the octagonal seal mentioned above.

<sup>1</sup> John Tort and Samson le Tort are both mentioned in the Rievaulx Chartulary (p. 74) in a charter about land in the adjoining parish of Welbury. William, son of Warner, also occurs.

MCX. Universis S. Matris Ecclesiæ filiis, Hugo de Rudebi, æternam in Domino salutem. Bonarum mentium est divinum ac religiosum ampliare cultum, religionisque devotius ac studiosius promovere vota, quatinus in numerositate religiosorum Domini multiplicentur talenta. Quocirca, viri illustres et domini, Stephanus viz. de Mainillo senior, et Robertus filius ejus, et Stephanus ipsius Roberti filius, intuitu salutis animarum suarum, et præcedentium parentum suorum, et succedentium, locum de Scarth [cum uni] versis suis pert., sicut eorum prolocuntur cartæ, Domino Deo cum omni libertate contulerunt devote, et omnibus ibidem Deo servientibus religiose, ut habeant quo quietius Domino vivant, et expeditius ipsi deserviant. Quibus itaque tam devote concessis præfatus Stephanus junior suæ munificentiam et magnificentiam liberalitatis adhibuit, quominus eum zelus Domini comedit, et Ecclesiam de Rudebi cum omnibus pert. suis, et Ecclesiam de Weruelthun cum omnibus pert. suis, et Capellaniam domus suæ, totam et integram libere prænominato donavit loco de Scarth. There was anciently a religious house here, founded in the reign of Henry 1. by Stephen de Meinill . . . There are no remains of the building, nor any traces left, to give an idea of its extent. 'The banks of earth,' which Burton says were 'thrown up, when the foundation stones were removed about the year 1746,' are now levelled with the plough; and the stone-coffin which was then discovered, is now placed in a field adjoining to the close, called the chapel-garth, and is used by the farmer, for his cattle to drink out of" (Graves's History of Cleveland, 150). The Priory of Guisborough never seems to have had a cell there, nor to have obtained actual possession of the churches of Hutton Rudby and Whorlton, or the Chantry in the Castle, all of which were granted by the above charter. Very possibly Hugh of Rudby was exceeding his powers in making such a grant. The probable date of the charter is about 1180.

SINNINGTON.

MCXX. Radulphus de Clera<sup>2</sup> omnibus hoc scriptum audituris salutem. Notum sit omnibus vobis, me concessisse, et consensu uxoris meæ Mabillæ, pro amore Dei et S. M., et pro salute animæ meæ, et corporis uxoris meæ, et filii nostri dedisse, et hac mea carta confirmasse Deo et S. M. de Gyseburne, locum illum et terram ubi sita est domus Canoniorum de Giseburne, juxta Capellam S. Michaelis versus austrum, in lib., quiet., pur. et perp. elem., per metas illas quas septa Canoniorum a nobis concessa demonstrant. H. T. (Dodsworth MSS. vii. 94).

<sup>1</sup> In 1218-9 the Sheriff of Yorkshire was commanded to distrain the Prior of Guiseburne for £35 1s. 2d. of the debt of Aaron and Richard Blundus, whose (cujus) house he had in York (Memoranda Roll, 3 Hen. III., m. 10).

<sup>2</sup> Printed in Dugdale's Monasticon Anglicanum, vi. 267, "ex ipso autographo in Turri B. Mariæ Eboraci." Dodsworth in another place (xcv. 47) gives a brief abstract of this charter. The rectory of Sinnington was in the possession of the Prioress of Yed-ingham at the Reformation. In 9 Hen. II. Roger de Clera paid 20s. for Shivelinton (Pipe Roll, p. 60). In 13 Hen. II. he paid half a marc for Sivelinton, and the same amount for Wilton (Ibid. pp. 97, 99). Two years later he paid two marcs apiece for Sivelington and Will'ton. He also appears to have had land in Hampshire (Ibid. pp. 41, 155). The relationship between him and his successor, Ralph de Clere, does not appear. Dodsworth (MSS. vii. 185<sup>b</sup>)

MCXXI. Mabilla, quondam uxor Radulphi de Clera . . . post decessum domini et mariti mei, Radulphi de Clera . . . Deo, et Ecclesiæ S. M. de Giseburne, et Fratribus ibidem Deo servientibus, Capellam S. Michaelis de Sivelingt<sup>1</sup> cum quatuor bov. terræ, id est, dim. carr. Ecclesiæ, quæ bov. sunt propinquiore soli; quam donationem maritus meus, Radulphus de Clera, eis fecit, et ego eis confirmo. Confirmo eis etiam et concedo secundum cartam domini mei quam habent, ad ædificia sua construenda, terram illam quæ extenditur in longum a præfata Capella in aquam, et in latum a fossato Cimiterii ultimo versus austrum usque ad communem viam. Habebunt et præfati Canonici porcos in bosco meo usque ad xx<sup>4</sup>, libere et quiete et sine omni pannagio. Cætera vero animalia et averias suas habebunt in campis et pascuis secundum liberum tenementum quatuor bovatarum. Præter hæc autem confirmo eis et concedo locum illum et terram ubi sita est domus eorum juxta prænominatam Capellam versus austrum, per easdem metas per quas septa Canoniorum a marito meo, Radulpho de Clera, concessa demonstrant. Hæc omnia habeant et teneant præfati Can. secundum quod cartæ eorum purportant, in tam lib. et quiet. et perp. elem., sicuti aliquam aliam elemosinam habent et tenent liberiozem, pro anima mariti mei, Radulphi de Clera, et pro salute animæ meæ, et hæredum et parentum meorum omnium. Et cum ista in potestatem prædictorum Can. plene et perfecte devenerint, post primum annum facient ipsi in præfata Capella ter in septimana missam celebrari. Habebunt insuper præfati Can. de bosco meo ad ignem suum per visum forestarii quindecim bigatas ligni per annum. H. T. Rogero Capellano, Simone Clerico, makes them brothers, but gives no authority for his statement. Ralph and Mabilla gave an annual rent of 4s. from his mill of Sivelington to Sivelington Church for oil (Ibid. vii. 185). They were also considerable benefactors to Yedingham. Roger, son of Ralph de Clere, confirmed inter alia to that Priory of the gift of Helewise de Clere the land of Litelmersh, and a bovate in Withton of the gift of Mabilla de Clere, his grandmother. Robert de Clere was one of the witnesses (Ibid. vii. 185<sup>b</sup>). This Roger married as his second wife, Maud, daughter of Ralph de Fay, and eldest sister and co-heir of John de Fay. She was the widow of William de Braose or Braiosa, killed in 1210, and grandmother of Richard, son of John de Braose. Roger de Clere and Maud de Fay had an only daughter, Alice, wife of John le Rus, and mother of a daughter, Agatha, aged two years in 1250 (Yorkshire Inquisitions, i. 20). Agatha married her cousin, Richard de Braose, and is mentioned in No. 1123. A pedigree of the family is given in the Genealogist, v. 318.

MCXXII. Quatinus præfati Can. ista et cætera omnia, quæ in ejus carta continentur, quam ipsi Can. habent, teneant et habeant libere et quiete a nobis et a matrici Ecclesia, sine omni reclamazione et calum[ni]a. MCXXIII. Noverint etc., quod ego Ricardus de Breuse, miles, omnes querelas quas habui versus Sanctimoniales de Yedingham, occasione Prioris de Giseburne, eo quod ipse Prior non fecit devote celebrari ter in ebdomada in Capella S. Michaelis de Sivelington, pro animabus antecessorum Aliciæ, uxoris meæ, ad quam celebrationem dictus Prior tenebatur, et in qua nunc Sanctimoniales de Yedingham tenentur per conventionem inde habitam inter prædictum Priorem et jamdictas Sanctimoniales, necnon rancorem cordis mei omni occasione prævia<sup>4</sup> usque ad diem Jovis prox. post Annunciationem Dominicam [March 30], anno mclxxiii, cum favore et animi delectatione [et] caritatis intuitu prædictis Sanctimonialibus remisi, condonavi, relaxavi et omnino quietum clamavi. MCXXIV. Ebor. Die Veneris in crastino S. Jacobi Apostoli, 2 Edward II. [July 26, 1308.]

Assisa venit recognitura, si Willelmus le Latimer, et Lucia uxor ejus, Henricus de Bosco, Ricardus Ribeus, Willelmus de Dunelm. et Willelmus de Wyga, injuste etc. disseisierunt Priorem de Giseburne de libero tenemento suo in Sivelington in Rydale post primam etc., et unde idem Prior per Attornatum suum queritur, quod disseisierunt eum de uno mes. et quatuor bov. terræ cum pert. etc. Et nullus eorum venit, sed quidam Petrus de Nevill venit et respondet<sup>2</sup> pro eis, tanquam eorum Ballivus etc. Et pro prædictis Willelmo le Latimer, Lucia, Henrico de Bosco et Willelmo de Dunelm., dicit quod ipsi nichil habent in prædictis tenementis, nec aliquam inde injuriam aut disseisinam fecerunt, et de hoc ponunt se super assisam. Et pro prædicto Willelmo Wyga dicit, quod quidam antecessor cujusdam Egidii de Breouse,<sup>3</sup> quondam Dominus villæ de Sivelington, dedit cuidam prædecessori prædicti Prioris prædicta ten. cum pert., [per servitium] inveniendi Cantariam unius sacerdotis in Capella S. Michaelis de Sivelington per annum. Et quia de eadem Cantaria cessatum fuit per duos annos, idem Willelmus Wyga, tanquam Ballivus prædicti Egidii, distrinxit in prædictis ten. pro prædicta Cantaria, absque aliqua alia injuria aut disseisina prædicto Priori faciendâ. Et de hoc ponit se super assisam. Et prædictus Prior dicit, quod antecessor prædicti Egidii dedit prædecessoribus suis prædicta ten. cum pert., tenenda sibi et succ. suis in pur. et perp. elem., absque servitio faciendâ; et quod per frequentes varias et injustas districtiones, quas prædicti Willelmus, Lucia et alii ei fecerunt, non potest ten. sua excolere, nec in eis manoperari, aut aliquod inde proficuum percipere. Unde dicit quod per hoc ipsum de prædictis ten., sicut queritur, disseisitur. Et petit quod inquiratur per assisam. Juratores dicunt super sacramentum suum, quod quidam antecessor prædicti Egidii, quondam Dominus de Sivelington, dedit cuidam prædecessori prædicti Prioris præ-dicta mes. et bov. terræ, tenenda sibi et succ. suis per servitium inveniendi unum Capellanum celebrantem per tres dies qualibet septimana in prædicta Capella. Et dicunt quod prædictus Egidius postea feoffavit prædictum Willelmum le Latimer de manerio et villa de Sivelington cum omnibus suis pert. Et cum prædictus Willelmus perpenderet prædictam Cantariam a retro fuisse per duos annos, præcepit prædicto Willelmo Wyga, tunc Ballivo suo, distringere nomine suo in prædictis ten. pro prædicta Cantaria. Qui quidem Willelmus invenit hominem Vicarii de Kirkeby Moresheved, qui ten. prædicta ceperat ad firmam de prædicto Priore, falcantem in pratis pertinentibus ad prædictam terram, cepit falcem illam, et eam adhuc detinet. Et cum idem Vicarius alias fecisset falcare in prædicto prato, idem Willelmus Wyga falcem illius falcantis cepit, et eam adhuc detinet, nec falces illas unquam deliberare voluit nisi per securitatem faciendi prædictum servitium in posterum. Dicunt enim quod per duos annos antequam prædictus Egidius prædictum Willelmum de prædicto manerio feoffavit, cessatum fuit de prædicta Cantaria, et semper hucusque. Quæsi etiam si idem Prior unquam secutus fuit ad prædictum Willelmum le Latimer pro deliberatione prædictarum distictionum, dicunt quod ad sectam ipsius Prioris plures dies amoris inter eos constituti fuerunt, ad quorum aliquem prædictus Willelmus venire non curavit. # CASTLE EDEN.

MCLVIII. Notum sit omnibus tam præsentibus quam futuris, quod ego, Willelmus de Turp, dedi et concessi Ecclesiæ S. M. de Giseburg, et Fratribus ibidem Deo servientibus, pro anima patris mei et antecessorum meorum, et pro me ipso et amicis meis, octoginta acras in Heden, et quatuor quadraginta in Loftlandes, et quadraginta in mora juxta reliquam terram suam; quatuor vero juxta aliam terram suam, quæ vergit ad vallem de Hedene contra Sottun, in pur. et lib. et quiet. elem. Et concedo, ut præfata Ecclesia ita libere et quiete et honorifice teneat hanc elemosinam de me et hæ. meis, sicuti aliquam melius et liberius tenet elemosinam. Præter hæc renuncio eis in perp. de octo sol. quos supradicta Ecclesia michi debuit annuatim persolvere, tres solidos, ita viz. ut nec michi, nec hæ. meis, amplius quam quinque sol. pro octava parte Hedenæ singulis reddat annis. Rogero, Clerico Roberti de Brus, Rogero de Grainesbi, Hereberto de Eboraco, Rualdo de Giseb', Fulco [sic] de Gartun, Roberto filio Rualdi, Hervi, Eustachio et Thoma nepotibus Prioris, Rogero Cath, Willelmo Bigoth, Suano, Ricardo Scot, et m. a. Rad' de Strant' (B. M. Add. Charters, No. 20,571).<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Endorsed "Ista domi remanet," and in a later hand, "Sigillum de terra Edenie." Seal, 2 by 1½ inches, yellow wax, bearing a knight on horseback riding to the sinister. Very early style of armour, the helmet having a peak over the nose, as is seen in the Bayeux Tapestry. The knight holds a spear in his right hand. Inscription gone. In the same collection (Add. MSS., 20, 570) is another charter by William de Turp, to which is attached a similar seal. As it refers to the same district I give it here:—"Sciant omnes audituri litteras istas, quod ego, Willelmus de Turp, dedi et concessi Cristiano et hæ. suis, tenere de me et hæ. meis, in feudo et hæreditate, Wulueiam et Loftelandas, per

Insuper et xx acras ad Flanaslauam, ex novalia a Flanaslaua usque ad Castastiam, et ex alia parte villæ, scilicet ad Threshopam xxv acras et dim., et ad Hangadastan quandam partem terræ. MCLIX. Notum sit omnibus audientibus litteras istas, quod ego, Willelmus de Turp, cæteris elemosinis quas feci Ecclesiæ S. M. de Giseburgh, addidi partem illam terræ, quæ a manso Canonicorum præfatæ Ecclesiæ vergit versus austrum, pertingens usque ad viam de Heselden, in lib. et quiet. elem. ab omni consuetudine et servitio sæculari; ita ut liceat Canonicis ponere ibi servientes suos et operarios cum moderato catallo. MCLX. Notum sit omnibus auditoris litteras istas, quod ego, Rodbertus de Brus, concedo et præsentī carta confirmo octavam carr. terræ Edeniæ, cum toftis et croftis et cæteris adjacentibus, in perp. elem. Ecclesiæ S. Mariæ de Giseburg, quam pater meus fundavit, sicut Willelmus de Turp illi dedit et concessit; per servitium quod in carta ipsius continetur, scil. octo solidos annuatim reddendos. H. T. Henrici, et m. a." Endorsed "Carta X'piani." At the beginning of the century the confirmation of this last charter by Robert de Brus was at Skelton Castle. The witnesses were much the same. The seal bore a fleur-de-lis with a bird on each of the two outer leaves looking towards one another. Inscription gone. This Christian seems to have been a man of some importance. In a charter by Robert de Brus addressed to his men, French and English, he is called a "moneator," probably a moneyer. Unluckily the transcriber of the Skelton deeds was not a very competent copyist, and has put the word in pencil as being doubtful. The deed related to two parts of land by Castle Eden held at a rent of ten pounds of pepper, namely, Loftlandes and Blicesleie, the last another doubtful word. The witnesses are as follows, the names in pencil being enclosed in brackets. "Petro de Brus, Stephano de Ferlingtuna, Rainero filio Aluredi, Petro de Turp, Roberto filio Aldredi, Willielmo del Gardina, Nigello, Hugone de [Esintuna], Rogero qui hanc cartam scripsit, Gilberto de Feulgeres." Seal as before. SIGILLVM: ROB . . . DE: BRVS.

<sup>2</sup> The original of this deed was at Skelton Castle in 1804 (Hailstone MSS.) Dodsworth also (cxviii. 137<sup>b</sup>) gives a brief note of the charter of which the above is a confirmation. "Willelmus de Turp dedit octavam partem de Edene Ecclesiæ de Gisebrough. Testibus. Adam de Brus, Rogero de Grenbi, Rogero filio Ricardi de Tostcotes, Godfrido de Leverton, Herebertus (sic) filio Henrici de Maltebi. + SIGILLVM WILLIELMI DE TVRP." The seal as in Nos. 1158 and 1159. A little further on (cxviii. 141<sup>b</sup>) he gives yet another one. "Ego Willelmus de Thurp a . . . tionem elemosinæ meæ, quam primitus feci

T. in lib. pur. et perp. elem., sicut aliqua elemosina liberius et quietius tenetur in feudo Roberti de Brus in Herternes; cum omnibus libertatibus et liberis consuetudinibus et aisiamentis quibus illas tenuerunt et habuerunt die quo idem Willelmus fuit vivus et mortuus; et per easdem divisas et terminos, qui continentur in cartis ejusdem Willelmi. A man on horse back." By another charter which Dodsworth (cxviii. 137<sup>b</sup>) terms "Carta penultima Willelmi de Turp de terra de Eden," he confirmed to Simon, son of Adam, two bovates in Eden. He mentions Muhaut de Turp, who was alive in 1196 (Yorkshire Archæol. Journal, xi. 177).

<sup>1</sup> Adam de Setuna had a grant of half a carucate of land in Scelton (Skelton in Cleveland) from Adam de Brus, where ten carucates make a knight's fee. "Testibus. Galfride Bard, Ricolf de Galmeton, Roberto Scal', Roberto Tolbut, Alano de Kilton (lege Wilton), Willelmo Wirfald, Reginaldo Keven, Michael de Toscotes, etc. Sigillum Ade de Brus. A man on horseback inscription worn out." (Dodsworth MSS. cxviii. 141).

<sup>2</sup> William was Abbat of Jervaulx in 1208 (Pedes Finium Ebor. 6-16 John, No. 168). According to Dugdale he was already in office in 1198.

MCLXIII. Ivo filius Adæ de Seton. . . . Noverit universitas vestra me recepisse de Priore et Conventu de Gyseburne ducentas et octoginta marcas de trecentis et octoginta marciis, quas michi debuerunt pro manerio de Edene, quod eis vendidi, et warrantizare debeo cum pert., sicut in carta mea quam inde habent, continetur. In hujus rei test. præsentī scripto sigillum meum apposui (Ibid. vii. 63).<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Dodsworth gives a drawing of the device on the seal attached to the above deed, which seems to have been a fleur-de-lys. + SIGILL' HIVE DE SCETVN. On a previous page is given a grant by Robert, son of Robert de Bruis, of the manor of Castle Edene, the witnesses being the same as those given above. "Seale a bull. Sigillum Roberti de Bowet." There seems to be some mistake here. See No. 1170. The following is a brief note given by Dodsworth (cxviii. 142) of another Castle Eden deed. "Ego, Nicholaus de Kellawe, filius Willelmi de Kellawe, consanguineus et executor Johannis, filii Henrici de Kellawe, remisi omnes actiones quas habeo versus Johannem, Priorem de Gisburn. Dat. apud Castle Eden, 29 Jan., 1338. A bend fretted inter gouttes or quieires (?) de ermine." There are several examples of seals of members of the family of Kellawe in the collection of the Dean and Chapter of Durham, but none agree with the one just given. Patric de Kellawe, brother of Bishop Kellawe, in 1315 and 1313 bore a lion rampant (Nos. 84, 97). The same arms were borne by Patric's widow, Cecilia, and by John, son of Lawrence de Seton alias Kellawe (Ibid. No. 10*). Robert de Kellawe of Lumley, son of William de Kellawe, who occurs in 1382-6, bore an inescutcheon within an orle of six escallops, or, perhaps, bugle-horns. The seal has been badly engraved (Ibid. Nos. 16, 40).

<sup>2</sup> The seal bore a device similar to the one attached to the last. "Notandum, quod prædictus Ivo, filius Adæ de Seton, dimisit prædictum manerium de Casteleden Priori et Conventui de Giseburne ad terminum xxv annorum, pro redditu octo marcarum per annum, per cartam datam in festo Omnium Sanctorum (Nov. 1), anno gratiæ m<sup>cc</sup> tricesimo sexto" (Ibid.).

<sup>3</sup> William de Punchard was Abbot of Rievaulx 1199 to 1203 (Rievaulx Chartulary, xciii, xciv). Hamo was Abbot of Byland in the spring of 1200, and Herbert in 1209 (Pedes Finium Ebor., 1-5 John, No. 3, and Ibid., 6-16 John, No. 205). Turgecius was Abbot of Kirkstall in 1196 (No. 673). Adam was Abbot of Sawley circa 1200.

ginta solidis sterlingorum; Rectori Ecclesiæ de Loughmaban sex marcis sterlingorum, qui scilicet sumptibus suis Capellæ de Rokele per Capellanum ydoneum, modo debito et consueto, faciet deserviri; Rectori Ecclesiæ de Cumbertres duodecim skeppis farinæ; Rectori Ecclesiæ de Gretenhou duodecim skeppis farinæ; Rectori Ecclesiæ de Rainpatrick' decem skeppis farinæ; Rectori Ecclesiæ de Kirkepatric decem skeppis farinæ, qui scilicet Rector sumptibus suis Capellæ de Logan per Capellanum ydoneum, modo debito et consueto, faciet deserviri. Quas scilicet pecuniam et firmam singuli eorum per æquales portiones ad duos anni terminos percipient, medietatem scil. ad festum S. Martini in hyeme, et medietatem aliam ad Pentecosten. Quilibet etiam prædictorum Rectorum in prima sui institutione liberam habebit optionem, an portiones præscriptas modo prædicto, an certam numeratæ pecuniæ summam suo perpetuo recipere maluerint. Istorumque duorum quodcunque semel præelegerit, hoc ipsum suo perpetuo incunctanter tenebit, aliudque repetere ei nullatenus licebit. Si autem eorum aliquis numeratam pecuniam præelegerit, portio totalis ipsum contingens, exceptis tantummodo ædificiis et ortis propriis, penes Can. memoratos residebit, idemque Rector in suæ institutionis exordio, sacrosanctis evangelii inspectis, juramentum corporale præstabit, quod nulla fraude seu malo ingenio super hujusmodi portionis penes Canonicos residentis integra perceptione, detrimentum vel impedimentum faciet, seu fieri procurabit, quin potius diligentiam et executionem ecclesiasticam, cum interpellatus fuerit, fideliter adhibebit, ut hujusmodi portio in usum et commodum prædictorum Can. plenarie cedat, sicut eandem portionem percipere debuisset. Summa autem pecuniæ, quam eorum quilibet eligere poterit, in singulis Ecclesiis, hoc est, in Ecclesia de Anand triginta tres marcæ, in Ecclesia de Loughmaban triginta et octo marcæ, in Ecclesia de Cumbertres decem et octo marcæ, in Ecclesia de Gretenhou decem et octo marcæ, in Ecclesia de Rainpatrick decem et octo marcæ, in Ecclesia de Kirkepatrick decem et octo marcæ. Et quia Ecclesiarum prædictarum facultatibus diligentius ponderatis, præscriptas portiones, aut pecuniæ numeratæ summas prædictas, ad prædictorum Rectorum sustentationem et onerum supportationem sufficere comperimus, nos, Capitulo nostro Glasguensi consensum præbente, pro nobis et succ. nostris prædictos Rectores eorumque successores præfatis portionibus vel summis pecuniæ prænominatis imperp. debere forecontentos in onerum sustentationem, et quocunque casu qualitercunque contingente, episcopali auctoritate decre-vimus, quod si in posterum eorum aliquis contra hanc provisionem aliquid attemptare præsumpserit, ipsum nullatenus audiendum, set perpetuum eidem silentium imponendum fore statuimus. Rectores quoque prædicti, qui pro tempore fuerint, nobis et succ. nostris de episcopalibus omnibus respondebunt, et omnia onera ipsarum Ecclesiarum sustinebunt. Rectores vero Ecclesiarum de Anand et de Loughmaban Can. memoratis pecuniæ summam in autenticis prædecessorum nostrorum contentam, ad eorundem Can. usum et luminarium [Ecclesiæ] Glasguensis supplementum, terminis statutis sine dilatione qualibet vel contradictione persolvent. Quod si aliquando facere noluerint, nos eosdem ad solutionem dictarum quantitatum, quotiens necesse fuerit, compellemus. Canonici vero prædicti et eorum succ. decimas garbarum bladi supradictas omnes et singulas perpetuis temporibus, et portiones Rectorum quorumlibet qui pecuniam numeratam, sicut prædictum est, præelegerint, quamdiu penes ipsos residebunt, pro voluntate sua libere disponent et ordinabunt, et commodum suum sicut eis placuerit, quoad dicti Rectores vixerint et dictas portiones pecuniarias tenuerint, omnimodo facient. Ut autem hæc nostra provisio a Capitulo nostro Glasguensi, et a præfatis Rectoribus, et a Canoniciis supradictis, in præsentia nostra constitutis, concessa et approbata, firma et illibata imperp. permaneat, huic scripto in modum cirographi confecto nos sigillum nostrum et sigillum Capituli Glasguensis ex parte una fecimus apponi, et prædicti Prior et Conventus sigillum Capituli sui apponi fecerunt ex altera. Acta sunt hæc anno gratiæ millesimo cc<sup>mo</sup> sexagesimo quinto, octavo Idus Julii.

Nos igitur factum in hujusmodi instrumento expressum, ratum et gratum habentes, in omnibus et per omnia auctoritate episcopali confirmamus; ita viz. quod Rectores Ecclesiarum prædictarum portiones in eisdem ipsis assignatas, vel summas pecuniæ prænominatas, modo præscripto perpetuis temporibus solummodo percipiant. Canonici autem prædicti omnia ad se spectantia, secundum quod præscriptum est, teneant et habeant, cum omnibus libertatibus, pert. et aisiamentis suis in usus proprios, pacifice, libere et quiete, nomine simplicis beneficii et absque secta synodi et absque omni exactione consuetudine et onere episcopali. Et nos, Decanus et Capitulum Glasguense, etiam præmissis omnibus et singulis consensum nostrum præbuimus, ac ea in omnibus et singulis approbamus, ratificamus specialiter et expresse, et ex certa nostra scientia confirmamus, perpetuis temporibus inviolabiliter sine contradictione duratura. ### I. THE ACCOUNT BY WALTER OF HEMINGBURGH.

Anno Domini MCCLXXXIX, xvii kalendas Junii et prima die rogationum,<sup>1</sup> ecclesiam nostram Giseburniæ cum libris theologiæ multis et pretiosissimis, ix calicibus, vestimentis, imaginibus sumptuosis, vorax flamma consumpsit. Et quia præterita futuris dant formam negotiis, idcirco infortunii casum, ut hujusmodi casus in posterum declinetur, præsentis opusculo duxi inserendum. Die enim prædicto, qui quidem erat ventosus et nobis malus, ascendit plumbarius ecclesiam cum duobus garcionibus suis, ut foramina plumbi veteris de novo stanno consolidaret, sicut per dies aliquot ex dispositione mala jamdudum inceperat; apposuitque patellas suas ferreas cum carbonibus et igne in ruderibus sive gradibus excelsi operis, super ligna sicca, trabas<sup>2</sup> aliquas, et cætera quæque cremabilia, et ex parte meridionali in cruce corporis ipsius ecclesiæ in qua erat ventus urens et perflans a meridie. Cumque mansisset ibidem usque post missam in opere suo, descendit tandem ante processionem conventus, credens garcionibus ignem extinguendum; at illi cito post eum descenderunt, igne non plene extincto, reaccensusque est ignis in carbonibus, et, partim ex calore ferri partim ex sparsione Commission, Eighth Report, Part iii. p. 102). The seventeenth of the Calends of June, which in 1289 was the same as the first of Rogation days, corresponds to May 16th in modern computation. There is another entry in the Calendar about a fire at Guisbrough under the fourteenth of the Calends of the same month (May 19). "Incendium LXIX domorum fumalium in Gyseborne, anno m<sup>o</sup>ccccxix."

II. PETITION TO THE KING FOR LICENCE TO IMPROPRIATE THE CHURCHES OF EASINGTON, BARNINGHAM, AND HESLARTON, TO RELIEVE THE POVERTY CAUSED BY THE FIRE. CIRCA 1290.

Cum nobile Monasterium de Gyseburne quodam ignis infortunio nuper lamentabiliter combustum fuit cum contentis, videlicet libris, calicibus, ymaginibus, reliquiis, et lapidibus preciosis, ac etiam indumentis et ornamentis ecclesiasticis, quod dampnum de facultatibus ipsius Monasterii, cum sit inestimabile, est quasi impossibile resarciri, præsertim cum sit ultra modum ære alieno depressum; nec potest prædictum Monasterium Virginis gloriosæ, in quo cultus divinus jugi exercitio devo[tionis] habundabat, et frequens hospitalitas omnibus ibidem confluentibus liberaliter frequentabatur, sine gratia Summi Pontificis ac aliorum magnatum subsidio in statum debitum reformari, supplicavit ejusdem Monasterii Prior et Conventus excellentiæ regiæ, quatinus ad relevamen tantæ ruinæ regia celsitudo pietatis intuitu manum porrigat [adju]tricem, et testimonium veritati in hoc facto Summo dignetur Pontifici perhibere. Et si placet supplicare . . . ad relevamen Monasterii prædicti Ecclesias de Esington, Bernyngham et Heselarton, sui proprii patronatus et Ebor. diocesis, quæ summam sexaginta librarum secundum verum valorem annuatim vix excedunt, paterna pietate misericorditer appropriare dignetur, ut hospitalitas et elemosinæ in ipso Monasterio modo debito et consueto liberius valeant exerceri.<sup>2</sup>

III. INDULGENCE FROM ARCHBISHOP GREENFIELD TO ALL CONTRIBUTING TO THE REBUILDING OF THE PRIORY CHURCH. 1309.

Indulgentia concessa per Willelmum, Archiepiscopum Ebor., pro reparatione Ecclesiæ Conventualis B. M. de Gyseburne per repentini incendii voraginem, una cum domibus, libris et aliis suis bonis nonnullis, quasi ad extremam consumptionem reductæ etc. Et concessit quadraginta dies veniæ aliquid contribuentibus. Dat. iij. Kal. Novembris [Oct. 30], 1309, et anno Pontificatus sui quarto (Dodsworth MSS. cviii. 77).

IV. INDULGENCE FROM RICHARD DE KELLAWE, BISHOP OF DURHAM, TO THOSE CONTRIBUTING TO THE REPAIR OF THE CHURCH OF GISE- BURGH, DESTROYED BY FIRE. 1311.

Ricardus, permissione divina, Dunolmensis Episcopus, dilectis in Christo filiis, abbatibus, prioribus, collegiis, archidiaconis, officialibus, decanis, rectoribus, vicariis, presbyteris et ministris, necnon aliis universis ecclesiarum prælatis, per Dunolmensem civitatem et diocesim constitutis, salutem in sinceris amplexibus Salvatoris. Inter cætera piæ devotionis opera, id in conspectu Altissimi credimus gratum, quod ad foundationem et reparationem ecclesiarum gratiose convertitur et liberaliter confertur pro salute credentium, et in remissione peccatorum. Cum itaque conventualis ecclesia B. M. de Giseburgh, per repetitam<sup>1</sup> incendii voraginem, una cum libris et vestimentis, calicibus et aliis suis bonis nonnullis, quasi ad extremam consumptionem, ut accepimus, sit redacta, adeo quod ad reparationem tam miserabilis ruinæ ecclesiæ ejusdem non credantur sufficere facultates; nos, tanto discrimini paternis affectibus prospicere cupientes, devotionem vestram studiose requirimus, rogantes et in Domino attentius exhortantes quatinus cum procurator vel procuratores præfatæ conventualis ecclesiæ ad vos venerit, sive venerint, pro fidelium eleemosynis colligendis, eos, in primis Capitulis vestris cele- does not appear to have taken place. In 1359, at the request of Thomas de Seton, Edward III. gave the Prior leave to appropriate the church of Heslarton so as to make certain chantries (Vol. I. 135). This also seems to have fallen through.

<sup>1</sup> repentini is the reading of the original MS. (fo. 10<sup>b</sup>), and no doubt the correct one, as is shown by the last document. This misreading has given rise to a belief that there was more than one great fire at Giseburgh, and that the Priory church was twice burnt.

brandis post inspectionem præsentium, præ omnibus aliis negotiis consimilibus, benevole admittatis, eorum negotium parochianis et subditis vestris efficaci compendio exponentes, ipsos parochianos et subditos vestros, Dei et nostri intuitu, benignius inducatis, ut, de bonis sibi a Deo collatis, ad restaurationem, restitutionem et fabricam prædictæ ecclesiæ sua conferant beneficia et subsidia caritatis; pro quibus æternale præmium ab ipso pio Domino valeat promereri. Nos autem, de ejusdem Omnipotentis Dei miti misericordia, et gloriosæ Virginis prænominatæ, necnon sanctissimi confessoris et patroni nostri Cuthberti, omniumque sanctorum, meritis confidentes, omnibus parochianis nostris, et aliis quorum diocesani hanc nostram indulgentiam ratam haberint, de peccatis suis vere contritis et confessis, qui, juxta exhortationem nostram prædictam ecclesiam relev[av]erint memoratam, seu ad fabricam ejusdem de bonis suis a Deo sibi collatis manus porrexerint adjutrices, quadraginta dies de injuncta sibi penitentia, Deo propitio, misericorditer relaxamus; indulgentias vero a venerabilibus patribus archiepiscopis [et] episcopis a Sede Apostolica gratiam obtinentibus, ad id concessas, et in posterum concedendas, quatinus in nobis est, ratas habentes, pariter et acceptas. In cujus rei test. sigillum nostrum præsentibus est appensum. Datum apud Stoketon, vij<sup>o</sup> kal. Augusti, A.D. millesimo trecentesimo undecimo, et pontificatus nostri primo (Registrum Palatinum Dunelmense, l. 57).

V. LETTER FROM THE PRIOR AND CONVENT OF GUISBROUGH TO EDWARD II. EXCUSING THEM-SELVES FROM GRANTING A CORRODY IN CON-SEQUENCE OF LOSSES BY THE BURNING OF
 THEIR MONASTERY, AND THE DESTRUCTION OF THEIR PROPERTY BY THE SCOTS, BESIDES
 HAVING TO ENTERTAIN CANONS FROM JED-BURG, HEXHAM AND BRINKBURN, WITH OTHER PERSONS.

Excellentissimo Principi, Domino Edwardo, Dei gratia Regi Angliæ, illustrissimo Domino Hybernæ, et Duci Aquitanæ, sui humiles et devoti Prior et Conventus Gyseburnæ, salutem in Eo per quem Reges regnant et Principes dominantur. Mandatum vestrum nobis pro Roberto de Ryburgh nuper directum, quod eidem talem liberationem de domo nostra quoad vixerit percipiendam, qualem Henricus le Charecter, dum vixerit, ad rogatum Domini Edwardi, quondam Regis

Angliæ, patris vestri, percepit, vestri interventu rogaminis concederemus, reverenter recepimus, quod ob celsitudinem regiæ dignitatis prono et libenti animo vellemus adimplere, Deo teste, si nostra impotentia nos nullatenus excusaret. Sciat celsitudo regia Monasterium nostrum Gyseburnæ in libris, vestimentis et aliis ornamentis nostris per repentini ignis incendium lacrimabiliter esse consumptum, Ecclesias nostras de Valle Anandiæ, de dyocesi Karliolensi, ac etiam de Episcopatu Dunolmensi, per miserabilem Scotorum et etiam schavaldorum<sup>1</sup> depredationem, in quibus major pars sustentationis domus nostræ hactenus consistebat, multis temporibus retroactis funditus dissipatas. Ad hæc quemdam Canonicum domus de Jedd', et quemdam Willelmum Curthose ad vestri mandatum reverendum, necnon alios duos Canonicos, viz. unum de Hextildesham, et alium de Brynkeburne, qui propter invasionem inimicorum supradictorum fugam inierunt, quominus in domibus suis propriis quieti possint residere, quibus penes vires facultatem, licet nobis et domui nostræ extat onerosum, prout nostris, in necessariis exhibemus. Præterea ad rogatum serenissimæ Dominæ Reginæ quemdam valletum, scil. Robertum Pykebuske, in robis et victualibus et aliis gratanter et benevole sustinemus, qui percepit singulis diebus et percipiet de cellario et de coquina, sicut unus Canonicus, robam etiam cum valletis nostris, et sustentationem unius famuli cum roba sua, et unius equi, toto tempore vitæ suæ, et præter hoc unam annuam pensionem viginti solidorum. Hæc siquidem onerationes et angustię nobis im[m]inentes misericorditer instigent, si placet, excellentiam regiam, tam ad debitæ excusationis quam ad piæ compassionis effectum, ut hac vice, serenissime Princeps, nos taliter sic afflictos favorabiliter habeat excusatos. Deus conservet Regem nostrum benignissimum ad regimen populi sui per tempora longa et quieta, et det ei triumphum de inimicis suis ad laudem et gloriam individue Trinitatis (P. R. O. Chancery Portfolio. Scotland. No. 181).

<sup>1</sup> "SHAVELDER. — A fellow who goes idly wandering about like a vagabond" (Halliwell). Henry de Knyghton records in his Chronicle under the year 1318, which must be about the date of the letter printed above, "Cumque in partes Scotiæ venisset, inculcarit eos Dominus Gilbertus de Midelton cum aliis elegantibus Schawaldres, et eos de omnibus bonis suis spoliaverunt." The word seems almost equivalent to freebooter. Amongst the persons who contributed to the Poll Tax of 2 Ric. II. at Burton-in-Lonsdale was a John Schavaldowre (printed Schavaldowre). There is another word, Scavaldus, meaning a collector of Scavage or Schewage, a toll exacted from merchants for goods exposed for sale, or paid when imported goods are shown at the Custom House (Trice Martin's Record Interpreter), but this is clearly not the meaning here.

Scyreburn. 9 kal. Feb. [Jan. 24], anno xxiii. Universis Christi fidelibus, etc. Universitati vestræ notum facimus, quod cum venerabilis memoriæ Gualo, tit. Sancti Martini Presbyter Cardinalis, legationis officio fungens in partibus Angliæ, dilecto filio, domino Laurentio, quondam Priori Gyseburnæ, qui sponte cessit Prioratui, et illum in suas manus resignavit, Capellam de He[rterpol] cum omnibus pert. suas ad ipsius Laurentii honorificam, quoad vixerit, sustentationem concessisset, prout in instrumentis tam prædicti Cardinalis quam bonæ memoriæ Ricardi primi, quondam Episcopi Dunelm.,<sup>1</sup> vidimus contineri; nos ad resignationem prædicti domini L., Priorem et Conventum de Gyseburne, vacante sede Dunelmensis Ecclesiæ, in corporalem dictæ Capellæ cum omnibus suis pert. auctoritate metropolitici induci fecimus possessionem, ipsam eis talem, qualem ante tempus concessissionis prædictæ habuerunt, benigne concedentes. ### II. BULL FROM POPE ALEXANDER IV. ABOUT THE RESIGNATION AND PROVISION FOR PRIOR JOHN. 1255.<sup>2</sup>

Alexander, etc., Archiepiscopo Ebor. Ex parte dilecti filii Prioris Prioratus de Giseburne, ordinis S. Augustini, Ebor.

<sup>1</sup> Richard de Marisco, 1217-1226. Prior Lawrence was already quondam in the time of Hugh, Bishop of Carlisle, 1219-1223 (Whitby Chart. i. 45).

<sup>2</sup> The Prior's name is not mentioned, but it is clear it must have been John. If Dodsworth (No. 703B) can be trusted, Prior John was still in office in the late autumn of 1257, so that his resignation had not taken effect nearly two years after the date of the bull.

diocesis, fuit nobis humiliter supplicatum, ut cum ipse propter infirmitatem sui corporis miserabilem cedere cupiat regimini Prioratus ejusdem tibi immediate subjecti, nos ipsius precibus inclinati, mandamus quatinus hujusmodi cessionem recipias vice nostra, et de proventibus ejusdem Ecclesiæ, juxta facultates ipsius, sibi congruam provisionem assignes, de qua dum vixerit commode valeat sustentari. Contradictores, etc. Non obstante si aliqui ex indulto Apostolico excommunicari aut interdicti nequeant vel suspendi. Dat. Neapoli, iij Idus Januarii [Jan. 11], anno primo [1255] (Add. MSS. 1598, fo. 9, printed in Archb. Gray's Register, p. 215).

III. VISITATION OF THE CONVENT OF BASEDALE BY THE PRIOR OF GUISBOROUGH.

Walterus,<sup>1</sup> permissione etc., dilecto in Cristo filio, Priori Giseburg., salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. De Fratre Stephano, quem nobis misistis, ut nobis de elemosina vestra aliisque præcipuis juxta quod petiveramus, deserviat, cum magno vobis regratiamur affectu. Speramus enim quod nobis fructuosus existet, et consequatur exinde gratiam et honorem. Cæterum de diligentia, quam in visitatione Domus Monialium de Basedale adhibere curastis, vos digne laudamus. Et quia de quibusdam, sicut contineri vidimus, plene non poteratis hactenus inquirere, et ea de quibus constat[ut] deliberatione indigent, ut regulariter corrigantur, de circumspectione vestra plenius confidentes, devotionem vestram requirimus cum affectu, quatinus occupationibus nostris, quibus admodum implicamur, compassi, vices nostras complere curetis, caute et celeriter, sicut deposcit negotium in præmissis. Ita quod excessus Fratrum rigide, et Monialium cum qua decet modestia, puniantur, et reformatio Domus debita consequatur. Et quia parum valet ordinatio, nisi sit utilis postmodum executor, rogamus, quatinus de industrio aliquo et fideli, qui dictæ Domus curam possit gerere, cogitetis, regulari vel etiam sæculari, et supremum ad hoc non possitis inducere nobis quid faciendum videritis, nuncietis. Bene valeat.

W. etc., dilectis in Cristo filiabus, Priorissæ et Conventui de Basedale, salutem etc. Quoniam ad reformandam Domum vestram in pluribus, quæ correctione novimus indigere, non possumus personaliter interesse, ad inquirendum plenius et etiam corrigendum, quæ correctione digna repereret,<sup>2</sup> dilecto in Cristo filio, Priori de Gyseburne, commisimus vices nostras,

IV. CORRECTIONES APUD GYSEBURNE (1279-80).

Ad fervorem devotionis et regularis observantiæ in Collegio de Gyseburne salubrius et sanctius observandum, nos, Willelmus, Dei gratia Ebor. Archiepiscopus, Angliæ Primas, x<sup>o</sup> Kalend. Martii [Feb. 20], A.D. M<sup>o</sup>CC<sup>o</sup>LXX<sup>o</sup> nono, ad prædictum locum, inquisitionis et visitationis gratia, accessimus, transgressus et vitia inibi correcturi, et ibidem comperta placentia in Cristo pro viribus firmaturi. Ad cujus loci prosperitatem et pacem, post visitata, inquisita diligentius et inventa, sic in Dei nomine processimus, statuendo. In primis igitur ad decus et observantiam veræ devotionis et obedientiæ injungimus, et districtè præcipimus, quod regula B. Augustini, et salubria statuta prædecessorum nostrorum et nostra, debite et devote observentur, quatenus regularem prætendunt et innuunt honestatem. Item quod post officium completorii, prætextu hospitum vel alias, nullus extra claustrum, causa lasciviæ vel bibendi, aliquo modo exeat vel moretur, nisi præsentè Priore, et de licentia et præcepto Præsidentis, vel de itinere redierit velud hospes. Item scholas onerosas divitum et præpotentum scolarium, et etiam indigentium, prorsus prohibemus; nisi quatenus Cancellarius noster Ebor. eas ad fructum et utilitatem Monasterii evidentius acceptarit. Item præcipimus sub obtestatione extremi examinis, quod infirmi fictitii in infirmariam nullatenus admittantur, sed qualitercumque ibidem introgressi, tanquam simulatores et regulam pervertentes, infectis pœnis seu pœnitentiis, expellantur. Item volumus, quod infirmi graviter infirmati, majori compassione spiritus procurentur, et quod nulli, nisi graviter ægrotantes, in infirmariam aliquatenus admittantur; necnon et quod infirmaria deinceps ab extraneis decentius custodiatur. Item quia infirmaria ad recreationem languentium, non autem ad dissolutionem vel ingluviem, a sanctis patribus est provisa, inhibemus, ne Willelmus de Beverlaco, Stephanus de

Kirkeby, Willelmus de Scelton, Walterus de Stocton, quos in infirmaria, suspecta conventicula, dissolutiones et obloquia fecisse comperimus, ad solamen vel recreationem infirmariæ, in quam irreverenter et nequiter deliquerunt, deinceps admittantur, nisi de nostra licentia speciali. Item volumus, quod extra septa claustralia non exeant qualitercumque. Item volumus et ordinamus, quod in refectorio omnes æque communibus cibariis gaudeant et vescantur. Item præcipimus, quod elemosina a consumptoribus et ribaldis rite et districtius conservetur. Superfluum etiam familiam, intus et extra, et maxime onerosam et incontinentem, statim præcipimus amoveri. Item injungimus, quod silentium sanctius solito observetur, et quod nullus in choro in Dei laudibus obmutescat, sed vel psallat ex corde, aut corpore mox recedat, et volumus, quod per Rectores chori et sibi astantes utrobique protinus expellatur, nisi ipsum gravis et vera infirmitas excusarit. Item injungimus sollicitè coram Cristo, ne in incesso solatii aliqua scu[r]ilia vel turpia proferantur, sed potius quæ prosint et ædificent ad salutem. Item in compotis reddendis volumus, quod juvenes subtiles et sensati, de quibus spes sit fructifere pul[er]ulandi, intersint, et clare percipiant quæ aguntur. Item parietes cujuslibet dissensionis et discordiæ, et confabulationes suspectas, sub indignatione Omnipotentis Dei et sub pœna anathematis, de cætero prohibemus, et maxime ne quis in proclamationibus quemquam de sociis tueatur, sed pro se solo quilibet respondeat et loquatur. Reluctantes enim huic sanctæ monitioni nostræ sic punire proponimus, quod puplice per Dei gratiam nostra cedet cæteris punitio in terrorem. Item prohibemus, ne quis Canonicorum absque præcepto Præsidentis munera recipiat a quocumque, et si quicquam de licentia vel præcepto superioris receperit, in communem usum mox per Præsidentis industriam assignetur. Item vagos et illicitos discursus Canonicorum extra curiam et infra, deinceps firmiter inhibemus, nisi quatenus regula et ordinata licentia permiserit spatiandi. Item volumus, quod laici quicumque fuerint, qui circa maneria custodienda suspecte et celeriter ditantur, statim amoveantur omnino. Volumus etiam, quod Conversi discreti in tractatibus temporalium sæpius advocentur, ne eorum utilis sagacitas contempnatur. Item injungimus Priori in virtute obedientiæ et professionis suæ, ne in correctionibus faciendis se amodo erga quoscumque remissum exhibeat, vel, quod absit, aliquatenus timorosum, sed gregem sibi commissum, tanquam prælatus prospiciens et providus, crebro instruat et informet, et nunc ad spiritualia, nunc ad temporalia, intuitum dirigat et coaptet. Item præcipimus, quod Supprior circa confessiones audiendas, et quæ ipsius multipliciter incumbunt officio, ita morigeratum et moderatum, ita sagacem et sollicitum se exhibeat, ut in extremo iudicio placida retributio sibi fiat. Item firmiter et districtè prohibemus, ne prætextu perversæ et perniciosæ conspirationis suæ, seu dissensionis suæ, quam jugiter procurare consueverant in Collegio, W. de Beverlaco, S. de Kyrkeby, W. de Scelton, Walterus de Stocton et Johannes de Salkoc, qui in quibusdam se inhoneste habuerunt, in nullis omnino ministeriis seu officiis morari seu profici permittantur, donec, meritis suis exigentibus, aliud de eisdem duxerimus ordinandum, quos velud claustrales simplices Conventumque sequentes correctioni et conscientiis Prioris et Supprioris, sub periculo gradus sui, adeo deputamus, ne iidem Prior et Supprior pro commissis et transgressionibus eorundem pœnas condignas et æquales, sicut ordinaverimus, acerbè subeant cum eisdem. Item præcipimus sub testimonio Crucifixi, ne quisquam casui vel ruinæ alterius congaudeat, vel impropere, quoquomodo se veram compassionem prætendat cum tremore cordis, de se ipso simile pertimescens. Item volumus, quod hæc in capite cujuslibet mensis in pleno capitulo publice recitentur, et quod absque reluctance qualibet ab omnibus et singulis, sub vinculo et virtute professionis factæ, firmiter observentur, ita quod nos non oporteat spirituales aculeos protervius extendere in quemcunque (Reg. Wickwaine, ff. 12, 73).

V. PROVISIO FACTA PRIORI DE GYSEBURNE (1281).<sup>1</sup>

Pateat universis, quod nos, W., Prior Gyseburnæ, et ejusdem loci Conventus, vij Idus Julii [July 9], anno gratiæ m<sup>o</sup>cc<sup>o</sup> octogesimo primo, domino A., quondam Priori nostro, qui Prioratus officio sponte cessit, provisionem perpetuæ sustentationis fecimus in hac forma. In primis concessimus eidem cameram honestam, scilicet infirmariæ conjunctam, ad quam idem, cum esset Prior, divertere consuevit; hac tamen adhibenda per ipsum diligentia, ut per nimiam aut indiscretam advocationem sæcularium, Fratres, ad infirmariam causa infirmitatis vel solatii declinantes, nullatenus perturbentur. Alioquin si intollerabiliter secus acciderit, nos eidem aliam cameram satis honestam assignabimus. Cumque in

Conventum introire placuerit, quamcumque partem præelegerit, volumus quod habeat primum locum, ab omnibus singulari reverentia honorandus. Concessimus etiam ei Canonicum in socium assiduum et ministrum, quos ambos ab omni sup[p]ortatione onerum, nisi mere voluntaria, exhonerari permittimus, excepto quod in solemnitatibus, nisi infirmitate vel alia causa legitima fuerint præpediti, in matutinis, magnis missis et vesperis interesse tenentur, in divinis officiis, secundum quod status suos condecet, ministraturi, si tamen hora competenti fuerint per Cantorem super ministeriis præmuniti. Quibus victualia cotidiana, sicut duobus majoribus de Conventu, cum adjectione unius pittantiæ competentis in prandio. Et cum ipse cœnare voluerit, honestæ exhibitionis, tam de coquina quam de celario, volumus ministrari, excepto quod in festis principalibus, in quibus ex more quatuor fercula Conventui apponuntur, sufficiet eis hujusmodi habundantia cum Conventu. Concessimus etiam ei unum servitorem sæcularem, cui volumus robam, sicut scutariis Prioris, et victualia, prout status suus postulat,<sup>1</sup> exhiberi. Quæ autem in mensa sua supererunt, per Elemosinarium nostrum in usus pauperum convertentur; si tamen idem A. voluerit plerumque ex sibi apposis indigenti alicui, ratione suæ paupertatis, portionem transmittere, nolumus quod hoc ei per Elemosinarium denegetur. Ordinamus etiam, quod idem A. singulis annis recipiat novam tunicam et novum pellicium, sicut Prior, cætera quoque vestimenta atque calciamenta prout indiguerit, et condecet statum suum. Socius autem suus vestimenta et calciamenta recipiat, sicut quilibet de Conventu. Novis vero supervenientibus, vetera restituendo proicient pauperibus eroganda. Concessimus etiam ei, quod infra septa Monasterii valeat cum socio suo, non petita speciali licentia, spatari; set si voluerit egredi, licentiam a Custode Ordinis petere debeat, cui petituro nolumus cum difficultate aliqua responderi, dum tamen petitio licita fuerit et honesta. Ad hæc tamen licuerit ei amicos suos remotiores personaliter visitare. Volumus quod per liberationem Bursarii, ad nutum Prioris, iij<sup>or</sup> evectiones accipiat de communi. Permittimus insuper, quod ei decem marcas annuatim per Bursarium curialiter offerantur, de quibus si ipsas receperit, cum ad partes remotas pro visitandis amicis exierit, expensas rationabiles faciet, residuum autem in usus Monasterii utiles et honestos convertet, super quibus suam conscientiam oneramus. In test. autem hujus provisionis, per nos ordinatæ, et approbatæ per eundem A., ac ratificatæ per Archiepiscopum, Angliæ Primatem, sigillum ejusdem patris utrique parti hujus scripti, in modo cyrographi confecti, et sigillum Capituli nostri uni parti ejusdem, et sigillum ejusdem A. alteri, sunt appensa. #### VI. REMISSIO CUJUSDAM RELIGIOSI QUI SUAM PEREGIT PŒNITENTIAM AD DOMUM (1279).

W., permissione etc., dilectis in Cristo filiis, Priori et Conventui de Gyseburne, salutem etc. Ad instar immensæ misericordiæ Illius, qui cum iratus fuerit, mansuetudinis recordatus est,<sup>1</sup> debemus ad pietatem viscera moderari; cum igitur Frater Adam, lator præsentium, injunctam sibi pœnitentiam gratanter subierit, sicut asserit, et devote, ipsum tanquam professum et Concanonicum vestrum ad vos remittimus, ut ovis ovili, et membrum a morbo convalescens suo gregi, secundum exigentiam regulæ societatis, dummodo nichil sinistri sibi obviaverit, sicut dicit. Deassumatur igitur benigne et gratiose, si sit ita, donec ad vos venerimus, vel aliud super hoc duxerimus ordinandum. Valeat. Dat. apud Cawode xvij<sup>o</sup> Kalend. Januarii [Dec. 16], Pontificatus nostri anno primo (Ibid. fo. 11<sup>b</sup>).

VII. LITTERA AD REVOCANDUM QUÆDAM STATUTA FACTA IN GENERALI CAPITULO CANONICORUM REGULARIUM EBOR. DIOCESIS ET PROVINCIÆ.

J., permissione etc.,<sup>2</sup> dilecto in Cristo filio, Priori de Gyseburne, salutem, etc. Accepimus, non est dudum, quod vos et Prior de Wartria, qui præsidentes in Generali Capitulo vestri ordinis dicimini, quædam statuta, in singulis Conventibus prædicti ordinis observanda, minus plena deliberatione et consideratione præhabita, solempniter publicastis, artantes singulos Conventus ordinis vestri, nostræ diocesis et provinciæ, ad observationem, deinceps majoris excommunicationis sententia in contradictores nichilominus promulgata, propter quæ inter religiosos subditos nostros gravis dissensionis materiam audivimus suscitari. Cum itaque præmissa saniori et consultiori deliberatione indigeant, ad hoc quod debitum sortiantur effectum, devotioni vestræ rogando mandamus, quatenus executioni supplicationis seu pronuntiationis prædictæ supersedeatis omnino, donec vestrum proximum Generale Capitulum contigerit celebrari. Latam super hoc excommunicationis sententiam absque difficultate qualibet revocantes, quam præfatus Prior de Wartria, vester collega, quantum in ipso est, dum tamen vobis id placuerit, duxit provide revocandam. Quicquid autem feceritis in hac parte, rescribi volumus tempestive. Bene valeat. Dat. apud Burton iij Idus Augusti [Aug. 11], [anno Pontificatus nostri primo] (Reg. Romanus, fo. 80).

VII. PRIORIBUS ORDINIS S. AUGUSTINI.

J. etc., dilectis in Cristo filiis, Prioribus, Præsentibus, et aliis in Generali Capitulo Priorum ordinis S. Augustini, nostræ diocesis, congregatis, salutem etc. Vigili intentione sitimus tranquillitatem apud vos, qui sub professione ejusdem regulæ sive ordinis divino obsequio insistitis, in caritatis visceribus confovere. Devotionem vestram igitur monitione sollicita exhortamur, quatinus ea quæ pro unitate et conformitate vestri ordinis et communis observantiæ sunt provide ordinata, consummando provisæ concorditer acceptetis, ut sub tali concordia saluti vestræ accrescat felicius, et nostri executio officii in vestris collegiis planiori examine dirigatur. Dat. iij Idus Martii [March 13], anno Pontificatus etc. tertio (Ibid. fo. 81<sup>b</sup>).

VIII. RELAXATIO SEQUESTRATUS IN FRUCTIBUS BENEFICIORUM PRIORIS ET CONVENTUS GYSEBURNÆ (1289).

Officialis nostri Commissario salutem etc. Quia sequestratum in fructibus beneficiorum ecclesiasticorum Prioris et Conventus Giseburnæ, auctoritate nostra, per vos positum usque ad diem Mercurii prox. post festum B. Jacobi relaxavimus, id nuncietis interim relaxatum, ita quod Prior et Conventus prædicti in fructibus omnium beneficiorum suorum in nostra diocesi consistentium, sequestrato nostro vel Officialis nostri nullatenus obsistente, medio tempore libere administrent. Dat. apud Lanum v Nonas Julii [July 3], anno quarto (Ibid. fo. 81<sup>b</sup>).

IX. ACTA CONTRA FRATREM R. DE FURMEREY, CANONICUM DE GISEBURNE, LICENCIATUM AD ARTIOREM ORDINEM SE TRANSFERRE (1287).

Mem. quod cum Frater R. de Furmerey, qui nuper in Monasterio Giseburnæ Canonicus fuerat et professus, coram nobis J., permissione divina etc., apud Ripon in manerio nostro, die Veneris in Octabis Assumptionis B. M. V. [Aug. 22], anno gratiæ m<sup>o</sup>cc<sup>o</sup> octogesimo septimo, comparuisset, petens, quod non obstantibus renunciatione facta juris quod habuit in Mon. prædicto, promittendo se ingressurum religionem artiozem citra festum B. Martini in hyeme prox. futurum [Nov. 11], super quo licentiam per litteras sigillo communi Mon. prædicti optinuit consignatas, et juramento suo corporaliter præstito, de non repetendo jus quod habuit in Mon. prædicto, nisi totus Conventus vel major pars ejusdem eidem prædicto Fratri R. in repetitione hujusmodi consentiret, sibi ut Canonico gratiose prædictum Mon. concedatur, ac Prior, Frater Adam de Neuland, quondam Prior, Supprior, et tres alii de Mon. prædicto de mandato nostro pro se et toto Conventu, die et loco prædictis, comparentes, petitioni ejusdem Fratris R. se opposuissent, contra eundem renunciationem et juramentum prædicta, proprietatem, incontinentiam, inobedientiam, excommunicationem, irregularitatem et alia crimina proponendo, ac etiam firmiter et veraciter asserendo, quod si prædictus Frater R. ad prædictum Mon. rediret, moram inter ipsos ut Canonicus facturus, quam plures Can. de eodem Mon. propter periculum mortis, quam sibi timerent inferri per eundem, et religionis inquietationem, quæ prætextu adventus ipsius eveniret, essent penitus recessuri. præsumpserunt, eo ipso majoris excommunicationis sententiam incurrentes, absque nostra vel prædecessorum nostrorum licentia seu consensu, missarum solempnia et cætera divina officia non verentur publice et solempniter celebrare. In quibus etiam locis ad dampnationis suæ cumulum nostros parochianos ad divina officia audienda indifferenter admittunt, et alliciunt quantum possunt; ipsisque sacramenta ecclesiastica ministrare præsumunt, in nostrum et Ecclesiæ nostræ, necnon quarundam Ecclesiarum Parochialium, loco prædicto vicinarum, præjudicium manifestum, ac animarum periculum, et scandalum plurimorum. Volentes itaque super hiis, prout ad nos pertinet, remedium apponere oportunum, vobis firmiter injungendo mandamus, quatinus, receptis præsentibus, infra octo dies immediate sequentes, ad prædictum locum personaliter accedentes, eundem auctoritate nostra subponatis ecclesiastico interdicto, inhibentes publice in dicto loco et in Ecclesiis vicinis, tam illis qui prædictæ religionis Fratres se præterdunt, quam cæteris quibuslibet nostris parochianis, ne in dicto loco sic prophano divina præsumant celebrare officia quomodolibet, vel audire, aut alicui sacramentum quodcumque ecclesiasticum ministrare, donec ad hæc nostra vel succ. nostrorum auctoritas rite accesserit vel consensus, seu de indulto Sedis Apostolicæ, cujus prætextu præmissa excercere valeant, nobis appareat evidenter, sub pœna excommunicationis majoris, quam in omnes et singulos contravenientes, peremptoria monitione præmissa, per vos auctoritate nostra in genere proferri volumus et in scriptis. Mandantes nichilominus quatinus de nominibus contravenientium in præmissis cum exacta diligentia inquiretis. 2. Littera directa Officiali Archidiaconi Clyvelandæ ad interdicendum Capellam S. Hildæ sub parco de Kyldale (1814-5).

Willelmus etc., dilecto filio, Officiali Archidiaconi Clyvelandæ, salutem etc. Quia per certificatorium vestrum, nuper nobis transmissum, evidenter apparet, quod quædam Capella, quæ dicitur S. Hildæ sub parco de Kyldale, infra parochiam Ecclesiæ de Kyldale, nostræ dioc., absque auctoritate vel consensu diocesani ibidem constructa extitit, nulla dote vel saltem insufficiente penitus assignata eidem, quodque non solum in ipsius Parochialis Ecclesiæ de Kildale, set et aliarum Ecclesiarum vicinarum, ex causis notoriis et legitimis cederet in præjudicium manifestum, si in dicta Capella, quin potius ædificio profano, cantaria permittatur haberi. Attendentes insuper quod sicut non alii quam sacrati Domino sacerdotes debent missarum solempnia celebrare, sic nec in locis profanis, aut aliis Domino nullatenus consecratis nec a Pontificibus delibatis, cum sanctius sit missarum solempnia non audire, quam præter urgentem et summam necessitatem in locis huiusmodi, absque prælati licentia vel consensu, divina audire officia, vel etiam celebrare, prout sanctorum patrum manifesta edocent instituta, ne transgressores sacerdotum canonum, ad quorum observationem ex officii nostri debito astringimur, videamur sub dissimulatione<sup>1</sup> pertransire, coniventibus oculis, inpunitos, prædictam Capellam, sive domum potius profanam, S. Hildæ nominatam, exnunc ex causis præmissis et aliis legitimis suspendimus, et ecclesiastico supponimus interdicto. Mandantes vobis et in virtute obedientiæ firmiter injungentes, quatinus proximo die dominico post receptionem præsentium, et aliis dominicis et festivis subsequentibus, tam in Ecclesia Parochiali de Kyldale prædicta, quam in cæteris Ecclesiis evicinis, prædictam Capellam sic suspensam esse et interdictam, intra missarum solempnia publice nuncietis, et faciatis per alios nunciari. 4. Confirmatio electionis Supprioris et Conventus de Gyseburne.

In Dei nomine Amen. Quia examinata electione celebrata in Monasterio de Gyseburne, nostræ dioc., per Suppriorem et Conventum ejusdem de Fratre Roberto de Wylton in Priorem ejusdem Mon., vacantis per cessionem Fratris Willelmi de Middelburgh, ultimi Prioris ejusdem, licet in processu ejusdem electionis aliqui defectus calumpniati fuerint, volentes dictorum eligentium parcere simplicitati et gratiam præferre rigori, de benignitate nostra defectus, si qui sint in processu prædicto, auctoritate nostra ordinaria sup[p]lentes dictam

6. Pro pensione constituenda ratione novæ creationis Prioris de Gysburne.

Willelmus etc., dilectis filiis, Priori et Conventui de Gysburne, nostræ dioc., salutem etc. Cum simus in parte sollicitudinis pastoralis divinæ clementiæ dispositione vocati circa ea quæ [ad] relevationem tanti oneris rationabiliter sunt inventa, studiose servare nos convenit morem fidelissime vestustatis; cum itaque a nostris prædecessoribus a multis retro temporibus provide sit obtentum, et a tempore cujus non existit memoria laudabili consuetudine observatum, quod in profectione Abbatum et Priorum nostræ dioc., per eosdem et suos Conventus constituendæ sint personis per prælatum nominandis certæ annuæ pensiones, ut prælatus, ad supportationem oneris sibi incumbentis, idoneos habere valeat suis obsequiis insistentes, devotionem vestram monemus et hortamur in Domino, quatinus dilecto clerico nostro familiari, Magistro Henrico de Wylton, nostro Cancellario, quem ad hoc specialiter vobis duximus nominandum juxta præmissam Ecclesiæ nostræ consuetudinem constituatis, et etiam per vestras patentes litteras concedatis certam annuam pensionem, quæ secundum vires facultatum vestri Mon. et dantes deceat et recipienti utilis ac fructuosa existat, nobisque merito grata esse debeat pariter et accepta, donec eidem de beneficio Aprilis [March 23], anno Gratiae millesimo ccc<sup>mo</sup> vicesimo, et Pontificatus nostri quarto. Mem. quod constituerunt præfato Magistro Henrico annuam pensionem c s. (Ibid. fo. 236).

ET VENDENDI UNUM CORRODIUM, CONCESSA

Willelmus etc., dilectis filiis, Priori et Conventui Mon. de Giseburne, nostræ dioc., salutem etc. Infortunia varia, quæ per Scotos in combustione, ut intelleximus, maneriorum vestrorum et rerumstrarum depredatione sustinuistis, prouth dolor, non est diu, ac onera æris alieni quæ vos premunt nimis, ut credimus excessive, aliasque adversitates quæ vobis indies occurrunt, pro compassionis affectu perpendentes, volentes etiam statui vestro prospicere, quantum in Domino fore viderimus faciendum, ut annuam pensionem quadraginta solidorum Magistro Johanni de Wirkesale, Clerico, pro obsequiis suis vobis impendendis, concedere, et unum corrodium personæ ydoneæ vendere valeatis. Dumtamen ad minus Mon. vestri incomodum pro pecunia redigenda ad usus vestros necessarios alia Domus vestræ bona minime possitis alienare, super quibus vestras coram Deo conscientias oneramus, liberam vobis in Domino concedimus facultatem. Valete. Dat. Ebor. Idus Februarii [Feb. 13], anno Gratiae millesimo ccc<sup>mo</sup> vicesimo primo, et Pontificatus nostri quinto (Ibid. fo. 237<sup>b</sup>).

<sup>1</sup> At this period the Priory seems to have been reduced to very great straits. On the second of the Calends of May (April 30), 1323, the Archbishop, notwithstanding an order he had made to the contrary, gave them leave to sell two or three corrodies, and to let the church of Brunne, now Kirkburn, for one year (Ibid., fo. 241<sup>b</sup>). Notwithstanding this help they still had to come to the Archbishop for further assistance. On the sixth of the Calends of April (March 27), 1327, he granted the Canons licence to sell three corrodies, and to let the church of Brunne super Wald' for two years (Ibid., fo. 246). The sale of the fruits of the church of Brunne seems to have been the usual resource the Canons of Guisborough had recourse to when in difficulties. In the spring of 1314 they had permission from the Archbishop to let them for two years to Sir Hugh de Driffeld, priest, and Reginald de Croxden (Reg. Greenfield, ii. 117<sup>b</sup>).

XXVIII. NEW TAXATION OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PRIORY AFTER THE SCOTCH INVASION (1328).

Edwardus, Dei gratia Rex Angliæ, Dominus Hiberniæ, et Dux Aquitaniæ, venerabili in Cristo patri, W., eadem gratia Archiepiscopo Ebor., Angliæ Primati, salutem. Supplicaverunt nobis dilecti nobis in Cristo Priores de Gysbourngh, Newburgh, Kirkham, Malton et Marton, per petitionem suam coram nobis et consilio nostro in Parlamento nostro exhibitam, quod cum tam spiritualia quam temporalia sua per frequentes accessus Scotorum, inimicorum et rebellium nostrorum, in diocesi vestra, in tantum sint destructa et vastata, quod ad decimam nobis per ipsos una cum Clero de provincia vestra concessam secundum antiquam taxationem, nobis de eisdem prestare non sufficiunt, volunt<sup>1</sup> dicta spiritualia et temporalia sua de novo taxari. Nos eorum supplicationi annuere volentes in hac parte, vobis mandamus quod aliquos viros fidedignos ad spiritualia et temporalia dictorum Priorum in dicta diocesi vestra, de quibus decima dari consuevit, supervidenda, et ad eadem spiritualia et temporalia sic per Scotos destructa, et quæ prius ea occasione de novo taxata non fuerint, taxanda assignetis. Ita quod decima prædicta de spiritualibus et temporalibus ipsorum Priorum prædictis secundum dictam taxationem ad opus nostrum levare possit. Et Thesaurarium et Barones nostros de Scaccario de taxatione illa sub sigillo vestro distincte et aperte reddatis certificados, hoc breve eis remittentes. Teste me ipso apud Ebor., secundo die Martii anno regni nostri nostri secundo (1327-8).

Præcentore, et Thoma de Novavilla, Juris Civilis Professore (cum illa clausula, quod si vos omnes non interesse contigerit, tres vel duo vestrum etc.), specialiter deputati, obedientiam, reverentiam et honorem. Mandatum vestrum reverendum nuper recepimus in hæc verba:—

Quæ omnia et singula paternitati vestræ reverendæ significamus per præsentis, sigillis nostris consignatas. Conservet vos Ecclesiæ et populo suo Deus per tempora longiora. Dat. apud Gysburgh, Idus Junii [June 13], anno Gratiae supradicto (1328).

Mem quod ij Nonas Julii [July 7], eodem anno, apud Otteley, Thesaurarius et Barones ac Abbas B. Mariæ Ebor., Collectores, fuerunt certificati super ista taxatione modo quo supra (Ibid. fo. 250).

Valete. Dat. apud Thorpe juxta Ebor., iij Nonas Aprilis [April 3], anno Gratiae m<sup>o</sup>ccc<sup>mo</sup> xxxij, et Pontificatus nostri quintodecimo (Ibid. fo. 255).

XXX. LICENTIA CONCESSA PRIORI ET CONVENTUI
MON. DE GISBOURNE MANUMITTENDI RO-
BERTUM FILIUM ROBERTI DE EST COTOM
ETC. (1347-8).

Willelmus etc., dilectis filiis, Priori et Conventui Mon. de Gisbourne, nostræ dioc., salutem etc. Fusis ex parte vestra nobis precibus favorabiliter inclinati, ut Robertum, filium Roberti de Est Cotum, vestrum et Monasterii vestri nativum sive servum, licite manumittere valeatis; et eo præsertim liberius, cum per hoc conditio servilis, tam ipsius Roberti, quam generis sui et progeniei, quæ hactenus per nullos indubium fuerat revocata, in utilitatem vestram vestrique Mon. evidentiùs comprobetur,<sup>1</sup> et temporibus præfuturis poterit et merito comprobari, vobis tenore præsentium licentiam concedimus specialem. W. etc., dilectis filiis, Priori et Conventui Mon. de Gysburne, salutem etc. Ut unum corrodium consistens in portionibus infrascriptis: viz., in uno pane conventuali, una lagena cervisiæ<sup>2</sup> conventualis, uno pane opendali,<sup>3</sup> et una lagena cervisiæ<sup>2</sup> serjantorum, Roberto Coco de Lithom, et Johannæ uxori suæ, percipiendum de Domo vestra ad terminum vitæ eorundem Roberti et Johannæ, et eorum alterius diutius viventis, pro pretio competenti, licite et impune vendere valeatis. Dat. apud Cawode xix die mensis Octobris, A.D. m<sup>o</sup>ccc<sup>mo</sup> l j, et Pontificatus nostri decimo (Ibid. fo. 172<sup>b</sup>).

<sup>3</sup> This word, which is clearly written, seems to defy explanation. As the Conventual beer is contrasted with the Serjeants' beer, so the Conventual bread is with the panis opendalis, from which it may be inferred that it was some kind of inferior bread given to servants.

XXXII. DISPENSATIO FRATRIS WILLELMI DE ALLERTON, UT TENEATUR REDDERE SERVITIUM PER TERMINUM (1357-8).

In Cristo carissimi. Noveritis nos litteras Cancellarii, Procuratorum, Doctorum et Magistrorum Universitatis Oxoniæ alias recepisse, in quibus quidem litteris, ut concepimus, inserta est contra vos querimonia valde gravis, et omnibus legis divinæ et honoris ecclesiasticæ zelatoribus plurimum odiosa. Ex serie revera earundem litterarum concepimus, quod vos novum genus molestationis contra aliam Universitatem Oxoniæ præsumptuose jam tarde attemptastis, intendentes, quantum in vobis est, Universitatis privilegia violare, perjurium auctorizare, et sacræ theologiæ professionem venerabilem retardare, impedire et obfuscare. Licet enim dudum Fratrem Johannem Thwyngæ, vestri Prioratus Canonicum, ad generale studium destinastis, ipsumque ad studendum in theologia, et ad gradum scolasticum ascendere licentiastis; ipsum tamen jam sacræ

Super quo revera mirari non sufficimus, quo capite et qua fonte talia presumpsistis, dum tamen eidem incipiendi licentiam concessistis, omnia alia necessaria ad gradum accidentia sibi concedebatis. Concesso quippe uno principali, conceduntur et omnia accessoria, sine quibus illud complicari non potest. Propter quam quidem molestationem et Universitatis inquietationem Cancellarius et Procuratores, ac alii Doctores et Scholares Universitatis, nobis de oportuno remedio supplicarunt. Nos igitur, ad quos omnis et omnimoda jurisdictio ecclesiastica sede Archiepiscopali [vacante] dinoscitur pertinere, volentes tantæ temeritati obviare, et malitiam hujusmodi opprimere exquisitam, vos in virtute obedientiæ requirimus et monemus, quatenus præfatum Concanonicum vestrum ad apicem Doctoratus, suis poscentibus meritis et virtutibus, assumptum per annum in theologia legere, et opus inceptum perficere, ac inviolabiliter servare quod juratorie promisit, libere permittatis. Scientes quod si monitionibus et requisitionibus hujusmodi non parueritis, cum ipso confratre vestro auctoritate nostra ordinaria faciemus, et pro eo ordinabimus, sicuti justum fuerit, consonum rationi et indubie contra vos qui talia temere attemptastis, tanquam contra auctores et procuratores, sive causatores perjurii, ultione canonica procedemus. Et de eo quod facere in hac parte proposueritis, nos per litteras vestras, per latorem præsentium nobis transmittendas, absque dilatione aliqua reddatis certiores. Script. etc. (Ibid. fo. 366).

The first two membranes, which measure 6½ inches across, are written on both sides in another hand than the rest of the Roll. The heading of each entry is rubricated. The remaining membranes, which are in a later hand, are ten inches across. The entire length of the Roll is twenty feet minus two inches, and it consists of ten membranes in all. <sup>1</sup> Geoffrey of Yarm became Vicar of Marton in 1303 (Graves's Cleveland, p. 453n.).

<sup>2</sup> A form of the name Vere. In the Rievaulx Chartulary (p. 400) Simon de Ver is mentioned as the owner of property in Thormodeby, abutting on land given by William Brito to that Abbey. Brito also gave the fishery there, which he had bought of Henry Falconer. Mr. A. S. Ellis's surmise in the Yorkshire Archæol. Journal (iv. 243) that these Veres were descended from a daughter and coheir of Robert, son of Erneis, the son-in-law of John Ingelram of Ayresome (No. 1117), is confirmed by a charter, by which Simon de Ver granted to Guisbrough half a carucate of land in the town and territory of Eresom, no doubt inherited from the Ingelrams. He bore on his seal three sizefoils (Torre's Collection, B.M. Egerton MSS. 2573, fo. 3). The family seem to have also borne the name of Gouxle. Walter de Ver, son of Adam de Gouxle, granted to the Priory of Bridlington the church of All Saints of Gouxle, Goxhill in Lincolnshire (the church at the Yorkshire Goxhill being under the invocation of St. Giles), in the presence of Richard, Abbat of Selby, and Jordan, Abbat of Thornton.

Seal:—SIGILLVM: WALTERI DE VER. Boar pass<sup>t</sup> to the sinister. The seal attached to deed, confirming the grant of the church of Gouxle in Lindeseia, bore, "A boare pass<sup>t</sup>, his head to the dexter (sic) p<sup>te</sup> of the escocheon" (Dodsworth MSS. xc. 118, 144). Simon de Veer has attributed to him in Nicolas's Roll, temp. Hen. III. (p. 12), "de goules trois sixueilles d'ermyn." The sixfoils are said to be argent in a Roll published in the Archæologia (xxxix. 401), and said to have been compiled 1280-1300. In St. George's Roll (Ibid. 420) the flowers are drawn as cinquefoils. May not these sixfoils or cinquefoils and the star occurring in the first quarter of the arms of the Earls of Oxford represent the same original? I have only once met the verres, the common badge of the Oxford family, as the Vere arms. In an heraldic roll Robert le Ver bore according to Mr. Th. Jenyns's Booke of Arms (Antiquary, ii. 97), "iij testz de singler d'or." The pedigree of Simon de Ver, who was then under age, is recorded on the De Banco Roll, Trin. Term, 4 Hen. III. (1220) in a suit, Rex v. The Prior of Thornholm, about the last presentation to the church of Borteford or Boteford in Lincolnshire. It appears

Adam de Pontais and Avicia de Lascelles, his wife, granted to the Monks of Fountains, that they should pay to Philip de la Ley and Maude, his wife, during her life for dower, all the forinsec service due from their land of Kyrkebywiske, which the Monks held of Adam and Avice, so that after Maude's death the whole service should revert to them and Avice's heirs. Roger, son of Picot de Lascelles, confirmed to the same Monks whatever they had of his fee in Kirkby Wiske, and in Michaelmas, 1251, Picot, son of Roger de Lascelles, made a similar confirmation regarding their property in Newton-on-Swale by Lemying (Fountains Chart.
